 SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

STENCIL PLATES, when handsomely executed, present the cheapest and best mode of advertising that can be adopted. This is the experience of all who use them.

STENCIL PLATES OF EVERY PATTERN cut at this establishment in a style unequalled by any other workmen in California.

Merchants and others are invited to call and examine specimens in proof of the above assertion.

Orders from abroad, as well as those given in person, promptly executed and forwarded. Parties sending orders by letter are particularly requested to WRITE PLAINLY and give the EXACT SPACE THEY WISH THE LETTERS TO OCCUPY.

By close application and superior execution of work during an experience of thirteen years, Mr. TRUWORTHY has extended his business to its present proportions. His present facilities for rapid and tasteful execution of all work in his line are far superior to those of any other in this State or in the Union.

Having purchased all the late John Hall's Stencil Tools, Plates and Impressions, and everything pertaining to his business, I am prepared to furnish his customers with fac-similes of his work.

Sole Proprietor of the

PATENT ENDLESS ROPEWAY

(Wire Tramway) for transporting Ores, etc., over mountainous places.

Agent for Pacific Wire and W. R. Manufacturing Company, of California, —AND OF—

Richard Johnson & Nephew, Wire Manufacturers, of Manchester, England.

MINING COMPANIES, FERRYMEN, AND SHIPMASTERS

Are informed that Wire Rope can be furnished them considerably under the cost of Hemp or Manila, of equal strength. Wire Rope does not stretch or shrink by change of weather. It weighs 40 per cent. less than Hemp, is less than one-half the diameter; is easily spliced under all circumstances; is as pliable for equal strength; and is from four to five times as durable as the best Hemp or Manila Rope.

For Hoisting from Deep Mines, the economy of its application is immense.

The Wire from which my Ropes are made is manufactured in San Francisco by the Pacific Wire Manufacturing Company, from the very best of Stock.

NOTE.—STEEL WIRE ROPE weighs about six-tenths of Iron Rope, or one-third of Hemp of equal strength. Its extreme lightness saves largely in freight to remote places, and its great durability recommends it for hoisting purposes, etc. See table of comparative weights, strength, and sizes of Steel Wire Rope.		Iron Wire Rope.		Hemp Rope.		Working load of each.

ENDLESS WIRE ROPEWAY,

(Wire Tramway) secured by numerous patents.

By means of the Ropeway, ores, rock and other material can be transported over mountainous and difficult places, where it would be impossible or exceedingly expensive to build a road. It can deliver from five to fifty tons per hour, according to capacity; and being carried upon posts above snow and other obstructions, can be used when other modes of transportation would be impossible.

PREFATORY.

It is an accepted fact that a reliable Directory is a trustworthy indication of the growth and prosperity of a city, generally, as well as the increase or decrease of its population. Comparing, then, the data of the past year's growth, as exhibited in the pages of the present volume, with that of the year 1874, a very remarkable progress in the different departments of commercial wealth, and an increase of population will be observed, unparalleled in former years of this city's history.

The number of references contained in the present volume is 127,692, as follows: General Register, 87,192 (of which 77,206 are names of male residents); Business Directory, 25,000; Appendix, 15,500. The number of names in 1874 was 65,092; in 1875, 77,206; increase 12,114, or nearly twenty per cent. The population of the city is estimated at 230,132, a gain since March, 1874, of 23,432, or about fifteen per cent. At this rate the population in 1880 will be 462,875. Estimating the population on the basis of the number of names in the present volume, 77,206, and assuming that each name represents three in the population, it would give 231,618 as the result. These figures may be regarded as a reasonable estimate when the fact is stated that this ratio is much less than generally accepted in Eastern cities. In Chicago it is three and one half, in St. Louis four and one half, and in New York five. These figures may answer for the localities to which they refer, but for this city where so many peculiarities surround the different elements which compose our population, they would be undoubtedly too high. The article on population, on page 58, contains valuable data on this subject to which attention is respectfully invited.

The number of buildings erected during the year ending February 28, is 1,389, of which 71 are of brick, at a cost of $4,411,000, and 1,318 wood, $4,933,800; total, $9,344,800. If the amounts disbursed in improving the water front and public streets and in beautifying our parks and private residences be added, the aggregate amount for improvements of all kinds for 1874-5, will exceed $10,000,000. In addition to several extensive blocks for business purposes completed during the year, an unusual number of elegant and commodious private residences have been erected that greatly exceed in beauty and cost those of former years. The total number of buildings comprised within the city limits is 23,700, of which 4,300 are brick.

The expense of maintaining the Municipal Government for the year ending June 30, 1874, is $3,830,408, including the expenses of the Street Department. The Bonded Debt of the city, March 10, 1875, is $3,725,000, exclusive of the Montgomery Avenue Bonds, $1,500,000.

The Introductory and General Review present a diary of interesting local events of the year, brief notices of Schools, public and private, descriptions of Public Buildings, Hotels, Public Parks, and the operations of the different Railroads and Steamship Lines, together with references to several other subjects worthy of special mention, and historical data of present interest, well calculated to make the book a valuable work of reference to future generations. But the most interesting features of this department are valuable contributions on the Population of the City; Meteorology and Climate of San Francisco from 1851 to 1875, by Henry Gibbons, M.D.; the Current History and Progress of the City; a Review of its Manufacturing interests, and operations of the Public Schools, 1874-5, by Prof. E. Knowlton; Hospitals, public and private, by Henry Gibbons, Jr. M.D.; and a statement of the cost and number of buildings erected during the past year and the aggregate number within the city limits.

The Appendix contains a variety of valuable information connected with the history of the city, and the Consolidation Act with the amendments thereto, to which are added a number of important laws adopted by the Legislature of the State (Session 1873-4), including those regulating the Fire Department, abolishing the City Hall Commissioners, regulating the levying and collection of taxes, organizing a Board of Health, providing for public Water Works, the new Senatorial and Assembly Districts, Compulsory School Law, etc., each of which is arranged under its appropriate head, to which has been added an Analytical Index of the whole, which will facilitate reference thereto. There will be also found in this department of the work a large number of references to the different organizations in this city, embracing lists of the Federal, State, and Municipal Officers, notices of local Societies and Associations, Churches, Military Organizations, Incorporations, etc. Attention is invited to a new and corrected Map of the City and County of San Francisco, which for reliability and beauty of execution has never been equaled on this coast, and a revised street Directory, including the new system of numbering the buildings, thoroughly revised, and carefully compared with each street and locality named therein.

The present volume of THE SAN FRANCISCO DIRECTORY has been printed from new material, cast expressly for the purpose, by Miller & Richard, Edinburgh, and supplied through their agents in this city, Messrs. Read, Brand & Co. A simple glance through its pages is only necessary to direct attention to a style of type which for beauty and symmetry it would be difficult to excel. The arrangements for the future publication of the work are on a scale commensurate with its important character. An extensive and well-appointed Composing Room has been established, with abundant resources for the rapid execution and prompt publication of future issues.

The compiler respectfully tenders his acknowledgments for many favors extended by the different public officers, and other gentlemen who have been applied to for information for the work. To his numerous friends for their liberal patronage, and to Messrs. Francis & Valentine by whom the typographical department was executed, he would especially tender his thanks. The seventeenth volume of THE SAN FRANCISCO DIRECTORY will be issued in March, 1876.

PROGRESS OF THE CITY, 1874-5.

CURRENT HISTORY.

In May, 1850, the City of San Francisco first entered upon its formal and legally-recognized existence as an Independent Municipality. The County of San Francisco had been duly organized the month preceding. For upward of six years the two distinct governments contemporaneously maintained independent administrations within the same geographical limits. On the first day of July, 1856, the Consolidation Act, unifying the two under the name and title of "The City and County of San Francisco," terminated the needless and wasteful independence of each, and thenceforth identified their interests and history. Although but nineteen years have passed since the accomplishment of this consolidation, the city, in all material interests and historic importance, is so incomparably the greater of the two civic existences then merged into one, that we may rightly—in fact, we must, necessarily—reckon from its independent birthday in determining the age of the present municipality. Twenty-five years old, then, in May of the present year, is the exact, legal age of the Pacific Metropolis, and her quarter century of unexampled prosperity has most grandly culminated in this final, crowning year, whose history the best attempt can but most imperfectly narrate.

AREA OF THE CITY AND COUNTY.—The total land area of the city and county is about forty-two square miles, or, more exactly, twenty-seven thousand acres. The total value of real estate, according to the Assessor's roll, for the current fiscal year, 1874-5, is $122,957,320. The average value per acre upon this basis is $4,554, with an upward tendency fully equaling any previous known rate of advance. The value of improvements upon real estate, according to the same authority, is estimated at $39,123,285. The valuation of personal property is $102,035,689, inclusive of money, which is given at only $4,369,593, an amount obviously ridiculously low, and probably falling seventy-five per cent below the truth. The total valuation is $264,116,294, an estimate so low that tax payers have less cause for grumbling at any unusually high rate of taxation. The rate of taxation, including State, city and county, amounted to a total of $2.09.9. [For Tables of Assessment and Rates of Taxation, Revenue, and Expenditures, Funded Debt, etc., see page 56.]

POPULATION.—Universally recognized as the most infallible index of public prosperity, the statistics of population command the first place in public interest. March 1, 1875, San Francisco contained two hundred and thirty thousand inhabitants, an increase of nearly thirty thousand, or about fifteen per cent upon the population at the corresponding date of 1874. [For a detailed and classified statement of the population, March 1, 1875, see page 58.] The attractions which induced this unprecedented growth were neither evanescent nor unsubstantial. While speculation of the fiercest kind enlivened the closing weeks of the year, the preponderating causes of this most rapid increase, relatively, which the city has known since 1848-9, were agriculture, mining, and manufacturing, ever the most substantial foundations of the permanent prosperity of any State or community. Indeed, it is a fact well known in political economy that the progress or prosperity of any chief city not only accompanies, but largely results from and therefore reliably indicates, that of the state or of the country of which it remains the industrial and commercial metropolis. Hence, the commercial capital becomes not only the political economist's self-registering thermometer to record the actual agricultural and manufacturing condition of to-day, but, in a sense equally true and fully as important, his business barometer to truthfully foretell the commercial and financial outlook for the immediate future. So intimately interwoven and closely identified do they become that one finds it well-nigh impossible to write a separate history of either.

In this sense, then, the record of San Francisco manifestly assumes a threefold, nay, even a tenfold, significance as largely indicating, if not actually constituting, not only that of the whole of California but of the entire Pacific Coast, from Central America even to Alaska.

And, beyond all this, the fast-multiplying steam and sail lines, both domestic and foreign, already prosperously established or in immediate contemplation; the already considerable, constantly-increasing and prospectively immense commercial interests; and, in some cases, international relations between the United States and China, Japan, the Sandwich and South Sea Islands—not to mention South and Central America and the Mexican Coast—nearly all of which must inevitably center at or find transit through San Francisco, combine to enhance her present and especially her prospective importance to an almost immeasurable degree.

Among other and nearer tributary sources of her wealth and power one may catalogue the subjugation of thousands of acres of previously wild land; the reclamation of leagues of long-submerged marsh or tule; the extension and development of scores of old mines, and the opening of hundreds of new ones; the founding of dozens of new towns; the erection of new counties; the extension of railways already existing, the completion of new ones, and the projection of others, with the establishment of new steamship and sailing lines, all of which act and react, directly and indirectly, as so many vigorously-throbbing arteries and strongly-pulsating veins, constantly expanding their one central heart, the grand fountain and the one intense focus of the swiftly-circulating financial flood which constitutes the commercial life of the whole vast community—the body politic, social, industrial, and civil.

BUILDINGS, RENTS, ETC.—Necessarily and closely connected with, or immediately springing from, this universally rapid increase of both transient and permanent population, already instanced, the resulting scarcity both of business buildings and of tenements, with the consequent advance of rents, stimulated building in both these departments to an extent previously unknown. The location, number, size, style, character, and cost of some of the more noteworthy of these structures appear more in detail elsewhere in this article.

MUNICIPAL COMPACTNESS.—Under this head we rank the occupation and improvement of lots previously vacant of any building, or cumbered by mere shells or shanties of the shabbiest construction or most transient duration. Many structures of this description, together with a few more substantial of the pioneer buildings, some antiquated by long use, and more grown insufficient by the increase of surrounding business, have given place to broad, substantial, and lofty fabrics, proof alike against fire, flood, or earthquake, at least as far as human skill and strength can make them so. Along and near California and Market streets, with some of the adjacent streets, this substantial improvement and solid compacting of the more prominent business quarters have become most noticeably apparent. Under improved methods of binding, bracing, strapping, compacting, and otherwise unifying large or lofty buildings, the seeming apprehension of earthquakes, which for several years rarely allowed a block or a building to rise above the fourth story, has so far subsided, or so completely vanished, that five and even six stories have become increasingly common, while the new metropolitan leviathan, the Palace Hotel, starting from two stories underground, lifts its huge and overshadowing bulk seven full stories above. This, however, as a general thing, may, possibly, result from the fact that the shrewd land owners, accidentally looking upward, have suddenly discovered that their titles extend farther in that direction than they had previously suspected, and that, under the stimulus of rapidly-increasing values upon and near the surface of the earth, they are fast availing themselves of their newly-discovered rights heavenward. Of one most encouraging consideration in connection with this they may rest absolutely certain, they will encounter far less competition in that direction.

TERRITORIAL EXPANSION.—So closely connected with the last point as, in large measure to grow out of it, stands the fact of a marginal growth, or circumferential outpush, which, in rapidity, quality, extent, and value, also far outranks that of any equal preceding period.

The general occupation, with the unusually substantial and costly improvement of hundreds of previously vacant lots, within, upon, and immediately beyond the suburbs, especially along the southern and western margins of the city, have not only absolutely but relatively far surpassed those of any former year.

Among the most conclusive indications of the city's vitality, elasticity, and seemingly unlimited capability of expansion, we may take the fact that the extreme boundary line of those portions built with any approach to city-like compactness, including the western and southern additions, but leaving out such a remote, though important, suburb as South San Francisco—almost a city in itself—is now fully seven and a half miles long, an increase of at least fifteen per cent over that of 1873. At this rate of marginal expansion—and the chances are that the ratio of growth will increase rather than diminish—the city will double her present circumference in less than five years.

Real Estate, Building, Etc.

Since the beginning of 1873, the upward tendency of real estate has steadily increased. In number, magnitude, and price, the aggregate sales and ruling rates of 1874 far surpassed those of the previous year, while during the opening quarter of the current year, both in the absolute number of sales and in the relative prices obtained, each month has witnessed a notable gain upon the preceding. This very marked and constantly-progressive appreciation has characterized not only sites for business building, but to an even greater degree has enhanced the values of choice suburban lots for private residences.

We present, herewith, a brief review of the real estate transactions in the City and County of San Francisco during the past year (1874), particularly noting a few of the heavier sales, ranging from $40,000 up, as shown by the valuable and reliable Real Estate Circular, published by Thomas Magee. January: Lot at the northwest corner of Pine and Leavenworth streets, one hundred and eighty-seven and one half feet by one hundred and thirty-seven and one half, sold to W. C. Ralston for $40,000; conveyance of lot, one hundred and three and one fourth feet by one hundred and thirty-seven and one half, at the northeast corner of Pine Street and Van Ness Avenue, $45,000—total sales during the month, $1,082,118. February: East side of Sansom Street, lot with improvements, $43,500; three lots on the south side of Sacramento Street, between Sansom and Battery, with the three-story brick building, $150,000—total sales for the month, $1,611,697. March: On the east side of Battery Street, south of Sacramento, lot forty-five and three fourths feet by one hundred and two and one half, with two two-story brick stores, granite fronts, $50,000; the gore lot, one hundred and twenty-nine and three fourths feet on Market Street, one hundred and ten on Post, eighteen and one fourth on Montgomery, and ninety-seven and one half feet deep, $300,000, which, as the lot contains but about sixty-nine thousand square feet, would be $43.48 per square foot—one of the highest prices ever paid here for land—total for the month, $1,975,616. April: North side of California Street, sixty-seven and one half feet west of Sansom, lot forty feet by eighty, with three-story and basement brick, $150,000; two other large sales on California Street this month of $65,000 and $52,500; also lot on the north side of Howard Street, west of Seventh, fifty-vara, transferred—price put in deed, $85,000—sales for the month, $1,697,551. May: In this month there were only two individual sales exceeding $40,000; one on the east side of Montgomery Street, lot twenty-five feet by eighty-seven and one half, with three-story brick, $52,000, and fractional parts of lots on Montgomery Street, $52,500—total for the month, $1,165,554. June: Southeast corner of California and Mason streets, one half of fifty-vara lot, $45,000; lot northeast corner of Market, Sutter, and Sansom streets, with three-story brick, $130,000; northeast corner of Beale and Bryant streets, with one-story brick warehouse, $60,000; undivided half of the same, resold, $40,000; a $60,000 sale on Market Street, and one on Kearny Street of $45,000—sales during the month, $1,588,867. July: The heaviest sale this month was lot on the north side of Bush Street, sixty-eight and three fourths feet by one hundred and thirty-seven and one half, with building, $155,000; there were also seven other important sales, ranging from $48,700 to $80,000—total for the month, $2,208,211. August: The most important sales in August were, South Beach blocks Nos. 23, 24 and 30, for $150,000; lot on the south side of Market Street, southwest of Sixth, twenty-five feet by ninety, $130,000, and nine other sales in different parts of the city averaging over $60,000 each—total for August, $3,074,193. September: The number of sales, reaching $40,000 this month, was only four. The heaviest of these was lot on the southeast corner of Montgomery and California streets, which sold for $410,000—sales for the month, $1,775,397. October: Lot on the south side of California Street, and west side of Sansom, $205,000; northwest corner of Post and Leavenworth streets, fifty-vara lot, $71,400; seven other heavy transactions this month, ranging from $41,000 to $70,000—sales for the month, $2,079,127. November: The heavy sales in November were ten, of which the most important was a $250,000 sale at the corner of Kearny and Post streets—total sales this month, $2,292,220. December: The twelve heaviest sales this month foot up $791,424; among these are, south side of Market Street, fifty feet by one hundred and seventy, through to Stevenson Street, with extra ten feet by seventy deep on Stevenson, $115,000; southwest corner of Market and Fremont streets, fifty-vara, old sale, $135,000—sales for the month, $3,343,352.

Recapitulation—January, $1,082,118; February, $1,611,697; March, $1,975,616; April, $1,697,551; May, $1,165,554; June, $1,588,867; July, $2,208,211; August, $3,074,193; September, $1,775,397; October, $2,079,127; November, $2,292,220; December, $3,343,352—total, $23,893,903. This grand total is nearly double that of either of the three years immediately preceding, which were—1873, $12,383,752; 1872, $13,127,458; 1871, $12,717,792. The number of sales during the year was three thousand eight hundred and fifty-four, averaging $6,199.76 each, while in 1873, there were three thousand one hundred and thirty-four sales of $3,951.42, against four thousand and sixteen sales averaging only $3,161.80 in 1871. The advance became more rapid and marked during the closing months of the year, when real estate, in the most favored localities, had increased in value from one hundred and fifty to two hundred per cent. From all the facts and figures which have been presented it is safe to say that there has been a general advance of at least sixty-five per cent. From present prospects, we can see no good reason to doubt that the sales of the present year will come well up to $40,000,000. The Mission sales show the greatest proportionate increase, amounting, in number to three hundred and twenty-eight, and in value, $1,613,901. Next are the sales in the Western Addition, where, although the number of sales, two hundred and eighty-two, is smaller, the increase in value of $1,703,872 is greater by nearly $100,000. In the one hundred-vara section of the city, although the number of sales exceeds that of 1873, by only eighty-six, yet the advance in value is $1,864,938. This large increase is owing, probably, more to the fact that the sales of this class were of larger properties, than to the positive increase in value.

Good property was never in more active demand or seized up with avidity when it is known that there is a possible chance of becoming the possessor. Sellers are more scarce than buyers, who stand ready to gobble up any good site that is put into the market at anything less than balloon prices. Sites for first-class residences, lying between California and Market, Stockton and Leavenworth streets, with a full depth of one hundred and thirty-seven and one half feet, readily command from $250 to $400 per front foot, and the tendency is still upward. Within three or four years it will probably reach from $400 to $600 per foot. In the tract bounded by California, Polk, Taylor, and Gough streets, land is also advancing and is now looking upward from $125 to $225 per front foot.

The location of the cemeteries, directly in the line of the city's western growth, is a serious drawback upon the value of real estate in that section, yet it is not unsafe to predict that, within the next decade, with the means of communication facilitated by the steam railroad, which will run along Fulton and D streets, on the north side of the Golden Gate Park, to the ocean, full depth lots will command from $50 to $100 per front foot, and that many of our finest suburban residences will be found along either side of the park, from Stanyan Street to Fortyninth Avenue. This railroad will bring the park, with its picnics grounds and rapidly-increasing attractions, and the ocean beach, within easy access, and cause them to speedily become the most popular places of Sunday and holiday resort to a large class of our citizens who would gladly bestow upon such a route their grateful patronage. While there has been such marked activity and buoyancy in the central and western part of the city, South Beach property has remained very nearly at a stand still, but few transactions having been recorded during the past four years, except the sale of some few lots for railroad purposes. This is not, however, a sure indication for the future. The continued prosperity of so large a portion of the city must eventually affect the whole, and it is not at all improbable, but, on the contrary quite likely, that the present year will witness advances in South Beach, which, although not so marked as in some more highly-favored portions of the city, will still be very gratifying to property owners in that section. During 1874 the Spring Valley Water Co. received one thousand one hundred and fifteen applications for new water communications to houses. A single application, in many instances, represented from two to ten or twelve houses, built together by one owner, as, for instance, applications from the Real Estates Associates, representing from six to twenty houses each. The number of new buildings and houses erected during the year, including the Palace Hotel, is one thousand three hundred and fifty-nine, and the work is still going on with undiminished vigor and rapidity.

FAVORED LOCALITIES FOR COSTLY RESIDENCES.—Every great city has its fashionable quarter wherein its wealthiest citizens delight to build palatial homes. New York has her Fifth Avenue; Boston her Beacon Hill; Chicago her Michigan Avenue; Cincinnati her Clifty and Walnut Hill suburbs; St. Louis her Lucas Place; New Orleans her Garden District, and San Francisco her Highland Terraces. In nearness to business centers, elevation above the city's noise and dust, clearness and constancy of sunshine, and, above all, in breadth, grandeur, and beauty of the panoramic view commanded, San Francisco presents hundreds of building sites whose multiplied advantages no great American city can even approximate. Within half a dozen blocks of the very business heart of the city, hundreds of acres of high plateaus, sloping summits, and crowning crests of an extensive range of commanding heights present unequalled combinations of retirement without distance—of country quiet within city bounds.

PALACE MANSION SITES.—Simultaneously with the erection of the mammoth and magnificent Palace Hotel, several of California's and San Francisco's leading millionaires have commenced the erection of palatial residences. The locality chosen includes the four blocks lying between Pine and Clay streets, on the south and north, and bounded by Powell and Hyde streets, on the east and west, respectively. Within this district of some fifteen squares or blocks, stretching along, upon, and near the culminating ridges or high plateaus, comprising the most commanding sites within the city limits, a group of mining monarchs, railway kings, and real-estate princes have purchased extensive and adjacent lots and commenced the erection of palatial mansions, which will presently transform that quarter into the Belgravia of San Francisco.

Ex-Governor Leland Stanford, President of the Central Pacific Railroad, has bought, and commenced building upon, the eastern half of the block at the northwest junction of California and Powell streets. This most slightly location commands a prospect of such rare extent and varied beauty as to almost constitute an artistic education in itself alone. Certainly, the Governor will never be able to hang upon the walls of his parlor views equaling these which its windows will constantly command. Of the utter indifference to cost which they must have attained who contemplates building in such localities, one may infer from one or two items of the preparatory cost. The value of the ground alone, four hundred and twelve feet, at $200 a front foot, rises, of course, to $82,400, while the grading necessary to suitably prepare the lot before it can receive even the first foundation stone, employed three hundred laborers for several weeks. Thus, this railway king will spend over $100,000 before beginning to lay the foundation. From such items one may readily estimate the cost of completing and furnishing the building itself.

The west half of the same block, Mark Hopkins, one of the Directors of the same road and Treasurer of both that and the Southern Pacific, has bought. Upon this he proposes the erection of a modest little mansion whose ultimate cost will, probably, run as far into the hundred thousands as his gubernatorial neighbor does into the millions.

Diagonally across that of the corner, at the junction of California and Taylor streets, Charles Crocker, another Central Pacific Director and President of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and a man of weight by whatever scale one may judge him, has purchased land whereon to found the last local habitation he will probably need.

Ex-Governor Milton S. Latham, President of the London and San Francisco Bank, has also bought a large lot southerly of these, on which to build his winter or city residence, in addition to his country seat, at Menlo Park, which cost considerably over a quarter of a million.

Opposite Crocker's, Gen. Colton owns and occupies a "White House," far more elegant than the President's at Washington. Among the other millionaire neighbors of the billionaire group which heads this poverty-stricken list, one may catalogue such names as those of Lloyd Tevis, Esq.; Jas. B. Haggin, Esq.; Senator J. P. Jones; Richard Tobin, Esq., and others.

On the western slope of this extensive Highland Terrace, at the northwest junction of Pine and Leavenworth streets, the most widely known of all the younger and more enterprising capitalists of the Pacific slope, the President of the Bank of California, the principal owner and builder of the Palace Hotel, William C. Ralston, Esq., has just completed his new city residence, whose notable architectural beauty, like that of his famous country seat at Belmont, is yet subordinated to the provision of a complete and perfect home.

These names by no means exhaust the list of those who have chosen sites within or near this Highland Terrace District or upon some of its bordering slopes. Nor are all the fine residences of the city concentrated here. In the Western Addition; along Van Ness Avenue; at the Mission; on Rincon Hill, as well as in other portions of the former, present, or prospective suburbs, stand elegant homes of wealth, already long known or just approaching completion. The city has evidently fairly entered upon its second stage, that in which prominent merchants and capitalists, conscious that their feet already stand upon the westerling slope of life, sensibly resolve to abate, if they do not wholly abandon, the exclusive pursuit of wealth and provide for themselves elegant homes while they have yet time to enjoy them. At this stage in the life of every city commences its true and permanent growth in architectural beauty and artistic attractions, and upon this era San Francisco may safely congratulate herself that she has now fairly entered.

New Buildings for the Year ending February 28, 1875.

The costly and palatial structures for both public and private purposes, already partially described or enumerated, by no means exhaust the list of notable new buildings erected during the year, or now in progress. Besides these several magnificent business blocks, or buildings, now rapidly approaching completion, are daily adding grandeur and beauty to the architectural attractions of our leading business thoroughfares, or favorite avenues of residence. The first of these in size, style, and cost, worthily standing nearest the city's financial center, is the SAFE DEPOSIT CO.'S BUILDING, on the southeast corner of Montgomery and California streets. The land, alone, occupies one hundred and thirty-seven and a half feet on Montgomery, by sixty-eight and three quarters on California. Four lofty stories, above a high and airy basement, make up its imposing fronts. Iron below and Freestone above, with all the combinations and modifications which these admirable materials admit, together with the most ingenious and substantial auxiliaries which science and experience could construct or devise, give the structure a strength, a solidity, a unity, and a beauty far surpassing those of any business building of equal size yet erected upon this coast. If the utmost strength of iron, stone, and brick can make any building proof against earthquake as well as fire, this building may claim those qualities in a most eminent degree. Obviously, the most notable feature of this magnificent building, especially to the army of self-appointed inspectors who personally superintended its construction from day to day, is the immense fire and burglar-proof vault, sixty-eight and three quarters feet by sixty, which occupies nearly one half the basement. In size, this is by far the largest in the world, while in strength it is simply enormous. In capacity it equals four thousand six hundred safes, or treasure boxes of the ordinary size, while its strength incomparably surpasses theirs. This mammoth depository, literally a complete iron and steel building in itself, is constructed of heavy iron beams and girders, covered with thick iron and steel plates. The construction is under charge of Messrs. Diebold, Norris & Co., of Canton, Ohio. This vault alone will cost $200,000. Besides this, there will be a large number of smaller vaults and safes in the building constructed by or from the manufactures of Urban & McNeal, and the Hall Safe and Lock Co., of Cincinnati, Ohio. Cost of land and building, $1,000,000.

Upon the northwest corner of Montgomery and Pine streets Messrs. Flood & O'Brien are erecting a large, four-story building with basement, to be occupied for stores, banking offices, etc. This frontage on Montgomery Street is one hundred and twenty-five feet; that on Pine Street, one hundred and thirty-seven and a half. The foundation is of stone; the two fronts of the lower story of iron, and above this a happy blending of iron and brick form the three upper stories. This edifice, when completed, will rank among the most valuable additions to our first-class business buildings, and will reflect great credit upon the architect, Mr. David Farquharson, as well as upon the builder, Mr. John Cochran. The building will contain no dark rooms, being well lighted on three sides from Montgomery, Pine, and Summer streets, while the inner tiers of rooms receive light from an inclosed court or square. The different floors will be reached by means of one of Hinckle's Patent Hydraulic Elevators, made by Philip Hinkle, at his manufactory on Mission Street, between Beale and Fremont. These elevators, from the simplicity of their construction, combined with ease and security of manipulation, which almost debar the possibility of accident, are rapidly coming into favor, and are being introduced into nearly all the larger new buildings where an elevator is desired. Cost of land and building, $700,000.

Another large four-story and basement brick building is being put up on the gore lot, bounded by Montgomery Avenue, Kearny, and Pacific streets. The ground dimensions are one hundred and forty-two feet on Montgomery Avenue, thirty on Kearny Street, and one hundred and thirty-seven and a half feet on Pacific. The building is owned by William Hood, of Sonoma, and will be occupied, the upper part of it, as a hotel, for which purpose it is already engaged by Mr. Hornblower, formerly of the New Orleans Hotel, at Sacramento, at a monthly rental of from $1,200 to $1,300. The first floor is to be divided into stores, and the basement reserved as a wine cellar, for the storage and sale of Sonoma wines. The building is being rapidly pushed forward, under the direction of Messrs. Portois & Taylor, and will probably be ready for occupation some time in June. Cost, about $120,000.

Messrs. Terrill & Slayten have commenced the erection, for Messrs. Meyerstein & Lowenberg, upon the southeast corner of Kearny and Post streets, of a four-story and basement brick, of which the basement is but just now completed. The probable cost of the building will be from $80,000 to $100,000.

The Hammam, or new Turkish Bath Building, on the west side of Dupont Street just north of Market. The lot belongs to Senator Jones of Nevada, from whom the enterprising builders of the Hammam have leased it for a term of ten years. The building is a perfect Hygienic Palace, exteriorly reproducing the outward peculiarities of the Turkish architecture, while its interior presents a most ingenious, artistic, and beautiful combination of the lighter, more airy, and more graceful effects resulting from the harmonious blending of the most striking and yet pleasing peculiarities of the Turkish, Moorish, and Arabesque styles of interior ornamentation. The designers of the interior decorations were Messrs. Franzeny & Tavernier, of Harpers' staff of artists, who have been for nearly a year past engaged in sketching and painting the more notable scenery upon our coast. The ceilings are to be beautifully frescoed, and the wooden scroll work, of which a large quantity of the most elaborate description is used in the interior decoration, is to be finished with blue, gold, and silver. The architect of the building is Charles Geddes. Total cost of lot and building, about $150,000.

Upon the southeast corner of California and Front streets, a large building, ninety-five feet by ninety-five, owned by Messrs. Shultz & Van Bergen, is nearly completed. The building raises three full stories above a commodious basement, and in lieu of stairways will employ one of Henkle's Hydraulic Elevators.

The north side of Sutter Street, between Montgomery and Kearny, has been greatly improved by the recent completion of a slightly and imposing four-story edifice. The basement and three lower stories are intended for stores and offices, while the upper floor will probably be occupied as lodging rooms. The main building has a frontage on Sutter Street of one hundred and four feet four and one half inches, with a depth of one hundred and twenty-three and a half feet, with a wing on Hardie Place thirty-four feet by fifty-eight; also four stories high, with basement and sub-basement. In addition to the broad stairway leading up from the main entrance at No. 120 Sutter Street, the building is also to be supplied with the patent hydraulic elevator. The building is owned by Mrs. Robert C. Johnson, was designed by William Patten, architect, and erected by Robert Ewing, at a cost of about $160,000.

Farther to the south, upon the southeast corner of Fifth and Minna streets, James Devlin, contractor and builder, is erecting a $50,000-structure, upon the James Donohue estate. The façades, seventy-five feet upon Fifth Street, and eighty upon Minna, are of wood, while the south and west walls are brick, the whole resting upon a stone foundation, which also constitutes the basement walls. The building is four stories high above the basement, and contains four stores upon the first floor and fifty-four rooms above.

These are but a few representative structures among the more notable buildings now in process of construction. Upon nearly every street, especially the leading highways of trade or avenues of residence, new hotels, new factories, or new buildings of some description meet the eye at almost every turn. They go up so fast that the most complete record of them made upon the evening of any one day would become incomplete before noon of the next. Even the bare catalogue of them would fill scores of pages while to attempt anything like an ordinary description of each would fill almost a volume nearly, if not quite, as large as this entire work.

NEW BUILDINGS 1874-75.—The number of buildings erected and nearly completed during the year ending February 28, 1875, is thirteen hundred and eighty-nine,* of which seventy-one are of brick, at a cost of $4,411,000, and thirteen hundred are of wood, cost $4,933,800; total, $9,344,800. Of the frame buildings three fourths are of one and two stories, the average cost of each is $3,850. In this estimate is included the Palace Hotel, Nevada Block, Safe Deposit Co.'s Building, Grand Opera House, and several others not entirely finished; with these exceptions the figures herein only include building enterprises commenced and finished during the period named.

* The returns of the Spring Valley Water Works for the year ending February 2, 1875, show that one thousand one hundred and ninety-seven new taps were made, and it is estimated that the number of new buildings from which no orders were received, will more than overbalance the orders from old ones.—COMPILER.

NUMBER OF BUILDINGS.—The number of buildings in the city and county is estimated at twenty-three thousand seven hundred, of which four thousand three hundred are of brick. The Federal Census of 1870 returns the number at twenty-two thousand two hundred and sixty-six.

Homes for the People, Building Associations, Etc.

In this important department, also, the accomplishments of the past year, and the varied and increasing activities of the present, give token of a general and permanent prosperity far exceeding that of any former period. Foremost of these—if indeed they are not doing a business so wholly of their own kind as to stand quite alone—rank the REAL ESTATE ASSOCIATES, or, as they might properly be called, the San Francisco House Manufacturing Co. Organized but two years since, for the purpose of buying land, building houses, and selling both—usually upon the installment plan—they have managed their enterprise so acceptably to the great middle class, whom they chiefly seek to serve, that, although finishing neat and even elegant two-story houses at an average rate of one a day, the popular demand already outruns the supply, and apparently “grows by what it feeds on.” Judiciously selecting large lots in the choicest parts of the city, and quickly improving them with neat, substantial, and comparatively inexpensive residences, they have done more to accommodate the public and to beautify the city than any similar organization ever formed within its limits. Commencing in March, 1873, with that part of Mission Block, No. 22, which fronts on Ridley and Guerrero streets, they immediately built thirty-six houses, for sale on the installment plan. Every house was sold before completion! Encouraged by this unexpectedly complete success, they built and sold eighty-four more houses before the close of the year, making a total of one hundred and twenty houses built and sold in the first ten months after commencing business. The next year, finding an increasing demand for somewhat larger and more expensive houses, they began at once to supply that, also. Early in June, 1874, they bought the half block, bounded by Howard and Capp streets, and lying between Seventeenth and Eighteenth. Six months later they had finished thereon forty-one houses, and sold every one! Before these were fairly finished the company had bought the half block, bounded by Mission and Jessie streets, between Nineteenth and Twentieth, on which they immediately commenced the erection of twenty-seven dwellings, ranging in price from $2,750 to $6,700, for all of which parties were waiting to enter before they were completed. In December, 1874, they bought, and immediately commenced building upon, the entire west front of Valencia Street, from Ridley to Quinn. And these were but a few items of their year's work, which proceeded with such rapidity, and in so many localities at once, that their aggregate number of houses built and sold by them in 1874, the first entire year of their operation, was three hundred and sixteen, or more than one for every working day in the year. While still improving at the Mission, they are also building in the Western Addition—on Sutter, Sacramento, California, Pine, Clay, Turk, Pierce, and Eddy streets, a class of buildings even finer than those with which they began at the Mission. Still “swinging round the circle,” they have lately bought, and, of course, commenced building upon, property at North Beach, on Vallejo Street, between Leavenworth and Hyde. In January of the present year they finished and sold thirty-three houses, in February thirty-one, and in the first ten days of March fourteen. Thus they open the campaign of 1875 by turning off considerably over a house a day. Wherever they buy they build; and almost before they finish building they have sold. The total number of houses which they had built up to March 10, 1875, was five hundred and fourteen—no inconsiderable town of itself. Of the whole number of new buildings erected in 1874, this company built nearly one-fourth. The annual aggregate of their operations already exceeds a million and a half. In the entire history of the city no company has even remotely approximated this in the style and extent of its building, or ever succeeded as well in supplying the great popular demand for beautiful and permanent homes.

HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATIONS.—While the general advance in the price and activity in the improvement of real estate has been so marked during the year, the prosperity of the homestead associations, once so numerous and popular, has experienced a very decided diminution. The aggregate sales of lots by such associations during 1874 amounted to but $128,455, while the year before they rose to $458,831. Sales of outside lands, though slightly in excess of those of 1873, are yet below the average of the three years preceding.

Public Buildings.

THE NEW MINT stands upon the northwest corner of Mission and Fifth streets, fronting one hundred and sixty and one half feet on the former and two hundred and seventeen and one sixth feet on the latter. The building is two stories high, besides the basement. The parapet walls are fifty-six feet high; the pediment seventy-five and the two chimneys each one hundred and forty-two feet. The form of the building is a hollow parallelogram, one hundred and two and one half feet by forty-three and three quarters, paved with flagging. The foundation is of concrete, five feet deep, laid in the most substantial manner. The basement walls are of the hardest sun-burned brick, three feet thick with a face of Rocklin granite one foot thick. The upper walls also of brick and of the same material, faced with blue-gray sandstone twelve inches thick. The floor girders are wrought-iron beams, twelve inches deep. The floors are arched with brick between the beams; leveled above with concrete, then flagged. The wainscot, door, and window frames, shutters, columns, ornamental work and the back stairs, are all of iron. The broad, lofty front stairs on the Fifth Street front, are of Rocklin granite. The doors and window sashes, golden mahogany; the counters and furniture of Honduras mahogany; the window-glass of French plate; door fittings of brass; the flat-link sash-weight chains are copper, and the roof covered with copper, tinned on both sides. Six solid fluted columns, massive and lofty, give beauty and grandeur to the main entrance on Fifth Street. The style of architecture is the Doric.

A particular description of the location and especial purpose of each room, with the peculiar elaborate machinery contained therein would fill a volume. Much of the costly machinery is of the most massive description in its proportions and solidity, and finished with the finest possible mathematical nicety. As is not generally known, the San Francisco Mint is no longer a Branch Mint, even in name. Nearly two years since it was erected into the full dignity of an independent establishment. In fact, when one considers the magnitude of the business done within its walls, it would seem that in respect to this, and most important of all particulars, all the other mints in the country might more properly be ranked as branches of this. Its coinage of gold and silver during 1874, up to the first of December, was: Gold—Eight hundred and seventy-five thousand double eagles, worth $17,500,000; five thousand eagles, worth $50,000, and seven thousand half eagles, worth $35,000; total, $17,585,000. Silver—two million one hundred and thirty-three thousand trade dollars, worth $2,133,000; three hundred and forty-four thousand halves, worth $172,000; three hundred and ninety-two thousand quarters, worth $98,000, and two hundred and forty thousand dimes, worth $24,000; total, $2,427,000—thus making a grand total of over $20,000,000.

THE UNITED STATES APPRAISER'S BUILDING.—Upon the west half of the block, bounded by Washington, Sansom, Jackson, and Battery streets, commonly known as the Post-office Block, stands, or has begun to stand, the new United States Appraiser's Building. Its length, on Sansom Street, is two hundred and sixty-five feet and six inches; its depth from west to east, along both Washington and Jackson streets, one hundred and twenty feet and six inches; its height is to be three full stories above a lofty basement. The material is what is known among the builders of this coast as Napa stone, from the locality of its most abundant quarries. It appears to be a kind of metamorphic granite. Only the basement and the first floor are to be used as appraiser's stores; the two upper stories are intended for occupation by the United States courts. The basement, nine feet and three inches in the clear, is already completed or so nearly so that the first floor, or at least the foundation, is fully laid. The basement wall rests upon a bed of solid concrete, five feet wide and as many deep. The material is broken rock firmly bedded in the best Rosendale cement. This was laid in courses about eight inches thick or deep, and each course was thoroughly tamped down into the utmost obtainable solidity. The first floor consists of arches of brick turned between deep and strong iron beams. Among the closing acts of the last Congress was the passage of a bill appropriating $150,000 for the continuation of work upon this building. The progress of this immense and valuable building has been greatly delayed by the unexpected, yet almost imperative, necessity of changing the material of the outer walls from pressed brick to stone, a very considerable modification of the original design. Gen. Samuel McCullough, Superintendent of Construction of United States Buildings in California, the same who completed the United States Mint for $50,000 within the appropriation therefor, has charge of this. Under his economical administration, masterly management, and watchful care, it bids fair to rank among the most faithfully and substantially-constructed Government buildings ever erected.

THE POST-OFFICE still occupies its old, insufficient, and inconveniently-located quarters on the eastern half of the block, bounded by Washington, Battery, and Jackson streets. Here it is horizontally sandwiched between the basement and upper story, both of which the Custom House appropriates. The Postmaster, Gen. Coey, with his customary zeal and efficiency is still multiplying all possible conveniences for the accommodation of the two hundred and thirty thousand people to whom his is by far the most important of all the Federal offices. His small army of employes, already numbering some hundred and twenty, can hardly be recruited fast enough to equal the constantly-increasing demand upon their indispensable services. Between forty and fifty find ample employment in the in-door service; upward of thirty are postal clerks or stage agents, and nearly forty are employed in the distribution and collection of written and printed mail matter throughout the city. The multiplication of the iron postal boxes, placed at convenient intervals within and to even beyond the corporate limits of the city, proves an indispensable public convenience, and, in fact, an almost inestimable public benefit in saving to our citizens the thousands of daily journeys to the Post-office, which, under the former system, they were necessarily compelled to make several times a day. Yet, although the service of the carrier department is so frequent and efficient, the two thousand three hundred post-office boxes still used, directly or indirectly, by upward of sixteen thousand persons, show that a very considerable portion of our citizens still prefer their conveniences. The number of letters dispatched daily by the regular Overland Mail is between three and four thousand, while the State and Coast Mail is nearly five times as great. The mails to China and Japan carry six thousand letters a month; those to Australia, five thousand; to the West Coast of Central and South America, four thousand; to the Sandwich Islands, four thousand; to British America and Alaska, two thousand. Thus, the grand aggregate of letters annually dispatched from the San

San Francisco Post-office rises to between seven and eight million! These figures, the reader will remember, make no account of the almost equally immense number of letters received; nor of the hundreds of tons of papers and other mailable matter which the successive relays of day and night forces of clerks annually handle. Among the more particular statistics of letters, may be specified the two hundred dead letters which form the daily average sent hence; registered letters, nearly one hundred; money orders, fifty-five; of the latter, about seventy-five a month, for sums averaging about $35 each, go to Germany. The value of stamps sold during 1874, was $350,000. Besides the making up and forwarding of the immense mails already described, the San Francisco office receives all the superfluous cash of the other Post-offices upon this coast, averaging over $20,000 a week. It also sends out to other offices about $10,000 a month, to enable them to cash postal-money orders drawn upon them. Gen. Coey's right-hand man is Assistant Postmaster William C. Dougherty, whose record of continuous service in the Department dates back to 1839. Of these thirty-six consecutive years he has spent the last twelve in responsible positions connected with the office in this city. Gen. Coey's previous experience in the same capacity, his well-known energy and careful attention to details, with that rare tact which inclines him not only to gratify, but, as far as practicable, to anticipate every public want, combine to make him exceedingly efficient and popular.

THE CUSTOM HOUSE.—It is a just matter of surprise to every intelligent commercial visitor, that the General Federal Government has provided no better building for the accommodation of the custom-house business of a port as important as that of San Francisco. Occupying the upper story of an old, stuccoed brick building, three blocks from the water front, insufficient in size, inconvenient in location, and inadequate in accommodation, the present building is at once a daily reproach to the government whose name it bears, and an hourly provocation to the thousands of shipmasters and merchants who have dealings therein. A few of the more important statistics of the custom-house business may give the reader a partial idea of its importance. During the year 1874, the total clearances of American vessels for domestic ports were four hundred and forty with a tonnage of three hundred and twenty thousand nine hundred and sixty-six tons; of foreign vessels for domestic ports, sixteen, with a tonnage of eleven thousand five hundred and three tons; of American vessels for foreign ports three hundred and thirty, with a tonnage of three hundred and ninety-four thousand three hundred and fifty-one tons; of foreign vessels for foreign ports, two hundred and ninety-four, with a tonnage of two hundred and seventy thousand one hundred and twenty-five tons. Besides these, seven American vessels with a total tonnage of two thousand three hundred and eighty-four, and one foreign vessel of two hundred and fifteen tons, cleared for whaling, and nineteen American vessels of one thousand one hundred and sixty-seven tons burden, cleared for fishing and sealing voyages. The total clearances from the port were one thousand one hundred and seven, with an aggregate tonnage of one million seven hundred and thirty-one tons. The whole number of arrivals in the same year was four thousand two hundred and four, representing a gross tonnage of one million five hundred and fifty-three thousand five hundred and fourteen. The excess over the corresponding items of 1873 was five hundred and fifty-seven in number, and two hundred and sixty thousand one hundred and sixteen tons. Total value of exports during the year, excluding treasure, $22,481,136. This was $3,421,661 less than in 1873.

THE NEW UNITED STATES MARINE HOSPITAL.—The old brick building at Rincon Point, so long familiar as the most prominent landmark of that part of the city, having become dangerously unsafe through repeated shakings by earthquakes, as well as insufficient in accommodation, was justly condemned some four years since, and the erection of a new hospital soon after determined upon. Toward the consummation of this project, Congress appropriated $53,789.56 for the commencement of a suitable building upon Angel Island. The Government, however, subsequently refused to sanction the site first proposed, or, in fact, to allow the use of any portion of that island for such a purpose. Thereupon Gen. McCullough, Superintendent of Construction of United States Buildings, and A. B. Mullett, then United States Architect, were instructed to select a new site. They finally decided upon the most desirable portion of the Presidio Reservation. A better site, in itself, or one better adapted by its natural advantages, would have been hard to be found. The situation is attractive in itself and pleasant in its surroundings. Neighboring hills protect it from the high winds and fogs, while its southerly exposure insures abundant sunshine. Another, and very considerable advantage is that it is but four miles from the city, from which it is readily reached by the Cliff House Road. The buildings, of which there are seven, have an easterly frontage. This division of the accommodations constitute a very healthful peculiarity besides combining several obvious advantages. The surgeon's house is forty-four feet and four inches by forty-one feet and ten inches, with a piazza eight feet wide and twenty-seven feet long. The wings are twenty-one feet and six inches by seventeen feet and four inches. It contains a parlor, dining room, bed room, bath room, pantry, and kitchen. The executive building, intended for the use of the officers of the institution, has a frontage of forty-six feet and four inches, and a depth of fifty-five feet and ten inches, with a piazza running around the first story. Upon the first floor are the reception room, office, library, dispensary, operating room, and bath room. The second story is to be used for sleeping rooms. The kitchen is a long, narrow building, twenty-five feet and four inches by one hundred and three feet and two inches, containing a dining room, kitchen, steward's and apothecary's dining room, nurses' and employes' dining room, pantries, store rooms, etc. The laundry, another long, narrow building of about the same dimensions as the kitchen, contains the linen room, mending room, washing room, property room, and dead room. The buildings are constructed without extravagant or useless ornamentation, and are models of simplicity and substantiality, reflecting great credit upon superintendent, architect, and builder.

THE ARMY, NAVY, ETC.—The military and other offices of the Federal service, numbering several scores in all, are not accommodated in any government building especially provided for them, but occupy rented offices in the most convenient locations available.

STATE BUILDINGS OR OFFICES.—Although several state officials necessarily have their offices in this city, the State has not yet provided any special building for their accommodation. The various Commissioners, Inspectors, and Agents, rent offices as convenient as possible to the respective locations of their several occupations. Should the reader have any special desire to know where these are he can easily ascertain by referring to the proper place in the general directory.

MUNICIPAL BUILDINGS.—Of these the most important as the local capitol and seat of the municipal offices, is the City Hall. In respect to this, her governmental building, San Francisco is just now in that transition state in which she partly has two, and completely has none.

THE OLD CITY HALL, long familiar to every resident for any considerable time, occupies the southwest corner of the block bounded by Washington, Montgomery, Clay, and Kearny streets. It is of brick, stuccoed. For inconvenience of arrangement and insufficiency of accommodation it stands pre-eminent. Several of the entrances are blind and roundabout, and few, if any of them, are broad or light enough. Many of the important offices are exceedingly bad in themselves, both with regard to their situation relatively to each other, as well as for ready access by the general public. In addition to these objections, they are ill-lighted, and poorly ventilated.

THE NEW CITY HALL.—This Municipal Elephant occupies, or has begun to occupy, the site formerly known as Yerba Buena Park, at the junction of Market Street and Van Ness Avenue. The irregularly, triangular lot, though centrally located, presented peculiar difficulties in the adoption of a suitable plan. The Commissioners, however, chose one whose remarkable blending of all possible forms make up a composite geometrical aggregate whose outline, like the probable cost of the finished structure, is "one of those things that no fellah can find out." Commenced in September, 1871, in three years and a half the building has not yet reached the second story, while the cost has already risen far above the roof. The expense of grading and fencing the lot, excavating "about" two hundred and three thousand five hundred and forty-seven cubic yards of sand, and laying the concrete bed, was only $201,726.56. As the law authorizing the erection and completion of the building limited its total cost to $1,500,000, it will be seen that it was found possible to spend one seventh of that entire and immense sum before even laying a single stone of the foundation of the building proper. Among the interesting minor items, it is pleasant to know that the corner stone with its "dressings," cost but $736.42; much less, probably, than it costs many a citizen to "dress" his wife for the entire year. This is a mere bagatelle. A city of such immense wealth, and, above all, of such unlimited possibilities, could easily afford to build the whole structure of similar stones, especially if they could all be had at a similarly low rate. Unless in the most unlikely event of a serious rise in the price of stone, it is probably, speaking within bounds, to say that at the present rate of progress, and ratio of cost, the whole structure can be completed in ample time for the Second Centennial celebration of the foundation of the city, and that, without reckless extravagance in some departments, its cost need not exceed the comparatively trifling and insignificant aggregate of ten or a dozen billion of dollars, more or less. In a matter which so largely involves the credit of the city, and appeals so directly to the pride, and so deeply to the pocket, of every present and prospective citizen for the next four or five hundred years, it is to be hoped that no considerations of niggardly economy will prevent, or even delay the worthy completion of the structure, or in any way embarrass the operations of the public-spirited and economical citizens having it in charge. In marked contrast with this stands the erection and cost of the New Mint, whose contractor actually performed the modern miracle of completing and delivering it over to the Federal Government at a cost of some $50,000 less than the original appropriation. By a remarkable coincidence, the originally estimated cost of construction was the same for both buildings, that is, a million and a half of dollars. It is hardly necessary to remark, however, that the coincidence suddenly ends at that point.

THE JAIL, upon the north side of Broadway Street, between Kearny and Dupont, now quite convenient to the Old City Hall. If not removed until the completion of the New City Hall it will probably occupy its present site at the arrival of the Millennium. As in most of the larger American cities petit larceny, misdemeanor, and vagrancy, with assault and battery, or others of the minor offenses, constitute the causes for which fully five sixths of all convicts find their way within its walls. Inclemency of weather and lack of food, which statistics have demonstrated to be so considerable an element in causing crime among the destitute poor of some of our northern and eastern American cities, become hardly appreciable in this land of equable temperature and abundant food. Reason upon total depravity as we may, the police and criminal records of large cities prove that many of the minor crimes, as well as quite an appreciable ratio of the graver offenses, primarily result from a famished stomach more than from a depraved heart or an uncultivated conscience.

THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.—This juvenile jail, the primary department of our municipal reformatory institutions, occupies a beautiful and healthful suburban location on the San Jose Road, between five and six miles southwest of the City Hall. Its dimensions, accommodations, and general condition remain unchanged since last year except by the addition of a large stable. As a pleasing proof of the gradual progress of this institution we note the fact, as shown by successive reports, that the number of youth committed by their parents for unmanageability, and, especially, the number of those recommitted, annually diminishes. In the distinctively reformatory department its management continues that firm, quiet, and thoroughly-efficient discipline which wayward youth most need, while the various industrial occupations, both outdoors and in, continue as varied and general as the public appropriation permits, constantly demonstrating, if demonstration were needed, the indispensable value of profitable industry in the reclamation of vicious youth.

THE HOUSE OF CORRECTION.—Upon the same lot as the Industrial School Building, and about a hundred yards northeast of it, the New House of Correction is steadily rising. It has the general form of a hexagon, with projecting wings in front and at each adjoining side. The diameter of the main building is ninety-two feet; the dimensions of each wing forty-four feet by one hundred and thirty-seven. The foundation and basement walls are of stone; the remaining three stories of brick. The contract for its erection was awarded to Dennis Jordan, for $123,000, gold coin, in September, 1874, and work immediately commenced. Messrs. Bugbee & Son, architects.

THE CITY AND COUNTY HOSPITAL is located in the southern part of the city, on a lot bounded by Nevada, Sierra, and Nebraska streets, and Potrero Avenue, and containing about ten acres. The main building faces the west, the entrance being on Potrero Avenue, which runs nearly north and south. All the buildings are of wood with brick basements, except the kitchen and laundry which are wholly of brick. The different buildings are: The administrative and dining hall buildings, each three stories high, situated in the center of the block opposite each other on either side of the covered corridor, which runs lengthwise of the premises; the kitchen and laundry, back of the dining rooms; the gate house, stable, morgue, operating rooms, etc., conveniently located in various places, and, lastly, six long pavilions, each two stories high, and designed to accommodate sixty-four patients with their nurses. These will contain, with the most generous allowance for space, three hundred and eighty-four patients, and are considered amply sufficient for present purposes. It is designed, eventually, to have twelve pavilions built in pairs on either side of the corridor, and parallel with the main building. The number of patients in the hospital, July 1, 1874, was three hundred and thirty-seven. In addition to those taken in, there are treated at the hospital some ten thousand or more out-patients annually. The number of prescriptions put up for this class alone, every year, is over ten thousand.

ALMS HOUSE.—In 1867 the erection of such an institution became imperatively necessary in order to relieve the City and County Hospital of the permanently disabled and superannuated who had accumulated for years, and a large, substantial, and commodious wooden building was erected for this purpose near Lake Honda. The house will accommodate five hundred persons, and up to the present time has proved amply sufficient to meet the public want, the average daily number of inmates, during the past year, having been less than four hundred. The expense of maintaining this noble, charitable institution, during the year 1874, as shown by the Auditor's Report, was $73,756.38.

NEW SCHOOL HOUSES.—Probably in no city in the Union is greater interest displayed in schools and institutions of learning than in San Francisco, and it must be a matter of gratification to every parent and friend of education to know that our School Department is exerting itself to the uttermost to keep even pace with the steady and rapid growth of the city. To do this additional permanent buildings for school purposes became necessary and the erection of five new school houses in different localities determined upon and commenced. One on Greenwich Street, between Jones and Leavenworth, to accommodate the large number of pupils in that quarter who are now attending school in low, dark, and ill-ventilated rented rooms. Another on Mission, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets, and a third on Geary Street, upon a portion of Hamilton Square, which has been set apart for school purposes by the Board of Supervisors. As these buildings are to be of the same size, and differ but little in construction and cost, one description will serve for all. The main building will be fifty-two feet two inches by seventy-nine feet seven inches, with two wings, each twelve feet ten inches by thirty-five feet. The basement story will be of brick, seven feet six inches high, above which will rise three stories of wood, each story to be built separate, the two lower to be fourteen feet and the upper to be sixteen feet, from floor to floor. The top of the first floor to be six feet above the grade. They are to be well lighted and ventilated, and supplied with gas, water, and every convenience for the comfort of pupils and teachers. They are to be built by Thomas Noble & Co., and will cost, respectively, $29,500, $28,000, and $26,500. Another and larger building is to be erected on Eddy Street, between Polk Street and Van Ness Avenue, by M. E. Smith, at a cost of $37,000. The main structure will be of the same dimension as those given above with two wings, thirty-eight by thirty-five feet each. This building will accommodate eighteen classes of sixty each, or one thousand and eighty pupils. There is, also, at the corner of Noe and Temple streets, a smaller, four-class building, just completed, for the accommodation of the large number of families settling in the beautiful valley between Noe Street and the Mission Hills. In addition to these it is proposed to move the old Rincon School House to the western part of the lot facing on Perry Street, and erect, upon the remainder of the lot fronting on Silver Street, a large building which will accommodate six hundred and sixty grammar and primary pupils.

FACILITIES OF INTERNAL COMMUNICATION.—Under this head one may class the extension of old streets and the opening of new ones; the adoption of new methods of paving, and the improvement of those already in use; the grading, sewerage, and paving of both old and new streets; the grading, curbing, planking, paving, and laying of crossings and sidewalks, with the extension of horse-car routes, and the completion, equipment, and operation of new lines.

While it is obviously impracticable to attempt anything more than the mere mention of most of these, we subjoin the latest obtainable details of our Horse Railroads, as the most important public means of internal communication.

Street Railroads.

If streets and avenues are the city's arteries and veins, the horse car is the most vital corpuscle that circulates through them. Indeed, without the horse car the business and social circulation in the outer portions, and especially the remote suburbs, would diminish to positive stagnation, if it did not wholly cease. But for the horse car the population would pack itself into unhealthy density in and about all those quarters most devoted to manufacture, trade, and leading occupations, and large cities would presently suffer from a social or civic "congestion of the heart." It is hardly too much to say that the modern horse car is among the most indispensable conditions of modern metropolitan growth. It is to a city what steam-car and steamship lines are to a State or a country. In these modern days of fashionable effeminacy and flabby feebleness, which never walks when it can possibly ride, the horse car virtually fixes the ultimate limit of suburban growth. The easier, faster, cheaper, more frequent, and abundant are the means of transit from center to circumference, the more rapid will be the growth, and, at the same time, the better the sanitary condition of that city.

From the wonderfully rapid growth of this city as already stated, one would immediately infer that, in respect to this, she enjoys unusual facilities even among the most progressive American cities. Such is the fact. Few, if any, cities in the Union, of equal population, crowd their inhabitants as little. Everybody has room, and the principal cause of that most unusual fact, which contributes so directly and so largely to the unequalled healthiness of the city, is the convenience and the cheapness with which laborers and the poorer classes generally can reach comparatively roomy and sunny suburban homes by means of plenty of horse cars and low fares.

Eight companies, owning and operating nearly forty-five miles of routes, about eighty miles of track, running two hundred and twenty cars, employing seven hundred men and seventeen hundred horses, perform this indispensable public service. The aggregate number of passengers carried over these roads during the year 1874, exceeded twenty-seven million; gross receipts, $1,350,000. In accordance with usual custom we subjoin them in alphabetic order, for obvious convenience of reference:

THE CENTRAL RAILROAD CO. owns two main lines, both double track. One runs from the water front, on Vallejo Street near Front, to the junction of Eighth and Brannan streets—two miles and seven eighths; the other, from Taylor Street, between Eddy and Turk, to the junction of Post Street and Cemetery Avenue, Lone Mountain—two miles and a quarter. Total length of both lines, with sidings, five miles and one eighth. A branch track from the corner of Turk and Fillmore streets, through Turk, Devisadero and Fell streets, to the new Golden Gate Park—one mile—is in process of construction, and will be completed, stocked, and operated as soon as the Park becomes sufficiently attractive. The company had in 1874 twenty-four cars in regular daily use, sixteen on the City Front Line, and eight on the Lone Mountain Line—all of the usual pattern, seating twenty-two passengers each. It has ninety employes upon its rolls, and owns and works two hundred and twenty horses. The conductors and drivers, one to each car, receive from $2.50 to $2.75 a day. In fare, the company adheres to the obnoxious old rate of four tickets for a "quarter," and exacts ten cents for a single fare. Passengers who desire receive a transfer from either line to the other without extra expense. In 1874 this road carried an aggregate of about three million of passengers, making its gross earnings amount to $190,000.

THE CITY RAILROAD CO., commonly called "Woodward's," from the name of its principal, if not exclusive, owner, or "Mission Street," from the name of the street upon which most of its property lies, owns and operates one double track, main line—"The Mission Route"—from the corner of Second and Mission streets, straight along the latter to Twenty-sixth Street, a distance of three miles; and one branch line—"The City Route"—mostly double track, from Woodward's Gardens, Mission Street, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth, through Mission, Fifth, Market, Dupont, and Sutter streets, to the corner of Sutter and Sansom streets, about two and one quarter miles. This line is noted for having first introduced the "bob-tail," or light, one-horse car, seating but fourteen, having no conductor, but requiring each passenger to deposit his own fare or ticket—which he obtains of the driver through a small brass gate swinging horizontally in the front door—in a patent receiver with glass front and back, and a tipping bottom from which, by pulling a strap, the driver slips or drops each fare or ticket as soon as deposited, into a metal box below, which is unlocked and emptied of its contents once each round trip by the secretary or his agent, as the car passes the depot or the office. This company owns forty cars, besides a number of large, open cars for summer excursions; two hundred and twenty horses, and regularly employs thirty-five drivers, at $2.50 per day. It sells five tickets for twenty-five cents, charges but five cents a single fare, keeps its cars cleaner and better lighted, runs them oftener and faster, and, upon the whole, pleases the general public better than any other line. During 1874 it carried about four million of passengers.

THE CLAY STREET HILL RAILROAD Co. is remarkable for combining steam and horse power in the traction of its cars. The exceeding steepness of the grade along the first seven blocks from its eastern terminus westward, in some parts exceeding one foot in eight, renders it wholly impracticable, if not quite impossible, for any ordinary span of horses to pull up any but the smallest cars and the lightest loads. In this juncture the ingenious and enterprising company, encouraged by energetic citizens living upon the adjacent heights or owning adjacent property, became the pioneers in the employment of a steam engine acting upon an endless underground steel-wire cable, by which to draw loaded cars up the grade swiftly, smoothly, and safely. At the top of the grade stands a stationary engine of thirty-five horse power. This operates heavy machinery, which steadily winds the wire cable at a uniform rate, in one direction, up one track and down the other. This rope cable is of the best steel wire, upward of three inches in circumference, about one mile and three eighths long, and weighs nearly five tons. The cars receive the motive power through tenders or dummies, coupled to them in front and provided with strong gripping-clamps or grippers which reach down through a narrow continuous slit or slot nearly under the center of the car, and firmly grip the cable which instantly communicates its motion to both tender and car. They stop by releasing their grip upon the running cable beneath and remain stationary, or avoid running down hill by four strong brakes which, instead of acting directly upon the wheels as usual, present four long, flat surfaces which, when pushed squarely down upon the track exert a friction which proves amply sufficient to hold them securely in place without the least sign of slipping under even the heaviest load. Judging by the throngs of spectators and passengers for months after the opening of this road, it was for a long time an open question whether it was the greater mechanical curiosity or municipal convenience. The steep grade, up and down which the company employs steam power, extends from the inner or city end, at the corner of Clay and Kearny streets, to Leavenworth Street, a distance of seven blocks, or nearly three quarters of a mile; thence to the outer or suburban terminus, nearly two miles, the cars are drawn by horses in the usual manner. Among the minor conveniences of this line, the public notice with pleasure that it was the first and, thus far, remains the only one which provides its cars with clocks, and keeps them, like the other equipments of the line, always in excellent running order and sharply "on time." Mechanically and financially, the road has proved a gratifying success to its ingenious and enterprising projectors and owners. This company also, as well as the Central, proposes to extend its line through Clay Street and First Avenue to the Golden Gate Park at as early a day as an obvious public demand shall justify the expense. The present working force is thirty-three men, twenty-two horses, and fourteen cars. Five tickets for a "quarter;" single fares at same rate. During the whole period of its operation, since September, 1873, the road has carried nearly two million of passengers without accident of any kind. At present its daily travel averages about four thousand, and the consumption of coal, fifteen hundred pounds. As far as known it is the only road of the kind not only in the United States but in the world.

THE MARKET STREET HORSE RAILWAY Co.'s main line begins in Market Street, near the water front, and runs along Market and Valencia streets to Twenty-sixth Street, nearly four miles, over a fine double track the whole distance. Its Hayes Valley branch runs from the junction of Market and Hayes streets, through Hayes, Laguna and five other streets, to the corner of O'Farrell and Devisadero streets, nearly two miles. Since August, 1874, the cars of this route have been running as a separate line from the water-front terminus at the foot of Market Street, direct to the terminus above named, thus avoiding the former inconvenience of changing cars at the Hayes Valley junction. Upon both lines the company now runs about thirty cars, employs ninety men, and owns two hundred and forty-five horses. It sells five tickets for twenty-five cents, pays its conductors and drivers $2.50 a day, and during 1874 received $163,912 for carrying three million two hundred and twenty-six thousand four hundred and twenty passengers. Its cars are chiefly remarkable for unusual width and roominess, and, consequently, superior ventilation, with greater comfort, and usually make quick time.

THE NORTH BEACH AND MISSION RAILROAD Co. runs two main, double-track lines, having a general direction at right angles to each other and intersecting at the corner of Fourth and Folsom streets, where either transfers to the other without extra charge. The one commonly called the City Route, has its southern terminus on Fourth Street, corner of Townsend, at the offices of the Central, Southern Pacific, and California Pacific Railway companies, whence it extends through Fourth and Kearny and other important streets to the junction of Mason and Francisco streets, North Beach, a distance of two and seven eighths miles. The other, more generally known as the Mission Route, runs from the corner of Kearny and California streets, down the latter to and along Battery Street, through First and along Folsom to Twenty-sixth Street. Its southerly terminus, about three miles and three quarters. Total length of both lines, all double track, six and five eighths miles. On both lines the company regularly runs between thirty and forty cars, owns two hundred and fifty horses, employs a hundred and thirty men, pays its conductors and drivers $2.50 a day, sells five tickets for a "quarter," and charges no more in proportion for a single ticket. During 1874 it transported five million passengers. Its gross receipts for the same period were about $251,453.

THE OMNIBUS RAILROAD Co., like several others, has its two routes, or main double-track lines. The first, or City Route, commonly called the North Beach and South Park Line, has its southern terminus at the foot of Third Street, near the water front, whence it runs in a generally northerly direction along Third Street, through Howard, Second, Montgomery, or Sansom, Jackson, Stockton, and Powell streets to the junction of the latter with Bay Street, three miles in all. Going northerly the cars of this line run from Second to Washington streets through Montgomery, but when returning, drive from Washington to Second streets through Sansom, until noon. During the afternoon they reverse this arrangement, and in the evening they run through Montgomery Street only in both directions. Between Sansom or Montgomery and Stockton streets the cars go westerly up Jackson Street, over a grade so steep that the company employs twelve of its horses as extras, or tow-horses, to help the regular spans up this most difficult pitch attempted by any horse-line in the city. Returning, the cars make their easterly transit from Stockton to Montgomery Street, by going down Washington Street. A branch line, single track, extends from Third Street, easterly, down Brannan Street to the Pacific Mail Steamship Co.'s Docks, conveying passengers to and from the main City Line without extra expense. The other main line of this company—the Mission Route—starts from Montgomery Street, between Jackson and Washington, and runs, over a double track, southerly, through Montgomery Street, along Market Street to Third, through Third Street to Howard, along which, westerly and then southerly, it finishes its course at the corner of Twenty-sixth Street, three and one half miles from its opposite terminus. Total length of both routes, six and one half miles; of track, thirteen miles. On the Mission Line the company runs twelve cars. It has recently commenced running ten of the most elegant, best constructed, most thoroughly equipped, excellently lighted, convenient, and comfortable one-horse cars that the skill and taste of that veteran car builder, John Stephenson, could construct, and has ten more of the same pattern now on their way hither. Among several modern improvements in the new cars, the most notable, as the one likely to prove most generally acceptable, especially to ladies without escorts, is the new arrangement of the check strap communicating with the driver's bell. Just inside the car it divides into two, one of which runs along the upper corner, on each side, from end to end. From these, at convenient intervals, short, connecting straps hang sufficiently low to be conveniently grasped and pulled without rising. Thus, a lady can readily give the stopping signal without leaving her seat or asking any one to do it for her. Over the City Line the company runs from eighteen to twenty cars. On both lines it employs—as nearly as can be estimated in the absence of official figures, which they appear strangely reluctant to give—about a hundred and thirty men and not far from three hundred horses. It pays its conductors and drivers $2.50 a day, sells five tickets for twenty-five cents, asks but half a dime for a single fare, and transfers patrons without extra expense from either line to the other, at the corner of Third and Howard streets, where the two main lines come nearest together. According to the best practicable estimate this company carried nearly five million passengers in 1874, and received therefrom gross earnings which closely approximated $250,000.

THE POTRERO AND BAY VIEW RAILROAD.—This line begins at the junction of Post and Montgomery streets, and runs somewhat westerly but mainly southerly, through Post, Dupont, Market, Fifth, Bluxome, Fourth, and Kentucky streets, and Railroad Avenue, to Thirty-fourth Avenue, South San Francisco. By agreement with the Market Street Railway Co., this line also runs its cars along Market Street to the corner of Sansom. Its total length slightly exceeds five miles, mostly single track. Forty-two men, fifty-seven horses, and fifteen cars make up the list of employes and the inventory of live and rolling stock. Four fares on this line cost twenty-five cents; a single fare, five cents on the northern section, and ten cents on the southern, the road being operated in two sections connecting with each other at Townsend Street. The passenger who goes from either section to the other must pay another fare. The greater portion of the southerly section of this road runs over water, crossing Mission Bay and Islais Creek by substantial and expensive bridges. As soon as the Southern Pacific Railroad Co. effect the contemplated change in the route of their present trunk line from Valencia Street to the shore line of Mission Bay, the bay will be gradually filled in until the present long, wooden bridges become bulkheads along the new water front. Upon the completion of this plan the property interests and general importance of the Potrero and South San Francisco will experience an immediate, very decided, and unquestionably permanent appreciation. These localities appear destined, at no distant day, to become great manufacturing and ship-building centers.

SUTTER STREET RAILROAD.—The main trunk road, known as the City Route, begins at the junction of Broadway and Davis streets, on the city front, and runs thence through Broadway, Battery, Sutter, and Polk streets to the junction of the latter with Broadway Street, a distance of two and one third miles. One branch, the Larkin Street Route, extends from the corner of Sutter and Larkin streets, through Larkin, Ninth, and Mission streets to Woodward's Gardens, over the track of the City Railroad which grants the use of so much of its track in return for the equivalent privilege of running the cars of its northern branch line over the Sutter Street track from Dupont to Sansom streets. The second branch, extends from the corner of Bush and Polk streets through Bush, Fillmore, and California streets, and Cemetery Avenue, and to the junction of the latter with Geary Street, a distance of one and seven eighths miles. This line, carrying passengers direct to Lone Mountain and the neighboring cemeteries, is known as the Lone Mountain Branch. The main line and nearly all of both branches are double-track roads. From the corner of Union and Laguna streets a third branch—the Presidio—runs with a single track, through Union, Pierce, Greenwich, and Baker streets, three miles to Harbor View, on the Bay shore, near the Presidio. Still a fourth branch, the Pacific Street, runs along that street from the main line at Polk Street to Fillmore Street, a distance of eight blocks, or about one mile. The total length of the Sutter Street Road, including branches, is eight and one quarter miles. The company owns two hundred horses and thirty cars. Several of the latter are midway in size between the usual double and the modern single-horse car, owing to the frequency and extent of steep grades, of which this road has a larger proportion than any other in the city using horses exclusively. The smaller size of these cars enables them, unusually heavily loaded, to dispense with the extra tow horse, such as the Omnibus Company is regularly compelled to use in surmounting its Jackson Street grade with cars of the usual size and carrying ordinary loads. Among the newer cars it has one single-horse car of a peculiarly novel pattern, known as the "balloon car," having an oval outline and a dome top, but chiefly distinguished by the fact that the body of the car turns at will upon the truck which remains stationary, thus enabling the company not only to dispense with the turntable sometimes employed, but relieving the driver from the necessity of unhitching his horses, driving them round and re-attaching them to the other end of the car. The company employs ninety men, pays its conductors and drivers $2.50 a day, and is one of the three which still sell but four tickets for a "quarter," and charges ten cents for a single fare. The main line and all the branches, except the Presidio, exchange transfers with each other. In 1874 the company reports one million eight hundred and two thousand six hundred and thirty-nine passengers carried, and $125,000 gross receipts.

Steam Railroads.

STEAM RAILROADS.—From the city's facilities for internal and suburban intercommunication the mind naturally passes next to her provisions for rapid transit to points beyond the suburbs, and thence successively to all those places within the State, upon the coast, or on the continent, with which business demands rapid, sure, and frequent communication.

Our city, now in the middle of its third decade, is yet in its infancy, or at most, just entering upon its early youth. It is not yet too late to prepare for the immense and rapid growth which inevitably awaits us. Our first native-born generation has hardly yet attained its majority, and is but just beginning to make itself felt in the administration of public affairs. Many of our founders yet survive with undiminished vigor and full of experience and counsel for the guidance of those who have already become their juvenile partners in public as well as private business, and, in the course of nature, must presently succeed them in the management of public affairs. It is only supreme selfishness which could cause these founders of a city to refuse so to order their present plans as to provide, as wisely and as broadly as possible, not only for themselves and those who shall immediately follow them, but for the whole vast future, however remote. Within ten years New York has discovered that she has almost irremediably lost nearly half a million of inhabitants and half a billion of wealth by failing to provide, or having failed to begin to provide, twenty years ago, for ample means of frequent and rapid transit between the central business portions of the city and the remoter suburbs and outlying districts, which the erection of private residences or occupation by modest homes and tenement blocks would have speedily converted into additional and constantly-extending suburbs. Fifteen years ago business had crowded residence so far north that the passage between store or shop and home required two hours a day. Few could stand a greater loss of time than this, and from that time men began to save time by seeking nearer homes, even though they had to go out of the city and even out of the State to do it. Thenceforward New York became and has since remained more and more distinctively a city of stores, shops, counting houses, and factories, populous by day and deserted at night. Previous to 1860 the city had grown so rapidly in both population and wealth, that each successive census had become a fresh and welcome surprise to her citizens. At the rate of increase which had seemed to have become established, but twenty years more would give the great city two million of inhabitants and two billion of wealth. But, in that same year, or within the following, she reached her limit of suburban expansion as compared with facilities of internal transportation; conditions changed, and forthwith her unprecedented growth experienced a very sensible and, as it proved, a continuous diminution in ratio. Right across the North River lay Jersey City and the whole of Hudson County as an almost limitless suburb surrounding it. New Yorkers began to discover that they could there find or found homes at less original cost, and at a far less expense of time and money in the daily double transit. And they also found that they could reach the eastern and southern suburbs of Brooklyn quicker than the northern ones of their own city. The natural result followed. During the ten years from 1860 to 1870, Hudson County, New Jersey, gained nearly four hundred per cent. in population, while New York gained but eighty per cent, only one fifth as fast. Upon the publication of the census of 1870, New York began to realize the immensity of her mistake. Her eyes suddenly opened to the fact that, had she built a double track accommodation steam railway—or even two of them—from the vicinity of her business centers through her northerly suburbs out to the Harlem River and its vicinity, running ample sets of accommodation trains, some running through, at once, to Harlem and its adjoining suburbs, and others following and stopping at every second or third cross-street along the older and nearer suburbs of the city proper, she might have kept the greater portion of this immense migratory population which nightly flits to homes beyond her limits, besides retaining their still more immense increase of wealth almost wholly within her own municipal limits and regularly tributary to her own revenue. From the business centers of New York out to Harlem is about eight miles. In 1860 railways like those suggested could have been built for $500,000 a mile, or a total cost, of course, of $4,000,000. The wisdom of that day decided to save the $4,000,000 and, in doing it, lost the million of inhabitants subsequently driven not only out of the city and county but even into the adjoining State, and carrying with them ten times the cost of the railroad. Besides this, and worse than this, the now enormously-increased cost, if not the absolute impossibility of obtaining the right of way through several miles of former suburbs which have since become almost as densely populated as, and at night even more so than, the old heart of the city, makes the city powerless to ever remedy that one gigantic blunder, by any railways along the surface level. Almost the only approximate remedy—the only apparently practicable, and, at best, but a partial substitute for the broad, double-track accommodation surface lines which might then have been built with such comparative ease and cheapness—appears to be the construction of elevated railways from the vicinity of the Battery, along both flanks of the city, out to the Harlem River. It is estimated that these could be properly built for $300,000 a mile.

The recent report of the American Society of Civil Engineers upon the feasibility of the different plans recommended for rapid transit between the centers and the suburbs of New York, represents underground railways as so completely impracticable as to be wholly out of the question, and favors the construction of elevated railroads. The single experimental road of this kind, already built along Greenwich Street, within two blocks of and parallel with the North River, has had a very perceptible effect in shortening the city, by bringing its extremes very sensibly nearer together, in point of time as well as in degree of comfort. The committee suggest three improvements: Additional braces to diminish vibration and increase security; a change to narrow gauge, and the replacing of its present iron rails by steel. The figures of the committee show that such roads cannot only be made to meet all the wants of safe, convenient, and rapid transit, but to yield a fair return on the investment from the very outset. Their discussions are still in progress; local capitalists and wealthy citizens are subscribing their thousands; repeated public meetings are exciting and increasing popular interest, and very considerable and immediate results bid fair to follow. Let us, of San Francisco, be wise in time.

OUTSIDE RAILROADS.—Owing to her peculiarly peninsula position, San Francisco has but a single steam railroad—the Southern Pacific—starting within city limits and directly connecting her with the outside world. All the others necessarily end their rails at the nearest convenient point upon the main land across the Bay, whence they connect with the city proper in the usual way, by swift and commodious steam ferry boats, landing their passengers at adjacent slips along the city's eastern or harbor front. Of these the western portion of the great Trans-continental Railroad necessarily claims the foremost place.

CENTRAL PACIFIC.—The compilation of the official reports for any fiscal year necessarily involves so great an aggregate of computation, with such infinity of detail that it becomes well-nigh impossible, or at least, has thus far proved so, to reach the full report of certain and final results much before the middle of the year following. Mainly through the courtesy of Secretary Miller we present the latest obtainable statistics. The total length of track is one thousand four hundred and thirty-one miles. This aggregate comprises eight hundred and eighty-three miles of main track, from San Francisco to Ogden; one hundred and fifty-two miles of the Oregon division, from Roseville to Reading; two hundred and seventeen miles of the Visalia division, from Lathrop to Sumner; Oakland and Alameda branches twenty-one miles; San José branch, from Niles, seventeen miles; total length of sidings, one hundred and forty-one miles. The rolling stock comprises four thousand three hundred and seventy-one cars of all kinds, exclusive of engines. The floating stock, including bay and river steamers, ferry boats, and barges, numbers thirty different craft, with a total registered tonnage of fourteen thousand three hundred and seventeen tons, which would probably equal an aggregate carrying capacity of fully twenty thousand tons. During 1874 this railroad carried one million sixty-two thousand six hundred and fourteen tons of freight; transported six hundred and twenty thousand two hundred and seventeen passengers; employed, in all capacities, nearly one thousand persons, and paid for their services upward of $1,000,000. The excess of passengers brought west over the number carried east, in other words the gain to the population of the State on through passengers by rail for the year 1874, was thirty thousand one hundred and forty-one. As is generally understood, though not always known by parties living at a distance, the Central Pacific Railroad does not strictly lead directly into, or out of, San Francisco. The end of its rail—its western terminus proper—is on the head of the immense Oakland Pier, whence its passengers and freight complete their long overland journey in steam ferry boats which quickly transport them across the remaining three miles of San Francisco Bay still necessary to be passed before they fairly land in the Pacific metropolis.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC.—This company was incorporated for the purpose of constructing and operating a railway from San Francisco to a point on the Colorado River at or near Fort Mojave, an estimated distance of six hundred and twenty-nine miles, there to connect with the Atlantic and Pacific Railway or Thirty-fifth Parallel Route, with a branch via Tebachepi Pass and Los Angeles, to Fort Yuma, a distance of three hundred and fifty-three miles, where it is to connect with the Texas Pacific Railway. The road is now completed and in operation from San Francisco to Tres Pinos, a distance of one hundred miles. Besides this a branch—called the Pajaro Branch—commences at Carnadero, eighty-two miles south of San Francisco, and runs thence by way of Pajaro, near Watsonville, to Soledad, sixty miles. Within the year a section of fifty miles on the Los Angeles division, running from San Bernardino to Spadra, has been completed. In December, 1874, the Los Angeles and San Pedro Railroad, running from Los Angeles to Wilmington, twenty and a half miles was consolidated with the Southern Pacific, thus giving a total of three hundred and five and five one-hundredths miles of this road now completed and in operation. The branch line from Florence Station to Anaheim, twenty-one miles, is in course of construction and nearly finished. The completion of this route, with its numerous and extensive connections, is of great importance to our State, as it will open up business not only with a large and fertile portion of Southern California, but with Arizona and Northern Mexico. Upon completing its connection with the Texas Pacific Railway it will furnish a short line from San Francisco, through Texas to New Orleans and the country bordering on the Gulf of Mexico. This will connect the Southern Pacific States with the Gulf States and the Southern Atlantic States, by a more nearly air-line route, and one which the snows of winter will never obstruct. This road is the only steam railway running directly into San Francisco, and actually landing its passengers fairly within the city without the intervention of ferry boats.

THE CALIFORNIA PACIFIC employs upon its cars and steamers and in and about its offices some three hundred men, whose annual wages aggregate $250,000. Among the more important items of its annual business for 1874, one hundred and eight thousand three hundred and ten passengers brought, eighty-eight thousand five hundred and fifty-five carried, with forty-one thousand eight hundred and twenty-three tons of freight from San Francisco, and thirteen thousand eight hundred and sixty tons toward the city, constitute the chief. Its passenger and freight business is constantly increasing with that of all the California railroads. The amount received in 1874 for the transportation of passengers, freight, mails, express matter, etc., was $1,054,066.14. The total amount of freight carried was one hundred and ninety two thousand eight hundred and three tons.

THE SAN FRANCISCO AND NORTH PACIFIC, extending northerly across the bay thirty-four miles to Donohue, and thence by rail up the beautiful Petaluma and Russian River valleys through Santa Rosa and Healdsburg to Cloverdale, fifty-four miles farther, is among the best-constructed and best-managed roads directly connecting with the city. Besides its increase of passengers and freight naturally resulting from the fertility and steady growth in population of the charming country which it traverses, by also furnishing the quickest and pleasantest route to the Geysers, it is constantly receiving an increased proportion of pleasure travel both of our own residents and of the visiting throng of tourists from abroad, whose patronage annually constitutes a relatively larger factor in the prosperity of all main lines of public travel throughout California.

THE NORTH PACIFIC COAST RAILWAY.—This road, formally opened January 5, 1875, is the first narrow gauge, directly or closely connecting with San Francisco, which has yet been actually constructed. Starting from deep water at Sausalito on the northern shore of the bay, in Marin County, and but six miles from San Francisco, it runs northerly through the heavy redwood forests alternating with the rich grazing regions of that county, fifty-one miles to Tomales, the present temporary terminus; whence it will run up the coast, crossing Russian River about four miles from its mouth; thence, still northerly, keeping near the coast, tapping the more habitable and beautiful seaward valleys of Sonoma County, to Gualala, crossing the Gualala River in the town of the same name, occupying the extreme southwestern corner of Mendocino County, and famous as the outlet of a very extensive and valuable lumber country. The route is admirably selected, the grades easy and safe, the work thoroughly performed, the locomotives and cars of the most approved patterns, the stations and piers convenient and substantial, the connecting boats accommodate their passengers well, and make frequent trips, while the prospects of the road indicate that this most important experiment of enterprising capitalists will not only begin to pay from its very opening, but insure a constantly-increasing dividend.

BAY SHORE LINE.—Besides the roads already enumerated heavy capitalists, who generally succeed in what they undertake, propose the construction of a new double track, street rail line, running southward from the city proper, across Mission Bay, along or near the Potrero water front, by South San Francisco and the Dry Dock at Hunter's Point, and thence skirting the west shore of the Bay, at least to its southern extremity, fifty miles more or less. As not a spade full of earth has yet been lifted in the construction of this line, it cannot strictly claim place among the events marking the actual progress achieved in 1874. Thus far it more properly ranks among the plans than the performances of that year. The obvious and increasing need of such a road, however, together with the number, financial resources, and executive ability of the parties interested, and the preliminaries already settled upon, combine to encourage the belief that the present year will witness at least the beginning of this very important new railway.

Steamship Lines.

Six regularly established lines of ocean-going steamships now radiate from this port, north, south, and west. As the most important among these stands that company whose name and fame are second only to that of the State, with whose history it became so early connected, and in whose general and especially whose commercial interests it has ever since maintained so important a part:

THE PACIFIC MAIL STEAMSHIP Co.—With a single exception—the Cunard—this is the oldest steam navigation company in existence. It is the largest company ever organized as distinctively American, and sailing under the stars and stripes. The wrecking, burning, and disabling of some of its largest ships; the stock-jobbing in Wall Street; the opposition of rival lines upon the ocean and the completion of the Central Pacific Railroad; the disclosure of the disbursement, by its agents, of three quarters of a million of dollars in the effort to obtain from Congress an additional half million of annual subsidy; and, finally, the refusal of the Post-office Department to pay the subsidy previously received, on account of the company's failure to come to time in the fulfillment of its contract in regard to the time of completing and placing in service some of its latest, largest, and finest ships; all these have combined to create in the public mind throughout the country an unusual combination of distrust and disgust, most damaging to the company. A change of management, and a change of base by removing its headquarters from New York to this city, thus locating in the midst of the merchants from whom its chief support has come, and, must come in the future, in a constantly-increasing degree, would prove among the most certain and powerful means of restoring public confidence, and retrieving at once its reputation and its fortunes. A fleet of thirty first-class steamships of wood and iron, with an aggregate carrying capacity of nearly one hundred thousand tons, and constantly traversing regular routes whose total length nearly equals the circumference of the globe, present an array of naval statistics of which several highly respectable second-class nations might well be proud. Among the latest additions to its fleet of iron steamships, the City of Peking and the City of Tokio, in size, model, strength, and speed, surpass anything yet known in the merchant marine service of the world. Iron propellers, four hundred and twenty-three feet long, forty-eight feet wide, having a registered tonnage of five thousand five hundred; passenger accommodations for one hundred and fifty in the cabin and one thousand five hundred in the steerage, are particulars which convey to any mind familiar with nautical matters some partial idea of the positive grandeur of these monarchs of the seas. In perfectness of proportion, beauty of model, and strength of construction, the shipbuilder's art has never surpassed, probably never equaled, these ocean leviathans, while in the indispensable point of speed they easily rival that of the earlier railway trains. In fact, the terms of the contract require, and the builders—John Roach & Sons—bind themselves under a heavy forfeit, that the ships shall make fifteen miles an hour at sea. This would give them a daily speed of three hundred and sixty miles. At this rate the seven thousand-mile voyage from San Francisco to Hongkong will occupy less than twenty days. Besides these ocean monarchs, the company have contracted with the same builders for three more first-class, iron-screw ships for the great China Line, each of which is to be three hundred and sixty-two feet long, with a carrying capacity of eight hundred steerage passengers and three thousand tons of freight. The builders contract that these ships shall be the fastest in the world, having an average speed of sixteen knots an hour. Two others, of a different class, are also to be added to the line. The five ships will cost over $4,000,000. The company runs four different lines. The oldest and best known is the New York and San Francisco Line, commonly called the Isthmus Route. Four side-wheel and five iron-screw boats, of over three thousand tons each, constitute this line; a ship leaves New York every other Saturday and San Francisco alternate Wednesdays, at noon. The only way port at which these ships regularly touch, is the Mexican port of Acapulco. Its Central American and Mexican Line comprises four iron screws, of two thousand tons each, and three side-wheelers. This line makes regular fortnightly trips between San Francisco and Panama, calling at some twenty Mexican and Central American way ports; a ship leaves San Francisco at noon every other Thursday. The great Japan and China Line, which might properly be called the Americo-Asiatic, or great Central Trans-Pacific Line, embracing a larger arc of the earth's circumference than any regularly established route has ever before attempted, is that upon which this great company seems now concentrating its chief attention, and stocking with the largest and finest ships ever known to the naval or merchant marine service of the world. It has four immense iron screws, some of them over five thousand tons each, and four wooden side-wheelers of nearly equal size, and five iron screws of four thousand tons each now in process of construction. From this fleet of thirteen magnificent steamships, with an aggregate carrying capacity of seventy-five thousand tons, the company dispatches a ship from San Francisco at noon of every other Saturday, and one from Hongkong upon alternate Wednesdays. The company's fourth and last line is the Shanghai Branch immediately connecting with the preceding. It comprises four wooden side-wheelers of two thousand five hundred tons each, one of which leaves Yokohama for Shanghai, by the way of the inland sea of Japan, and calling at Hiogo and Nagasaki, four times a month. The company's connection with other lines than its own branches, are as follows: At Hongkong with English and French steamers for the upper ports of India, and, by the way of the Suez Canal, with the Mediterranean and Atlantic ports of southern and western Europe. The New York and San Francisco Line connects at Panama with the Pacific Steam Navigation Co.'s lines to all the important Pacific ports of South America. At Aspinwall it connects with the Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., direct to Liverpool; with the Hamburg-American Steam Packet Co., to Hamburg; with the Compagnie Generale Trans-Atlantique, to France. Within a year an additional line of the smaller ships of this company, which formerly plied between San Francisco and the chief ports of Southern California and Mexico, has become the property of the GOODALL, NELSON AND PERKINS STEAMSHIP Co. which, with the youthful vitality and vigor of a new and strong firm, is fast taking its place among the foremost steamship companies of the Pacific Coast. This company owns sixteen sea-going steamers, of which two are iron and eleven are propellers. In measurement, they range from two hundred to one thousand and three hundred tons, having an aggregate carrying capacity of upwards of ten thousand tons. The company employs most of these ships, together with several smaller steamers, upon its main or Southern Coast Line, plying between San Francisco and San Diego, and touching at all the more important intermediate ports. It also runs a northern coast line to Victoria, which carries the English mails. It employs, directly and indirectly, about five hundred men; has a monthly pay roll of nearly $30,000, and dispatches, upon an average, one ship every other day. As the company, under its present organization, or, at least, with its present list of ships and lines, has been doing business considerably less than a year it is yet premature to attempt any statement of annual freight roll or passenger list. It is safe to say, however, that their aggregate of freight exceeds that of any other line upon this coast. Inaugurated but ten years since, and then commencing with but a single small steamer, the unprecedentedly rapid, and yet always safe, growth of this company, sufficiently demonstrates the energy and sagacity of its owners and management.

THE OREGON STEAMSHIP Co. dispatches a steamship regularly every ten days to Portland, Oregon, where they connect with steamers for Puget Sound and Alaska, as well as with the main railways of the more important part of Oregon.

THE COLORADO STEAMSHIP Co.—Two ocean steamships, four river steamers, and five barges, constitute the present fleet of this company. It dispatches a ship every twenty days for the Colorado River and the adjacent ports of the Mexican Coast, as well as for the interior localities lying along the river, or using the river as the highway of their commerce. Their vessels range in size from one hundred and fifty to one thousand tons, and have a total carrying capacity of five thousand tons. The four river steamers are stern-wheelers of the kind often denominated wheelbarrows. This line has six agencies; employs about two hundred men; carries the Mexican and Wells, Fargo & Co.'s mails, and does no inconsiderable portion of its business in transporting troops and supplies for the United States Government. The details of their passenger travel and freight transportation the company prefer to withhold from publication.

THE AUSTRALIAN AND AMERICAN STEAMSHIP Co. runs six powerful, Clyde-built, iron-screw steamers from San Francisco to New South Wales and New Zealand. These ships range in size from two thousand five hundred to three thousand five hundred tons. One of them leaves San Francisco on the fourth Saturday of each month, or as soon thereafter as the closed mails from Europe for Australia, arrive in San Francisco, via the Overland Railroad, from New York. On both the outward and return voyages the ships of this line touch at Honolulu, Sandwich Islands, and Handavan, Fiji Islands. As early as practicable, the company intends to double the frequency of their present trips. The ownership of this company is nearly equally divided between English and American shareholders, thus making it an international company in the fullest sense of the term.

Before finally leaving this topic of steamship lines, it seems not only strictly pertinent, but also to be actually demanded by the present state of public interest upon both continents, to append a brief statement of some of the advantages of our great American Trans-Continental and Trans-Pacific links in the New Highway Around the World. The experiences of nearly five years indicate that the established current of travel does not easily or quickly change its channels. The simple fact of the opening of a new, shorter, quicker, cheaper, and in all respects better, route than any previously known, seems to require considerable time to work itself fairly into the understanding or, at least, the practical appreciation of the merchants and travelers who are likely to receive its greatest advantages.

To passengers between England or eastern Europe and Japan and China, India, or Australia, the actual distance, by the way of the Suez Canal, is unquestionably less, but in the very important and usually decisive particulars, is surpassingly in favor of the American Route. For example: One who had never investigated the matter would hardly believe what is nevertheless the fact, that, although the distance from London to Yokohama is nearly the same by either route, the time of passage by the way of San Francisco is twenty days and the cost of passage one hundred dollars less. Other and very important considerations also favor the American Overland Route. Going by the way of Suez the traveler must change from one conveyance to another at Brindisi, Alexandria, Suez, Bombay, Calcutta, Point de Galle, and Hongkong—no less than seven times! By the American Route, he changes but twice; once from steamship to cars, at New York, and again from cars to ship, at San Francisco. In the very important matter of comfort and convenience this is of itself almost a decisive consideration.

Again, and in respect to the often vital consideration of health, the Suez Route subjects him to repeated and extreme changes of temperature in passing from one zone, or climate, to another. The American Route lies wholly in the temperate zone and through the most equable portions of it. More, again, and in respect to a matter of such exceeding importance that it may even become one of life or death, the difference is so greatly in favor of the American Route as to preclude any fair comparison. Besides this, the tourist, whose main object is sight-seeing, and even the commercial traveler, who does not generally object to it, would hardly hesitate between a route which takes him through three thousand miles of the grandest and most beautiful scenery of a new and strange continent, and one which carries him across a narrow corner of Egypt and whirls him across a few hundred miles of Central or Southern Hindostan, or, possibly, gives him a flying glimpse of the tangled jungles of India. Whether or not, however, the traveler possesses much of the artistic sense or the corresponding desire to gratify it, every particle of his physical being will luxuriate in the multiplied comforts of the Pullman Palace Cars, those first-class hotels on wheels which presently beguile the occupant into the belief that he has not left home at all but that, by some accommodating mystery, his home has started on his journey around the world, and is taking him along as a matter of course. For the benefit of the large class who prefer a tabular statement of distances, lines, and fares by the route from London by the way of Liverpool and America, or by the Suez Route from London by the way of Southampton, we subjoin the following

COMPARISON OF ROUTES.

Via Suez Route.				Via American Route.

We may now make the journey around the world in eighty-eight days, or less than three months; though it is hardly supposable that any one, except upon the pressure of most urgent business, would consent to make such a journey without many stoppings-over for sight-seeing. The intermediate distances and times by this shortest of the great round-the-world routes, are as follows:

Fare for the above route £195. In view of the foregoing table, it requires no very sanguine temperament to believe that the great American Route is diverting to itself the great current of circumterrestrial travel, nor is it too much to prophecy that this Trans-continental and Trans-oceanic Route around the world must speedily become, and permanently remain, the great highway of the nations.

Bay and River Steamers and Ferries.

OAKLAND AND ALAMEDA FERRY.—Large and swift steamers make fifty trips a day between San Francisco and the end of the railroad pier on the Oakland side, whence trains connect for Oakland and Alameda. Besides the boats of the regular railroad line, what is known as the "Creek Route," makes two trips each way daily, between this city and Oakland or Brooklyn.

BERKELEY FERRY.—Largely for the accommodation of the students of the University as well as for the service of the constantly-increasing residents and pleasure seekers. The Berkeley Ferry Co. runs one small steamer three times each way, daily, between San Francisco and Berkeley.

SUACELITO FERRY.—This well-known route has become of additional importance during the year from the fact that Saucelito, long noted as one of the most popular places of summer resort, and the objective point of frequent picnics, has risen to additional and permanent importance during the present year, as the southerly land terminus of the North Pacific Coast Narrow-gauge Railroad, between San Francisco and Tomales. Four trips each way daily, with an extra trip on Monday morning and another on Saturday evening, make up the weekly service of one of the most important ferries along the city front.

THE MISSION ROCK FERRY makes hourly trips between the foot of Third Street and Mission Rock, several hundred yards southeast of its city terminus. This locality, formerly nothing more than a solitary, barren rock, somewhat noted as a convenient and favorable spot for harbor fishing, has become quite an important center of wharves and warehouses.

MISCELLANEOUS.—Besides the ferries already mentioned as making regular trips each way daily, are others running to San Rafael, Antioch, New York, Martinez, Benicia, and Vallejo. To some of these places, these ferries, running once a day, furnish the only regular means of public conveyance; to others they merely supplement the more important and regular lines which take these places merely as way stations, on their passage to other and generally more important sections.

Hotels, Etc.

Having learned something of the general facilities for reaching this city from all parts of the world, the traveler and business man, or the capitalist who contemplates a visit to, or, it may be, a permanent residence in San Francisco, naturally desires, in the next place, information concerning her hotels. Long celebrated for the number and excellence of her accommodations for the traveling public, or for that large class of residents whose tastes incline them rather to hotel living than to the maintenance of a private home establishment, the Pacific metropolis is now adding to her famous hotels a mammoth structure, which not only incomparably surpasses any hotel previously known in San Francisco, but also upon the entire continent and, indeed, throughout the civilized world.

There is probably no city on earth, not even the French capital itself, that presents as many and as great facilities for carrying on a strictly first-class hotel, as San Francisco. The leading hotels of this city now in successful operation, are hardly surpassed and very rarely indeed even equaled, in their manifold excellencies, by those of any metropolitan city of the world. We have in full abundance all those peculiar requisites that a first-class hotel needs, or that its guests could possibly desire. The climate, almost uniformly mild; a temperature singularly equable and agreeable; markets abounding with the finest of fish, flesh, and fowl—domestic and wild; vegetables and fruits of both temperate and tropical climates, in a perfection and profusion which fairly astomish the newly-arrived visitor. If any city this side of Paris can justly lay claim to be called the Sybarite's Paradise, San Francisco may confidently present that claim. Excellent and ample, however, as our hotels have hitherto proved, the greatly-increased influx of pleasure-seeking and business visitors, not only from the eastern and southern portions of our own country, but from Europe and even Asia, made it plainly apparent more than a year since, that all the metropolitan hotels then existing, numerous and ample as they were considered at the time of their erection, had already begun to prove very appreciably and increasingly insufficient for the annually swelling throng of guests. Realizing this already existing deficiency, and fully assured that each successive month would only witness its increase, on the first of March, 1874, Messrs. Ralston and Sharon, two of the heaviest capitalists and most public-spirited citizens who ever contributed to build up the fortunes of any metropolis while successfully accumulating their own, commenced the erection of a mammoth hotel which has thus far been known by the most undemocratic name of the PALACE HOTEL, and by the constant employment of a literal army of the most skillful mechanics to be obtained in this State, or imported from the East, they have steadily pushed the gigantic structure toward completion with a rapidity, and at the same time a substantiality, unprecedented in the history of great building enterprises. Occupying the southwest corner of New Montgomery and Market streets, this architectural monster rears its huge front for two hundred and seventy-five feet along the south side of Market Street, from New Montgomery to Anna, and stretches its vast flank three hundred and fifty feet along New Montgomery and Anna streets to Jessie. It covers ninety-six thousand two hundred and fifty square feet, or nearly two acres and a quarter. Its form is that of an immense hollow quadrangle. Its main front and entrances are on New Montgomery Street. Commencing two stories underground, it rises seven full stories above, and through a considerable portion has eight. Stone, marble, iron, and brick are the chief materials. Of the latter, twenty-six million were used in its construction. The lower story has a height of twenty-five feet in the clear, while the uppermost is fourteen. The walls and partitions are built of stone and brick, laid in cement, and everywhere made as nearly earthquake proof as possible by broad, iron bands of such immense size as to require nearly three thousand tons for this purpose alone. The building incloses three inner courts, connecting with the adjoining streets on either side, and with each other by broad, arched doorways through separate walls of massive masonry. Within these courts large gardens and parterres of tropical plants and rare exotics, roofed with glass, beautified with statuary and made delicious by the constant playing of sparkling fountains, will charm and delight the guests. Around these gardens, on a level with each story, broad galleries or arcades, brilliantly lighted at night, will afford most inviting promenades for all the transient guests or more permanent residents of this truly palatial home. In this latter particular, indeed, it will quite closely resemble the Palais Royal in Paris, and the Hotel Iturbide in Mexico. Seven hundred and fifty-five suits of rooms and guest chambers, besides immense reception rooms, public and private parlors, dining and breakfast halls, both public and private, with spacious dining rooms for children and servants, music pavilion and ball room, ladies' drawing rooms and parlors, three hundred and seventy-seven bath and toilet rooms, are a few of the more prominent statistics, from which the observant reader may infer the rest. From the lower or garden floor of the bazaar or promenade galleries, rear entrances will admit guests directly into the elegant stores which are to occupy the lower floors along Market and New Montgomery streets. Each of these stores will have a show window facing upon the prome-

made, along which, completely sheltered from the weather, lady guests may pass at pleasure, and without the necessity of covering, to and from the various shops. Upon New Montgomery and Market streets there will be eighteen of these double-fronting or rearless stores. Among the additional statistics are sixteen thousand five hundred square feet of marble, twelve thousand square feet of slabs and tiling, six hundred and eighty-five thousand lights of plate glass from England, and three thousand seven hundred lights of French plate glass, of double thickness. While it is, of course, wholly impossible to begin to enumerate all the various details, we may mention the fact that the owners have contracted for four thousand locks and forty-eight thousand keys. These are to be made in San Francisco. The contract price of each lock, with its accompanying keys, is $5, thus making the locks and keys alone cost the snug little sum of $20,000, in gold. The furniture, made by special contract in this city, of the finest and most diversified native woods, costs $500,000. The cost of the ground was $1,000,000; of the building, $1,750,000, which, with that of the furniture, as above, makes a total cost of $3,250,000. The lessee is that prince of hotel managers, Warren Leland, whom all the traveling world knows so well that any attempt at description or compliment would be simply an intrusive impertinence. The building is to be completed and opened in July of this year. Its myriads of bay windows, diversifying the four immense fronts from top to bottom, partially relieve the indescribable massiveness which would otherwise characterize the building, while its unique and beautiful exterior finish of pure white and gold at once delight the eye and justify its name. This superb edifice, surpassing all the hotels of the world in grandeur, splendor, and completeness, must form for years not only the pride of this occidental metropolis, but the architectural crown of the Pacific Coast.

THE GRAND HOTEL.—On the opposite side of New Montgomery Street, filling all the space between it and Second Street, stands a hotel which was, and, in the judgment of many, still is, more harmoniously proportioned architecturally, more finely designed and artistically finished, and, withal, more tastefully decorated than any in the city. Immediately upon its completion it became, and has since remained, the great favorite, both with transient visitors and permanent residents. In the opinion of many it combines, more completely than any other, the very desirable qualities of elegance, quietness, and homelike attractiveness. It occupies a lot three hundred and ten feet on New Montgomery Street, two hundred and seven on Market, and one hundred and sixty on Second. Including the Mansard roof, it is four stories high. It contains four hundred rooms, and can conveniently lodge and dine six hundred guests. In construction it is completely framed of heavy timber, bolted and strapped with thick iron bands and heavy anchors, which gives to it the utmost possible strength and solidity. Nervous people consider it more completely earthquake proof than any public house in the city. Its external decoration is elaborately ornate, which gives to the building a light and tasteful appearance, combined with a kind of airy elegance, in most marked contrast with the ponderous and majestic Palace Hotel directly opposite. Its halls are unusually wide, airy, and cheerful; its general arrangement exceedingly convenient, and its furniture, carpets, and general appointments rich, comfortable, and inviting. The furniture was manufactured in Europe and the East expressly for this hotel, at a cost of $275,000. The general internal decorations of the house are simple, yet tasteful and elegant. The beautiful and cheerfully-lighted dining rooms seat three hundred guests at once. Immediately adjoining the main dining room are commodious separate dining rooms for children, nurses, and servants. The bath rooms, laundries, kitchens, pantries, fire-places, etc., are numerous and ample. In short, the architect and builders omitted no provision which could add to the comfort and satisfaction of its guests. The monthly rental of the various suits of rooms varies from $150 to $500, with board. The daily charge for single rooms and board is three dollars. The present lessees are G. S. Johnson & Co., and the favorable estimate unanimously placed upon their management by the guests of the house during the past four years is the best possible evidence of their ability to conduct so vast an establishment.

THE OCCIDENTAL HOTEL, on the east side of Montgomery Street, occupies the whole block between Bush and Sutter streets, and half of that stretching from Montgomery to Sansom. This well-known hotel, alike large in its material dimensions and in the hold which it has upon the public estimation, stands as one of the most substantial in construction, convenient in arrangement, and complete in appointment, of the really first-class houses of the city. Four full stories, besides a lower attic story; all the usual conditions of a fairly-appointed, first-class hotel; a large, beautifully-finished elevator, smoothly and swiftly run by hydraulic pressure, is among its chief conveniences. As one of the most celebrated hotels upon the Pacific Slope, it needs less extended and minute description than those houses of more recent establishment which have not such an immense army of former guests and transient boarders, every one of which becomes a traveling advertisement of its many excellencies.

THE COSMOPOLITAN stands upon the northeast corner of the same block as the Occidental. By later extensions its north front stretches along Bush Street, until it joins that of the Occidental, the two forming one of the finest architectural fronts in the city. In exterior finish it is somewhat more ornate than its great neighbor, while within, in point of general excellence of arrangement and richness, it is entitled to a conspicuous place in the front rank of the leading hotels of the city. Prominent among its fellows is the entire block, extending from Sutter to Post streets, with a depth of from one hundred to two hundred feet. It is excellently finished, and luxuriously furnished throughout, while its cuisine, as attested by its numerous guests and patrons, is not excelled by any institution of its kind. While enjoying such an enviable reputation for its creature comforts, it is justly and widely celebrated for its elegantly elaborated, highly ornate, and most artistically-finished dining hall, which is the finest on this continent, and, it is said, is not surpassed by any in Europe. Among the many valuable and really beautiful results of the limner's art which adorn the walls are to be seen several most living and natural views of the wonderful Yosemite Valley, by eminent California artists.

Lick House, upon the west side of Montgomery Street. The eastern front occupies an

In point of numbers, size, and excellence of its hotels, San Francisco is not exceeded by any city in the Union, and very probably by none in the world. Aside from those already designated and partially described, may be mentioned the Russ House on the west side of Montgomery Street, between Sutter and Pine; the American Exchange, corner of Sanson and Halleck streets; the Brooklyn Hotel, on Bush Street, between Montgomery and Sanson; the International Hotel, on Jackson Street; the once-famous What Cheer House, on Sacramento Street, so long, well, and favorably known to all old Californians, as the point of departure either to the "States" or to the mines. These, with some sixty or seventy others, any one of which in its grade cannot be excelled, if equaled, in any city of the civilized world, go to make up the hotel accommodations of the city.

BOARDING AND LODGING HOUSES.—As a supplement (if any were required) to the large list of hotels, there are in the city about eight hundred houses occupied wholly or in part as lodging houses, or for the accommodation of both boarders and lodgers, in many of which, at less expense than in any other city in the United States, one may enjoy all the comforts of a home.

Theaters.

Worshippers at the Thespian Shrine have ample opportunity to indulge their passion here, as theaters and other places of amusement are numerous and well patronized. The class of performances enacted at these houses, whether tragic, dramatic, comic, or tragi-comic, is generally of a high order. Indeed, so fastidious are the San Francisco public in this respect, and theater patrons and newspaper critics so hard to please, that the manager who is so rash as to produce anything that is not fully up to the standard is sure to lose money by the operation, while the actor or actress who cannot stand solely upon his or her own merits, independent of newspaper puffs and printers' ink, cannot achieve a success. Nowhere in the world will an actor or an actress sooner find his or her true level than in San Francisco. Some of the brightest ornaments of the American stage either made their debut or took their first upward step upon the ladder of dramatic or theatrical fame before a California audience.

THE CALIFORNIA THEATER, located on the south side of Bush Street, between Kearny and Dupont, is the largest theater now in operation in the State. Its frontage on Bush Street is one hundred and sixty-five feet, with a depth of one hundred and thirty-seven and one half feet. The stage is seventy-two feet wide by seventy deep, and the auditorium sixty-two feet wide by seventy deep. The house will comfortably seat upward of eighteen hundred persons. The dress circle and parquet furnished with softly-cushioned, comfortable arm chairs; the boxes luxurions in their upholstery and hangings; the mechanical appliances complete, and the scenery and drop curtains beautiful specimens of artistic skill. The building was erected in 1869, at a cost of about $125,000. Under the successful management of that king of the Pacific stage, John McCullough, who is also proprietor, the class of performances, the merit of the actors engaged, and the public patronage bestowed, it has become in all respects the first-class theater of this city, and stands second to none on this continent.

THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—After many vexations delays and discouragements, this magnificent temple of the drama, now building on Mission Street, between Third and Fourth, is rapidly approaching completion. The front section of the edifice is already roofed in and the façade is now being plastered. The intention, according to the original plan, designed by S. C. Bngbee & Son, was to make the Grand Opera House, in general convenience of plan and completeness of equipment, one of the finest in the United States. That this plan has been well carried out, few persons, after an adequate comparison of notes, will be inclined to question. The theater is owned by a joint-stock company of over five hundred shareholders, the most of whom are citizens of wealth and position. The capital stock is $300,000; the entire cost of the building about $250,000. The frontage on Mission Street is one hundred and ten feet, and the depth toward Market Street two hundred and seventy-five feet. The structure, three stories high, is composed entirely of iron and brick, and is so constructed as to render it as nearly as possible both earthquake and fire proof—the roof of the auditorium resting, not upon the walls, but on timbers independent of the walls to which they are "tied." Between the auditorium and the corridor there is also a thick wall of brick. The architecture is of the Romanesque and Italian styles, in which heavy ornament has been carefully avoided, so that the entablature, together with the window cornices, is more chaste than elaborate. For ingress and egress the most ample provision has been made. The main entrance is twenty-five feet wide, and there are two side entrances each twelve feet wide at the extreme ends of the elevation. The principal corridor is seventy-five feet in length, and of the same width as the door. Behind this is the vestibule or central hall, thirty-five by eighty-one feet, with a beautiful fountain in the center. The flooring of both the corridor and the vestibule is a mosaic of black and white marble. The auditorium is similar in plan and construction to that of the California Theater, and like that has a wide corridor wholly encircling it. Three galleries rise above the orchestra circle. The lower of these, the dress circle, will seat over five hundred persons; next is the family circle, which has about five hundred and fifty seats, and the third or upper will accommodate about six hundred. The orchestra circle and parquette will seat eight hundred and twenty, while the boxes will accommodate one hundred more, thus giving a total seating capacity of over two thousand five hundred. All the seats are to be upholstered in an elegant and luxurious manner, and the gallery fronts and other prominent features artistically decorated. The stage is eighty-one feet deep by one hundred and six in width, including the wings. Only the latest and most approved stage machinery and effects will be used, and the most ample provision made for scene-shifting arrangements for the production of the spectacular drama. The drop curtain will be one of the handsomest ever designed or painted. The entire building will yield a monthly revenue of $3,600 per month. The theater portion is leased for $2,000 per month, to Frederick W. Bert, who, upon its completion, which is presumed will be about the first of next June, will inaugurate the house by a season of grand opera.

MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATER.—This, among the latest and most deservedly popular houses of public amusement, which bears the name of California's veteran manager—almost the pioneer caterer for public entertainment—stands on Bush Street, on the south side. It occupies a lot one hundred and thirty-seven feet deep by sixty-eight feet front, and can accommodate one thousand six hundred spectators. About two years since, Mr. Thomas Maguire, its sole proprietor and manager, rebuilt and opened this theater, which is one of the most elegant and attractive places of amusement in the city. Here he rapidly presents one class of performances after another in a variety and to an extent which includes the whole range of his managerial experience. All parts of the house have a clear view of the stage, while in acoustic properties it is surpassed by no theater on the coast. The auditorium has the usual divisions of dress circle, parquet, and balcony, to which the prices of admission are, respectively, $1 and fifty cents. The company generally includes from forty to fifty actors of all grades of ability.

OPERA HOUSE.—On the north side of Bush Street, opposite the new theater just described, stands this popular place of public recreation. Capable of seating one thousand two hundred people, it has proved through over two successful years that it knows how to send its guests home in the best of humor. Its interior, like that of the theater, is divided into dress circle, parquet, and family circle, to which patrons are admitted at corresponding rates. The range of performances presented keeps pace with all the varieties of the public mood, and affords the most ample scope for the uttermost versatility of the actors who take part in them. In all capacities the Opera House employs from thirty to thirty-five persons.

PROPOSED NEW THEATER.—Within the past few weeks responsible parties have secured a large lot, on the corner of Market and Powell streets, on which they propose commencing, with the least possible delay, the erection of another large, first-class theater. It will have a frontage of seventy-five feet, and a depth of one hundred and seventy-five. The proscenium will combine the latest and most elegant improvements lately introduced into such theaters as the recently erected Boston Globe Theater, and the New Park and New Lyceum Theaters of New York. In extent and safety the facilities for ingress and egress are intended to far surpass any yet known in this city. Two immense entrances, each twenty-five feet wide, one main entrance on Market Street, and another side entrance on Powell, connect with vestibules, halls, passage ways, aisles, and galleries so numerous and ample that the whole vast audience can safely withdraw within five minutes. The veteran manager, Thomas Maguire, is now in the East, prosecuting arrangements for the immediate commencement of the work.

WILSON'S PALACE AMPHITHEATER occupies the southwest corner of New Montgomery and Mission streets. Originally erected during the closing months of 1873 by John Wilson, who inaugurated it with a grand opening on the eighteenth of the ensuing January, it immediately presented a combination of equestrian talent which attracted paying houses for one hundred and eighty-three consecutive performances. The building covers about one hundred and twenty-five feet on Mission Street, by one hundred and sixty feet on New Montgomery. Its interior presents a fine arena one hundred and twenty-five feet in circumference, surrounded by tier upon tier of circular seats, each sufficiently higher than the one in front of it to give every occupant an unobstructed view of those daring and skillful feats which so finely display the strength and agility of man, the grace of woman, and the intelligence of the horse. During the interval between the equestrian seasons, Madame Anna Bishop and Frank Gilder gave a monster concert of patriotic selections, on the fourth of July, 1874, to an audience of nearly three thousand. The popular love of the circus is even above the average in San Francisco. No where else in the world, probably, would the general taste more amply justify the Autocrat of the Breakfast Table in his well-known assertion that "the outside of a horse is good for the inside of a man."

Working hard, earning money easily, and spending it freely, Californians and, especially, San Franciscans, furnish a more liberal support to a larger number of first-class theaters and places of public amusement than any equal population on the continent. Though critical in taste they are yet very ardent in their likings, and an actor who once has the good fortune to establish a hold upon the affections of our theater-going public, is sure of a generous support and may count upon the warmest welcome at each successive return.

Parks, Gardens, Drives, Promenades, Etc.

Our parks are three; the Yerba Buena, Buena Vista, and the Golden Gate.

THE GOLDEN GATE PARK.—The Grand Central Park of New York contains but seven hundred and seven acres, used as a park proper. The Golden Gate Park of San Francisco presents a surface of one thousand and forty-three acres. New York's great park was not actually commenced until the fall of 1857, when the great commercial city of the Atlantic was well advanced in her third century. That of San Francisco was begun in the summer of 1871, before the great metropolis of the Pacific had fairly entered upon her second decade. In New York, during several years pending the proposed withdrawal of so many acres from purposes of building and commerce, the project called forth much heated and bitter discussion. This continued several years after the commencement of the park improvements. In respect to this particular, San Francisco presents an entire similarity. The original project, and especially the subsequently chosen location of the Golden Gate Park, elicited an amount of public misrepresentation and ridicule never previously equaled and which has not yet fully subsided. In the primary matter of financial cost and pecuniary returns, it is yet quite too early to institute comparison. Two facts relating to this part of the history of the Central Park may possibly indicate the probabilities in regard to our own great park which has but just begun to be. The total cost of the great New York Park, for the first twenty years, including the land, was over $15,000,000. On the other side stands the great compensatory fact, which the opponents of such public improvements usually ignore or deny, that the increase in the tax revenue in the three adjoining wards, in 1872 alone, was nearly $4,000,000 over and above what it would have been but for the opening of this great place of popular resort. Hence, laying aside all sanitary and artistic considerations, one can readily appreciate the truth of Mayor Kingsland's remark, "The people of New York look upon their park as a great public blessing cheaply purchased." Except in a few sordid souls the public opposition to the Central Park in New York has now wholly subsided before the almost universal public conviction that the outlay upon the park is the most healthful and every way profitable public investment in the annals of the present, and especially for future generations, that could have been made.

The Golden Gate Park lies in the western, or possibly northwestern margin of the city. Its length, lying east and west, is about six times its width. From Fulton Street, its northern boundary, it extends southerly some eight blocks to Franklin Street, which bounds it in that direction. The eastern limit of the park proper is the west line of Stanyan Street. From a little north of the center of this eastern end the entrance drive, or grand avenue of approach, with its bordering greenery, shrubbery, and meandering paths, occupying the full block between Oak and Fell streets, stretches eight blocks eastward to Baker Street. Westerly it extends to the shore of the Pacific, where its "Grand Drive," running nearly north and south, lies along the line of what would be Fiftieth Avenue, were it completed. It is fifty-six blocks long and nine blocks wide. The original surface was largely composed of small hills, sparsely covered with low shrubs, with here and there a few stunted trees, and toward the ocean end hills and banks of wind-blown sand. Much of it is nothing more than barren sand-doons. After careful study the most approved plans of covering, protecting, and fencing these sands by the cultivation of such trees and shrubs as have been most convenient for that purpose in similar situations along the coasts of France and Holland have been adopted and their successful adaptation and execution entered upon. The area of the park includes seven natural lakes or ponds. Avenues, rides, drives, and walks, eight miles in extent; groves, greens, and grottoes, arbors, terraces, mounds, and valleys, gardens, lawns, base-balls, and cricket grounds, embankments, cuts, tunnels, and bridges find place among the multiplied improvements and adornments already completed or contemplated in the present, immediate, and ultimate plans. Among the indispensable preliminaries, a well yielding eighteen thousand gallons of water a day was sunk, nearly three miles of water pipe, of which the larger part is four and one half inch wrought iron, has been laid. Besides these, the nursery, which was very early established, has already propagated over sixty thousand plants, of which upward of thirty thousand have been transplanted to different locations about the grounds. Already more than one thousand teams a day have driven over the broad, smooth roadway, while five hundred a day is quite a common average, and the increasingly large number of picnic parties, with the equestrian and pedestrian visitors, begin to afford satisfactory demonstration that the benefits of the Golden Gate Park are no longer problematical or prospective. Total disbursements to December 31, 1874, $375,000.

The Commissioners, feeling the necessity of concentrating their resources on the principal park, have as yet paid but little attention to Buena Vista Park, which, however, will not be much longer neglected. The fine prospects of bay and city scenery which it presents will, together with its other natural advantages, make it a most popular resort. The small park around Mountain Lake, as an indispensable feature to the general plan, will also be improved before long, and Congress will also, almost certainly, grant the use of the most of the Presidio Military Reservation to the city for the purposes of a park. It will, therefore, be seen that San Francisco is in process of being liberally and well supplied with desirable places of outdoor recreation.

theater, circus, hippodrome, menagerie, skating rink, picnic ground, restaurant, and everything in the world of out-door or in-door amusement, or the best possible combination of both, that can contribute to attract and delight the public, this all comprehensive and most popular resort is sure to provide. If any visitor can discover a deficiency he has only to make it known to the enterprising proprietor who is sure to supply it at the earliest possible moment. It is the universal verdict of all late visitors, that no city in America can show any place of public resort which provides anything approaching the abundance and variety of means for public recreation which are here to be found. The immense pavilion is the largest and strongest permanent wooden building upon the coast. It has the form of a huge parallelogram, with the corners cut off, thus giving its ground outline the shape of a regular octagon. One hundred and fifty feet long by one hundred and thirty wide, and fifty feet high, with broad rows of strong seats running entirely around it, and massive galleries also encompassing its whole circumference, and accommodates within its acre and a half of extent seven thousand spectators at once. In the center a solidly-laid, perfectly-fitted, and smoothly-planed floor, one hundred and ten feet long by ninety in width, furnishes as extensive a scope for skating as the most ambitious could desire. The new aquarium is most surprisingly delightful and wholly successful attempt at establishing permanent homes for the most rare and curious, as well as the most common and useful of the finny tribes. Here also one may study at leisure the mysteries of trout hatching and raising from the egg to the fully-grown specimens of the largest and finest varieties, until the whole operation become as clear as the glass through which it appears.

THE CITY GARDENS.—On the south side of Twelfth Street, stretching from Folsom to Harrison streets, and running half a block south. The grounds are finely laid out and ornamented with shade trees, shrubbery, arbors, etc. It has also a pavilion in which theatrical representations, balls, and various other popular entertainments follow each other as the successive tastes of its patrons demand.

PUBLIC SQUARES AND PARKS.—Portsmouth Square, commonly known as the Plaza, on the west side of Kearny Street, extending from Clay to Washington streets and directly fronting the old City Hall, is the oldest, most celebrated, and best finished public square.

Union Square, bounded by Post, Stockton, Geary, and Powell streets, and for several years occupied by the successive buildings for various Mechanics' Fairs, is now one of the most beautifully-improved and neatly-kept squares of the metropolis.

Nearer the northerly or north central portion of the city, Washington Square, bounded by Filbert, Stockton, Union, and Powell streets, supplies a sort of municipal lung for the denizens in that vicinity.

Besides these, Columbia, Lobos, Alcatraz, Lafayette, Jefferson, Alta, Hamilton, and Alamo squares relieve their respective portions of the city from undue crowding and suggest to the neighboring residents the beautiful meadows of their earlier homes, or the arid deserts of Arabia, according as their grassy or sandy surfaces attest the attention or neglect of the City Fathers.

PROMENADES.—Montgomery Street is our occidental Broadway. On either side rise some of the largest and finest retail business houses. Three of the leading hotels are here, and four others within less than half a block. During the forenoon business occupies its area almost exclusively. Near its intersection with California Street, "the bulls and bears of Mammon's fierce zoology" frequently congregate in crowds so dense as to monopolize the side walks. Afternoons, fashion claims its place, and well-nigh crowds business, not exactly to the wall, but out upon the curbstone and occasionally into the gutter.

From three to five P.M. the tide of Mammon ebbs and that of fashion swells in at full flood. Noble and queenly women alternate with their fair and frail sisters, forms of beauty and faces which range downward from positive plainness to undisguisable ugliness, calicoes, silks, satins, velvets, broadcloths, beavers, and cassimeres, make up the motley throng, swaying, trailing, and jostling up and down the crowded thoroughfare. Many of the female faces are exceedingly fair, "as far as we can see," and the forms equally graceful, with the same qualification. Masculine faces, broad-browed, clear-eyed, firm-mouthed, or fully-bearded, irresistibly impress one with the dash, the drive, and the nerve which have tunneled the everlasting hills, spanned the continent with rails, and bridged the Pacific with steamships ere yet the full flush of manhood has fairly settled upon them. Too many show the full, uncertain lip, flushed cheek, and dewy eye that tell of excessive stimulants too frequently applied. Nowhere on earth is the temptation to drink as strong as here. Business is brisk, competition sharp, and the climate the most constantly stimulating anywhere to be found. Rivalry spurs them on every hand, and scores stand waiting to take their places the moment they step aside. So they drive till nature falters or weakens and calls for rest. But nature's rest they cannot or will not afford; an artificial stimulant is quicker; it is everywhere close at hand; it seems to save time; companions press; everybody does it, and they follow the fashion. Business men die suddenly; on the street to-day, tomorrow at Lone Mountain. Heart disease, apoplexy, congestion of the lungs, disease of the kidneys, or liver complaint, are the causes most generally assigned to that portion of the public which cannot afford even to stop long enough to inquire. The one great cause of all these causes few stop to ask, or dare to tell.

Kearny Street, parallel with Montgomery and but a single block above, or to the west of it, competes with its companion and rival, Montgomery Street, as a great avenue of business and pleasure. Though some single buildings along Montgomery Street may be finer, the average of the newer business blocks and buildings of Kearny Street, in some portions of its extent, falls but little behind that of the great central and more celebrated avenue.

California Street, at right angles with the two great thoroughfares mentioned above, and crossing them at right angles near their centers—the Wall Street of the Pacific—runs straight down from one of the highest summits within the city limits, to within two blocks of the water front, and there debouches into Market Street. Along the crowning heights of its upper portions several of our wealthiest citizens have planted their palatial residences, elsewhere noted, commanding most extensive views of the city beneath, the bay, Oakland, Brooklyn, and the bounding hills of the Coast Range, which slope up toward, and finally culminate in, Mount Diablo. Farther down, St. Mary's Cathedral, the Alta Building, and leading telegraph offices; thence, from Montgomery Street to Battery, the finest array of business blocks and banking buildings which the city presents.

Market Street is the broad, dividing avenue which separates the older city from the newer, offers a rare architectural medley to the eye of the exploring artist. This great central highway is the longest and widest of the city streets. Starting from the water front at the western margin of the bay, whence it slightly ascends through eight or nine blocks, it runs thence southwesterly, on a nearly level grade beyond the city limits. Its surface presents nearly every conceivable variety of natural conformation ingeniously varied with artificial distortion. Plank, rubble, Macadam, cobble, Nicolson, gravel, stone foundation, deep sand, and, finally, undisguised dirt, offer their successive and pleasing variety to the exploring eye. Stately blocks, grand hotels, massive stores, common tenements, and tumble-down shanties form its varied and picturesque boundary on either hand. When the high, summer winds sweep easterly down its broad avenue laden with clouds of flying sand from vacant lots along its either margin, it sometimes becomes a decidedly open question whether some of the marginal lots really belong in the department of real estate, or should properly be entered in the catalogue of movable property. We have dwelt thus long upon this street, not only on account of its central position and superior dimensions, but because it is, in respect to many particulars, a representative street. Others are like it as far as they can be. Did length, width, and direction permit, they would resemble it still more closely. It is fast becoming the great business street of the city, and, spite of the roughness and crudeness necessarily attaching to most of the streets of a new and fast-growing city, it unmistakably possesses all the requisites of the future "Grand Avenue" of the Pacific metropolis.

DRIVES.—The Cliff House Road stretches westerly from near the end of Bush Street to the Pacific Ocean beach. Originally a mere trail over the sand hills, it has become the broadest, smoothest, hardest, and longest track in the State. If the visitor wishes an idea of California horseflesh and California turnouts, let him drive out this road almost any day. The roadway is a fine, smooth, hard surface, wide enough in places for twenty teams abreast, and is often nearly filled from side to side with the smooth rolling of friendly racing teams, from the natty single buggy to the elegant coach, or hack, and the stately four-in-hand. A million dollars' worth of legs and wheels flash by a man in a very short time on this fashionable drive, especially on a racing day. Along this road are two or three road-side inns, which, like the majority of California inns, are chiefly drinking houses under another name. At the end of the road stands the Cliff House, so named from its site, the nearly solid top of a precipitous, rocky bluff, or cliff, overlooking the Seal Rocks, a few hundred feet west; then the fifty-mile sweep of the Pacific Ocean horizon, broken only by the sharp, rocky points of the Farallones, low down under the western sky, and clearly visible when fogs, and mists, and haze permit. South of the cliff the road winds down the bluff to and out upon the ocean beach, which differs from the well-known Eastern beach drives except that it is not as wide even at the lowest tides, and that the ocean view thence is far more seldom diversified with passing sails. The surf, however, is fair, and the beach usually good, so that brisk driving for two or three miles upon it seldom fails to put the oxygen into the lungs, the iodine into the blood, and the exhilaration into the spirits. Some two or three miles south of the Cliff House the road bends easterly, leaves the beach, and starts back to the city by another way, known as the Ocean House Road, which, like the former, takes its name from a public house, or hotel, near its scaward end. Approaching the city by this route, one reaches a greater height than by the Cliff House Road, and some two or three miles from the city centers enjoys a beautiful view of the southern, western, and central city, the shipping, the bay, the opposite shore, the trailing cities and towns whose straggling houses gleam between the trees of Alameda and Contra Costa counties, with their grassy foot hills, the whole view backed and bounded by the dominating peak of old Mount Diablo beyond. Coming in by this way one enters the city suburbs on the southwest, passing directly by the old Mission Dolores, with its famous old church, and makes his way back to the city centers by Market, Mission, Howard, or Folsom streets.

Between the Cliff House and the Ocean House roads, but nearer the latter, runs a third, known as the Central Ocean Drive.

Over the Bay View Road Drive, from Market along Third or Fourth street to Long Bridge, across that to the Potrero, keep straight on through the Mission cut, over Islais Creek Bridge, thence through South San Francisco, up the little rise from whose summit you may look down upon the little valley, a great bay of vegetable gardens, between which and the water, and on the north side of Bay View Race Track, stands the Bay View House. If one would readily understand why they used the phrase "Bay View" so frequently in naming localities hereabout, he has only to glance eastward from any one of several points on his way out, to solve the problem.

"Cleanliness is next to Godliness!" Go and Bathe at 113 Geary.

Northerly from the city the only drive takes one to the Presidio and Fort Point, over a road not remarkable for excellence, and through suburbs not particularly attractive.

From the city front the pleasantest and, probably, the only practicable drive, would be that upon the deck of a ferry boat. The best time for any or all of these drives is in the morning—the earlier the better. Besides the greater purity, freshness, and clearness of the air everywhere accompanying the morning hours, one then escapes the wind and dust which, on nearly every afternoon through more than half the year, constitute the chief drawback from the full enjoyment of out-door pleasure near the California coast.

Improvement of Streets.

STREET PAVING AND CLEANING.—For the very considerable number who drive their own carriages, ride in hired vehicles or perambulate the sidewalks and, in fact, for nearly all the inhabitants of the city who, living within its bounds, must daily look forth upon its streets, the construction and cleanliness of these daily thoroughfares become matters of the highest interest; while to the business man and, especially, to all tax-paying citizens, they constitute items of the most decided personal and pecuniary importance. As a general fact, the streets of San Francisco give little ground for just pride to her citizens. We can spend more money on our streets, get less work for it, have it more shabbily done, repeat the operation more frequently, grumble more, and do less by way of effectual and permanent remedy, than any constituency of equal number in the Union. It would seem that we have advanced nearly far enough in outward or material civilization to enable us at least to learn of sister cities, if we cannot or will not originate our own remedy. For nearly two years past the City of Philadelphia, through a committee of its council, has thoroughly examined the methods, results, and comparative cost of street construction and street cleaning in several prominent cities of Europe. The examination demonstrated—as any observant European traveler could have previously assured them that it would—that in respect to both these important particulars, Paris furnishes by far the best example. Every sojourner in that city knows that a highway out of repair seldom obstructs travel or offends the eye. And all who study the subject also know that this maximum of excellence in condition is regularly secured and constantly maintained at the minimum of expense. The whole city is divided into sections, each having its own superintendent or contractor. When the police notice any want of repair they instantly report to the proper superintendent, who as promptly attends to the matter. It involves no question of jurisdiction and is done without delay. It is unquestionably somebody's duty, and that somebody knows it, and he knows, too, that the Government knows both him and his duty. Under that system the contractor makes more money by doing his duty promptly and thoroughly than by delaying or slighting it. He knows that, too, and profits by it. The simple secret of all this is that the government of Paris has reduced this paving and cleansing of streets to plain, common-sense business principles, precisely as any business man of ordinary sagacity, charged with any similar business for himself or another, would immediately do as a matter of course. It has so exactly learned the actual and necessary cost of keeping the streets in proper order, that it knows just what sum will pay each contractor for the faithful performance of his duty and leave him a fair margin of profit. It even knows the chemical composition and the agricultural or commercial value of the street refuse, and makes this an element in each contract. For example: The official figures of the Philadelphia council committee's report show that Paris pays its scavengers $290,000 a year for cleaning its streets, and that the scavengers pay back to the city $120,000 a year for the right to profit by selling the refuse. Thus the net cost to that immense city of having her streets thoroughly swept every day in the year, is but $170,000. As the population of Paris is, in round numbers, ten times that of San Francisco, the cost of keeping our streets in repair and of cleaning them, if we do as well, relatively, should be but $17,000!! Instead of this it amounts to $315,000 a year, for a service hardly one tenth as well done. But, beyond this, one should remember that even this immense sum pays for nothing but repairing and cleaning our streets. Besides this, the cost of new street work for the last fiscal year was $667,488.40. And to both these snug little items, already amounting to nearly a round million of dollars in gold, we have yet to add the expenses of lighting, and the repairs incidental to that operation, which amounted to a third item of $252,000, upward of a quarter of a million. Thus the streets of San Francisco, during the year 1874, cost the city the modest little amount of $1,234,488.40, gold coin of the United States, and they were not remarkably good streets at that.

Water Resources.

The Spring Valley Water Works of San Francisco draw their supply mainly from the Lobos and Pilarcitos creeks. The first of these is a stream of pure, clear water, emptying into the outer bay near Point Lobos, and is capable of supplying two and one half million of gallons of water daily. This stream is about three and one half miles from the City Hall. From this, four double connecting pumps, driven by engines of five hundred-horse power and having a capacity of four million gallons a day, force water into the immense distributing reservoir three hundred and eight feet above the city base. This is located at the corner of Hyde and Greenwich streets.

It holds four million gallons. The second, at the corner of Hyde and Francisco streets, three blocks north, and considerably lower, has a capacity of seven million gallons. The second original source of supply, Pilarcitos Creek, traverses the higher ravines of the eastern slope of the peninsular hills which constitute the divide between the ocean and the bay, running north and south through San Mateo County. In Pilarcitos Valley, fifteen miles south of the city, and seven hundred feet above the sea level, the company has built an immense dam, six hundred feet long, ninety-two feet high, and two hundred feet through at the base. This immense dam, forming a reservoir which contains one billion gallons, constitutes their great original source of supply. In San Andreas Valley, two miles nearer the city, the company has another reservoir containing six hundred and fifty million of gallons. This reservoir is four hundred and thirty feet above the city base. From these two sources, tunnels and flumes having a section of ten square feet and amply provided with sand boxes and filterers to cleanse the water from vegetable matter and sediment, thirteen miles of fourteen-inch wrought-iron pipe, and finally another mile of flume, passes through Tunnel, No. 3, into Lake Honda, four miles southwest of the City Hall. Here, in a little valley expressly provided by nature, the company has changed what was originally a lake into a large double reservoir of sloping-sided masonry, smoothly covered with cement, and holding thirty-five million gallons. A central wall divides this in two, so that in the event of accident, either will suffice to supply the city while the other undergoes repairs. From Lake Honda, three miles of cast-iron mains conduct the water to the Distributing Reservoir at the corner of Buchanan and Market streets, holding two million of gallons, and also to the College Hill Reservoir of fourteen million gallons capacity, which immediately supply the city mains. The present amount of pipe now laid within the city proper is one hundred and fifty-five miles. The capital stock of the company is $8,000,000, divided into eighty thousand shares of $100 each.

In accordance with the provisions of the Act of the Legislature, passed March 30, 1874, selected committees of the Board of Supervisors, accompanied by competent engineers, have visited several of the more promising localities within fifty miles of the city, whence the abundance of pure water, not only for the immediate future but for all possible demands of the remotest time, could be safely brought at reasonable expense. This investigation and exploration, though in successful progress, are yet incomplete, hence any present attempt at a partial report of them would be obviously premature.

Libraries.

For a city as distinctively absorbed in business as San Francisco, ample provision has been made for the gratification of scientific research or literary taste. Chief among the many institutions provided for this purpose, stands the MERCANTILE LIBRARY, on the north side of Bush Street, between Montgomery and Sanson. The building has a frontage on Bush Street of sixty-eight feet nine inches, with a depth of one hundred and thirty-seven feet and six inches. It is three stories high, with basement and attic. The façade is of the modern Italian style, sixty-five feet to the top of the main cornice, and is surmounted by a mansard roof, with iron crestings. Upon the first floor is the library, containing about forty thousand volumes, the reading room, reference library, ladies' reading room, parlor, and trustees' and janitors' room. On the second floor, the chess and smoking room, writing room, museum, and store room for periodicals. The library room extends the full width of the front of the building, and is fifty-four feet deep with a height of twenty feet in the clear. A tasteful, light, airy gallery, for the convenience of the librarian, is erected on two sides of the room. The basement contains a lecture room, fifty-eight feet by seventy-four and twenty-four high; supper room, ladies' and gentlemen's dressing rooms, waiting rooms, etc. The whole of the first story front is of iron, as also are all the window dressings, coars, strings, and pilasters of the rest of the front. The interior finish is of kiln-dried, white cedar, varnished; the doors, stair finish, and book cases, of black walnut. In addition to the library is a large list of magazines and periodicals, comprising one hundred and sixteen magazines, twenty-three illustrated papers, about the same number of foreign papers, some eighty-two Atlantic and one hundred and thirty-four Pacific papers, besides papers from the Sandwich Islands and Cape of Good Hope. The number of volumes taken from the library during 1874, was eighty-four thousand seven hundred and sixty-three.

THE MECHANICS' INSTITUTE is a fine, three-story brick building, having a frontage of seventy-five feet on Post Street, south side, between Montgomery and Kearny. The building contains the library, reading, and chess rooms, a lecture hall capable of seating five hundred persons, a smaller hall, and three stores. The library comprises nearly thirty thousand volumes, among which are many rare and costly scientific and mechanical works. It is expected that this number will be increased in the coming August by the addition of three thousand and three hundred volumes of the British Patent Reports and Specifications donated to the Institute in April, 1874. This will increase the library to considerably over thirty thousand volumes. The Institute is also one of the official depositories of the Patent Office Reports of the Department at Washington. The Industrial Fairs of this society constitute a prominent and attractive feature of the instructive entertainments of the city. During the past few years they have been held annually, and with such successful results that it is probable they will hereafter yearly delight and instruct the general public. The ninth of these fairs was held last year, in the new Mechanics' Pavilion, on Eighth Street, between Market and Mission. The entire building is two hundred feet wide by five hundred and fifty feet long. It has a grand central nave one hundred by four hundred and fifty feet, around which runs a spacious gallery fifty feet wide. It is a remarkably substantial, well-built, wooden structure, conveniently arranged and admirably adapted to the purpose for which it is designed. Cost, $110,000. The Tenth Industrial Fair will open on the seventeenth day of August, 1875, and there is no doubt will prove a greater success than any which have preceded.

THE ODD FELLOWS' LIBRARY occupies a commodious, excellently-arranged hall at No. 325 Montgomery Street. The library contains twenty-six thousand, six hundred and fifty-seven volumes, in the various departments of literature, science, and art, and includes one of the most extensive collection of works on the early history of the Pacific Coast, as well as one of the most complete and valuable cabinets in the State. Organized, December 30, 1854.

SAN FRANCISCO LAW LIBRARY.—In 1865, a society was formed for the purpose of organizing and maintaining a Law Library, and its success is demonstrated by the fact that it now has some fifteen thousand volumes of standard legal, biographical, historical, and miscellaneous works upon its shelves. The library derives its support from a monthly levy upon its members of $2.50; it also derives a revenue of $2 from every case tried before the District Courts of the city.

THE MILITARY LIBRARY was organized in January, 1873, for the purpose of acquiring, preserving, and conducting a public library composed chiefly of books and periodicals of a military character. This institution derives its support from the sales of shares at $5 each. Members may use as many books at a time as they hold shares. There are no dues, but the trustees have power to call for $5 additional upon each share whenever they deem it necessary.

In addition to those already mentioned several of the literary associations and club rooms are provided with large and well-selected libraries and conveniently-furnished reading rooms, liberally supplied with the leading publications of the day; of these may be mentioned the California Pioneers, California Academy of Sciences, Young Men's Christian Association, San Francisco Verein, etc., etc. For details of the different Literary Associations see Appendix, page 994.

Our Public Schools.

In the various departments of public affairs the official chronology of San Francisco is as decidedly trinitarian as the most orthodox could desire. Its calendar year, like that of all nominally civilized and presumably Christian cities, begins upon the first of January; its school year upon the first of July, and its municipal year upon the first of December. Hence, the Directory's year, coinciding with the regular calendar, begins with the last half of one school year and ends with the first half of the next.

For convenience of correspondence or facility of comparison this is, obviously, one of the worst possible arrangements. Until remedied, however, he who attempts the record can only accept and act upon the troublesome fact, in accordance with the well-known and highly politic maxim, "When you must, you'd better."

GENERAL PROGRESS.—During 1874 the progress of the Public Schools, in numbers, organization, and general improvement, measurably approximated the material progress of the city, and this, as every old resident or observant visitor knows, far surpassed that of any previous year of her history. Never before have citizens generally manifested as marked an interest, and as willing a liberality in multiplying and improving all practicable facilities for the extension and elevation of popular education; never before have the public provided as ample resources; never before has the city undertaken the simultaneous erection of as many and as costly school buildings, and at no former period, even in the educational history of this proverbially liberal city, have teachers received as high salaries. Especially is this the case in regard to female assistants in Primary and Grammar Schools. Young girls, holders of the lowest-grade certificates, and with no previous experience in teaching, receive sic hundred dollars a year for their crude apprenticeship work in experimenting upon hapless little ones while learning their business. This is the lowest salary paid, and of four hundred and seventy-five female teachers only twelve receive it. Seventeen others command six hundred and sixty dollars for their second year of apprenticeship, while the great majority draw from the public treasury salaries ranging from eight hundred and ten to two thousand four hundred dollars a year, in gold.

The average annual salary of the whole five hundred teachers now in the department, of whom nineteen twentieths are females, is over one thousand and thirty-three dollars in gold. As Superintendent Denman's last Annual Report truly says, the female "assistants in our Primary and Grammar Schools receive nearly double the salaries paid to teachers in similar positions in most of the eastern cities." And this, too, where the necessary expenses of living are actually less, and very considerably less, than in any eastern city of equal size. This makes San Francisco the female teachers' pecuniary paradise, and sufficiently accounts for their increasingly large immigration hither from the less-favored East. The activity of the matrimonial market "has nothing whatever to do with it," and any such report is a "mean, masculine slander," originated by "those horrid men."

RENTED ROOMS.—That the city did not enter a day too soon upon the erection of the new buildings already commenced, clearly appears from the fact that the Department has been renting, and still occupies, the larger part of, eighty rooms, in thirty-five different buildings and parts of buildings, at an annual rental of nearly $19,000—a sum quite sufficient to build and equip a new twelve-class primary school house every year. These eighty rooms accommodated four thousand two hundred and seventy-one pupils, or about one seventh of the total enrollment for the year.

NEW BUILDINGS.—The Board of Supervisors has already entered upon the erection and equipment of five new school buildings, all of the most approved design, excellent material, and thorough workmanship, and containing an aggregate of seventy rooms. Though less in number, the superior size of these new rooms will enable them to accommodate a considerably larger number of pupils than the eighty old rented rooms.

LEASE OF THE LINCOLN LOT.—The last Legislature authorized the Mayor, Auditor, and Treasurer of San Francisco to issue bonds to the amount of $200,000, to constitute a Building Fund for the erection of urgently-needed school buildings. As a Sinking Fund for the redemption of these bonds, as well as to provide revenue for the payment of interest thereon, the Legislature authorized the Board of Supervisors to lease, for twenty years, that portion of the Lincoln School lot, lying two hundred and seventy-five feet on Market Street by one hundred feet on Fifth Street. This centrally-located and already very valuable property was at once sub-divided into eleven lots, each twenty-five by one hundred feet; all of which were promptly, profitably, and permanently leased. The income thus derived not only pays the interest upon the $200,000 of bonds, but yields a surplus which, safely invested at no more than seven per cent, will amount to nearly $400,000 at the expiration of the twenty years' lease. This sum will not only redeem the bonds, but leave a balance of nearly $200,000 for the erection of such additional school buildings as the Department may then require. Thus, by temporarily surrendering the use of this valuable property to the rapidly-increasing business of this central section, the city not only gains the immediate and continued use of ample means for the accommodation of thousands of pupils in the mean time, but retains and eventually resumes the possession of property which, at the expiration of its twenty-year lease, can hardly fail to command at least $1,000,000.

RATIO OF SCHOOL CHILDREN.—In a total population of two hundred thousand seven hundred and seventy the number of youth under seventeen years old was sixty thousand five hundred and fifty-two; that is about thirty per cent, or nearly one third, of all the inhabitants of the city. Of these, about thirty-five thousand, or considerably more than one half, were of the schoolable age; that is, upward of six. As a matter of fact, however, when reckoning the number of youth actually attending the Public Schools, we must remember that the High Schools always, and the upper grades of the Grammar Schools quite generally, contain pupils more than seventeen years old; while the Normal and Evening Schools are largely, if not mainly, composed of such. Hence it is safely within bounds to calculate that the whole number of youth of schoolable age in this city during the last school year, reckoned in round numbers, was nearly, if not quite, forty thousand.

RATIO OF ENROLLMENT.—Of these forty thousand youth the Public Schools, including the Evening Schools, enrolled twenty-nine thousand four hundred and forty-nine, or three fourths of all legally entitled to attend. Of the remaining ten thousand, the denominational, private, Kindergarten, and family schools probably enrolled fully one half. Hence, it cannot be far wrong to say that, with all the excellent facilities furnished by both public and private schools of all kinds, about one eighth of the schoolable youth of the city wholly failed to attend any school whatever. It is, obviously, upon these five thousand boys and girls now growing into unlawful and destructive ignorance that the new Compulsory Education Law, when properly constructed and duly enforced, is expected to work its chief benefits, public and private.

AVERAGE ENROLLMENT.—The average number actually belonging was twenty thousand seven hundred and fifty. This fairly indicates, what every public school teacher of any considerable experience in San Francisco knows to be true, that, of the total number enrolled in any year, nearly one third fail to attend regularly enough to retain membership for anything more than an necessarily limited time. This very large percentage of irregular or desultory membership results from sickness, removal, incompetence, leaving school for work or trade, and sundry other minor causes. Of these, probably the fourth is the most generally operative in this money-getting metropolis.

AVERAGE ATTENDANCE.—This was nineteen thousand three hundred and eighty-one, which, upon twenty thousand seven hundred and fifty, the average number belonging, gave a general percentage of attendance for the entire Department, of ninety-three and three tenths per cent. This was the lowest in nine years, though but one and one tenth per cent below that of 1873, which was the highest ever reached in the history of the Department, indicating a very high general average and a surprising uniformity.

The two High Schools, with an average membership of five hundred and thirty-nine, rose to ninety-six per cent in attendance; the Grammar Schools having an average membership of four thousand seven hundred and ninety, reached ninety-five and three tenths per cent, while the Primaries, with an average membership of fourteen thousand six hundred and eighty-nine, attained ninety-two and five tenths per cent. Considering their vastly greater numbers, together with their far inferior average age, the little ones decidedly bore off the palm in this very important matter of regular attendance.

The average number of pupils to a teacher in the High School was twenty-five and three tenths; in the Grammar Schools, thirty and three tenths; in the Primary Schools, forty-three and eight tenths; in the entire Department, thirty-nine and nine tenths plus. This average results from dividing the average attendance by the number of regular teachers, excluding, of course, all special teachers not having constant charge of any one class. This low average resulted largely from the inferior size of a considerable part of the rooms occupied, not only in some of the older buildings belonging to the Department, but more especially in many of those which it was compelled to rent. Doubtless the ambition of some principals whose salary was made to depend upon the number of classes they could contrive to maintain, and the unfortunate necessity of keeping up some classes chiefly to give employment to sundry impecunious and importunate teachers and silence their clamorous constituency, may have partially accounted for no inconsiderable portion of these superfluous classes. The very judicious consolidation of classes early effected by the present administration, together with the completion and occupation of the larger rooms in the new buildings, will very considerably increase the average number of pupils taught by each teacher during the current year.

COST OF INSTRUCTION.—Including the salaries of teachers, janitors, carpenters, and other employes of the Department, rents, fuel, lights (for evening schools), books, and supplies, the average annual cost of instructing each scholar, including all grades, was $29.76. In the Primary Schools each pupil cost the city $19.20; in the Grammar Schools about $31.25, and in the High School, $79.80! These very high averages chiefly result from four causes: 1st. The extremely high salaries paid to Primary and Grammar assistants, as already noted. 2d. The unusually large amount spent for repairs and new furniture. 3d. The very small average number of pupils to a class in several of the Primary and Grammar Schools. 4th. The large amount consumed in paying for rented rooms. Upon the completion, equipment, and occupation of the new buildings, the second of these causes will become much smaller, while the third and fourth will be almost extinguished.

RATIO OF SCHOOL EXPENSES.—Out of a total municipal expense of $3,197,808.30, for the year, the total expense of the School Department was $689,022, or twenty-one and five tenths per cent of the whole. This was nearly two per cent higher than that of the preceding year and just three and five tenths per cent below that of 1871, when the ratio of expense for Public Schools was the highest ever known in the city. Considering the number directly connected with the several departments, this ratio of expense is, relatively, much less than that of either the Fire Department or Police.

RAPID GAIN IN MEMBERSHIP.—"The average number belonging to the Public Schools in August, 1874, was twenty-two thousand one hundred and ninety-five and five tenths, which was three thousand three hundred and thirty-six more than the membership in the previous December. The number of teachers employed, at the same time, was four hundred and eighty-two, which was sixty-three less than in the December preceding." These two statements, from the Superintendent's last report (p. 39), require explanation to prevent their conveying wrong impressions. To compare August of one year with December of the preceding year might easily give a wrong idea, because the attendance in December, which is always the close of the first term, and just before the holidays, is much smaller than at any other time of the year, except in May, which is the close of the second term and the end of the school year—as June is the long vacation. On the other hand, August, coming as the second month of the school year, and sufficiently long after the opening of the year to enable all the grades to have received nearly or quite their full complement, is that one month of all the year in which the enrollment is commonly the largest, or very nearly so. Hence, to compare the month of highest enrollment with the month or lowest enrollment in the same school year, involves a fallacy which needs only the statement to become plainly apparent. Had the Superintendent compared the enrollment in December, 1874, with that of August, 1874, the result would have indicated a very slight gain, if indeed it had not shown an actual loss. Neither of these methods of comparison is the just one. The true way is to compare the enrollment in any month with the enrollment in the same month of the year before, and at the same time in the month. While there was a decided gain, it was by no means as great or as sudden as one might conclude who should read that statement without due information and reflection.

The New Classification, which was practically a consolidation of nearly seventy classes and parts of classes into about half as many full ones, took place in July, and was one of the best steps toward increasing the efficiency of the Department, and introducing practical economy into it, which any Superintendent and Board have ever taken.

COSMOPOLITAN PARENTAGE.—Among the curiosities, if not the actual incredibilities, of the School Census of 1874, appears the report that, of the sixty thousand five hundred and fifty-two children or youth reported, only twelve thousand two hundred and thirty, or about one fifth of the whole number, were children of parents who were both native born. Forty thousand and fifty-six, or nearly two thirds of all, came of parents both of whom were of foreign birth, and five thousand nine hundred and fifty-six had one parent foreign born. In the face of such a fact no one can dispute the claim of San Francisco to be pre-eminently the most cosmopolitan city of America.

NATIVITY OF THE CHILDREN.—Although fathered and mothered from nearly all the civilized nations, the children themselves are nearly all native born. Of the whole sixty thousand five hundred and fifty-two, only two thousand two hundred and ninety-nine, or less than four per cent, were born in foreign countries.

NON-ATTENDANCE.—The number of children and youth, of legal age, who were not attending school when the census was taken, was six thousand four hundred and eighty-eight. The causes of this are, mainly, two: 1st. Many parents will not subject their little ones to the necessary confinement and drill of the school room through their earlier childhood, and therefore keep them at home, or send them to Private or Kindergarten Schools, till eight or nine years old. 2d. Hundreds of parents, under stress of poverty, reluctantly withdraw their boys and girls from school to avail themselves of their help at home, or of their earnings in store or shop. The Superintendent estimates the number of those who had no good cause for not attending school, at one thousand four hundred and eighty-eight.

The Compulsory Education Law, intended to "compel all the youth of the State, between eight and fourteen years of age, to attend some school at least twelve consecutive weeks of each year," has failed to become operative in San Francisco, because it omitted to provide for School Marshals, or some equivalent officials, to enforce its provisions. It is so loosely drawn that it will prove almost impossible for school officers to compel the attendance of children whose parents wish to keep them at home, or choose to let them roam the streets. The next Legislature should either perfect it by providing means for its enforcement, or repeal it altogether.

THE "HOODLUM" ELEMENT.—Though comparatively few in numbers, is vicious and vigorous to a decidedly dangerous degree. Educating themselves to the lowest and vilest, debasing themselves and degrading many of the Public School pupils with whom they come into contact, their restraint, and as far as possible their reformation, are among the most important problems claiming the earliest and most earnest attention of our educational and municipal authorities.

PARENTAL NEGLIGENCE.—In most cases the negligence or incompetence of parents and guardians is chiefly and directly responsible for the vileness of these social pests. Upon this point the Superintendent's remarks deserve the most careful reading and earnest heed: "While teachers and school officers can do much toward checking the frightful tide of youthful depravity which is sweeping over our city, wrecking so many noble youths, the fathers and mothers must be mainly responsible for the welfare of their children. They are the first and divinely-appointed instructors of youth; other teachers are but assistants in the great work of education. The wisest provisions of any law which human ingenuity can devise will therefore be powerless, unless sustained by parental influence and sanctioned by a public sentiment alive to the importance of reclaiming and educating the wayward youth of our city."

HIGH SCHOOLS.—Of all the pupils attending all the Public Schools, barely one fiftieth go to the High Schools. Compared with the population of the city, the average attendance records of the High Schools show but one pupil for every three hundred and eighty-five and five tenths inhabitants. This very small fraction, over one half of one per cent, shows that while on the one hand the public taste doubtless needs elevation, on the other hand the course of study and the general conduct of the High Schools need important modification if they are to become in any considerable measure public schools.

To enter either the scientific or literary department of the University of California, the applicant needs add to the Grammar School course only Algebra to Quadratics, and the first four books in Geometry. The boy or girl who has already completed the Grammar School course, and cannot acquire these by the faithful study of a single year, certainly possesses less than average ability. With a proper arrangement of the course of study, one year in either High School should enable the pupil to faithfully review the grammar, arithmetic, geography, and history of his Grammar School course; thoroughly acquire the only two additional studies exacted, and successfully pass the examination for admission to either the literary or scientific department of the University. To require a youth who wishes to enter the University to spend three years in the High School, devoting the greater part of his time to studies which he knows he will have to review after entering the University, is the surest possible way to provoke, disgust, and discourage the pupils themselves, and, what is still worse, to extend, deepen, and strengthen the opposition of parents and the general public, which is, unfortunately, already too strong. All friends of truly popular education join in the hope that the Board of Education will hasten the introduction of the necessary changes in this direction which, it is understood, they have for some time had in serious contemplation.

GIRLS' HIGH AND NORMAL SCHOOL.—As this school furnishes a decided majority of the female teachers of the Department, its improvement and perfection become matters of the highest possible consequence. Several successive examinations of its graduates as candidates for teachers' certificates have shown that its so-called Normal Department is hardly more than nominal. As a High School it is a very decided success; as a Normal School, an equally unquestioned failure. This is not the fault of the teachers, but of the system which expects them to do the work of two separate and distinct departments, each of peculiar difficulty, and yet provides the necessary facilities for but one. The Board has already begun to appreciate this, and at the earliest practicable opportunity will doubtless organize a City Normal and Training School, provided with regular Normal teachers of the best obtainable skill.

THE MODEL SCHOOL.—This is really the practice department of the Girls' High and Normal School. It is doing as well as it can under the circumstances, but can never fulfill its functions with satisfactory success until made a Training School, immediately connected with, and under the general government of, that regularly constituted Normal School already mentioned.

GRAMMAR SCHOOLS.—The year's performance in these schools hardly equaled expectation. This was largely due to the extreme ease and the low standard of the annual examination for promotion at the close of the preceding year, which naturally resulted in promoting into nearly all the grades numbers of very poorly-prepared pupils. The unusually and undeservedly high percentages obtained at that examination were fully offset by the naturally lower ones reached under the more thorough examinations of May, 1874. Marking pupils liberally is a very cheap and easy way to give one's school or one's class a seemingly high standard, and a correspondingly high reputation for scholarship; but the day of examination exposes all such devices, and disastrously ends the transient delusion. The present course of study in the Grammar Schools is in the main necessary, sensible, and practicable. Competent teachers and faithful learners can easily and thoroughly accomplish it in the time prescribed, and have ample margin for complete review.

PRIMARY SCHOOLS.—The higher any structure is to rise toward Heaven, the deeper, the farther toward Heaven's antipode must the wise builder fix its foundations. In things material no one questions this. We all know and heed it. The magnificent Palace Hotel, now lifting its mammoth proportions seven stories above ground, started two stories below. Similarly the wise educator learns of the skillful architect that the higher and grander he is to rear his educational fabric, culminating in and crowned by the college and the university training, the deeper and broader, the more carefully and completely must he lay the Primary School foundations. Theoretically, we all admit this; practically, most forget it.

During the year Superintendent Deuman has wisely occupied the greater part of the time not consumed by office duties in attending to the condition and improvement of these fundamentally important schools. He reports that "great progress has been made in teaching language, especially in the fifth and sixth grades. Correcting false syntax and sentence-making have received considerable attention. In some of the sixth, and even in the seventh-grade classes, the compositions showed a better practical knowledge of the proper use of the English language than many of the pupils of the grammar grades possess." In penmanship, also, many of the primary classes did exceedingly well. As a whole, the primary teachers did excellent work.

COSMOPOLITAN SCHOOLS.—The summary abolition of the study of any language other than the English in all the schools of the Department excepting only the two High Schools, provoked a popular displeasure, and aroused a public opposition which resulted in a legislative enactment requiring the Board of Education to restore the study of the German and French languages in at least two Grammar and two Primary Schools. Having become fully satisfied of the unexpected strength and extent of the popular demand for free public instruction in these two languages, the Board liberally went beyond the mere letter of the law, and, in July, 1874, again introduced the study of the French and German into four Grammar Schools, and eight Primary. The present regulation requires no pupil to study any other, and allows him to study but one other language than the English. In September, 1874, the number of pupils studying French was one thousand five hundred and fourteen, while those studying German numbered three thousand three hundred and three. To instruct these the Board employs twelve teachers of German, and seven teachers of French. As now conducted these schools are giving general satisfaction, and becoming increasingly popular.

SPECIAL SCHOOLS.—In April, 1872, the Board organized two classes composed of the most troublesome pupils in the regular Grammar Schools. They were, in fact, a kind of Public Reform School. Imperfect organization and want of due care in securing the very peculiar talent needed to insure their success, caused their subsequent discontinuance. Habitual truants, constantly careless, and uniformly troublesome pupils may yet be far too good for committal to Industrial or Reform Schools, or Houses of Correction. For such the city should provide a school midway between the Public School and the Reform School in the severity of its discipline, and place it in charge of experienced teachers with sufficient force, energy, tact, and conscience to insure the corrective and reformatory results which constitute the chief end of such a school. Enlightened humanity earnestly pleads for the early establishment of a properly-organized and rightly-conducted school of this grade.

EVENING SCHOOLS.—Five Evening Schools, employing twenty-eight teachers, continuing through nine months, enrolling two thousand one hundred and seventy-three pupils, having an average monthly enrollment of one thousand and eleven, and an average daily, or, perhaps we should say nightly, attendance of six hundred and two and five tenths, summarize the important facts of these extremely useful schools. Of twenty classes, nineteen were male and one female. The results of the instruction in Bookkeeping, in Mechanical and Industrial Drawing, the notable progress of large numbers of young foreigners in learning to read, write, and speak English, together with the general progress of all the pupils in gaining practical familiarity with Commercial Arithmetic and Business Forms, merit especial notice and commendation. Under the continued supervision of W. A. Robertson, Esq., good order and discipline, with improved general efficiency, have additionally demonstrated the great practical utility, and in fact the indispensable public necessity, of these valuable auxiliaries to our public instruction.

COLORED SCHOOLS.—Two colored schools, enrolling eighty-one different pupils, employing three teachers, and having an average daily attendance of but forty-three scholars, or fourteen and one third to each teacher, formed the record of these schools for the year. In the Fifth Street School, the average daily attendance was eight, at a cost to the city of $120 a year for the tuition of each pupil. This unsatisfactory showing principally resulted from the general unwillingness of the colored people to send their children to monochromatic schools. Having obtained equal rights in the elective franchise they claim equal privileges in educational facilities, and are in a fair way to get them.

LABOR SCHOOLS.—Under the auspices of the Mechanics' Deliberative Assembly, the attempt to engraft the teaching of various mechanical trades upon the regular instruction of the Public Schools was quite vigorously prosecuted for some months in the early part of the year. The futility of any such attempt presently became so apparent that its advocates modified their attempts into a well-digested plan for a School Ship or Floating Training School, for which they have already obtained from the Navy Department the grant of the U. S. ship Jamestown, with the appointment of Commander Glass to inaugurate and develop the enterprise, will in a few days be placed in practical operation. The main idea is to receive lads and young men who would else be committed to the Industrial School, and while teaching them the essential branches of a sound, English education, also to train them for efficient service in the merchant marine or naval service, as they may elect.

CORPORAL PUNISHMENT.—The regulation respecting this very important portion of school discipline requires each principal to include in his monthly report a statement of the number of cases of corporal punishment, the age and sex of the pupil, and the cause thereof. Under this rule the report of eighteen thousand three hundred and sixty-seven cases of corporal punishment came into the office, and even this immense number was considerably below the truth, as many teachers admitted that they recorded and reported only the more severe cases. This almost incredible number largely resulted from that change in the rules which empowered every assistant to personally administer corporal punishment, at her own discretion, which was nearly as great an error in some respects as it would be for the father of a large family to authorize the big brothers and sisters to whip the little ones whenever they thought best or felt like it. Upon this point the Superintendent deserves quoting again: "In order to protect the helpless and dependent children in our Public Schools from passionate and inexperienced teachers, I respectfully recommend the Board of Education to limit the power to inflict corporal punishment to the principals of the schools."

The total abolition of corporal punishment, however desirable, is certainly not yet practicable, except by resort to suspension and expulsion from school; and this cannot be done without sacrificing the very youth whom we should save, and, at the same time, seriously endangering the peace of society. When we have succeeded in safely abolishing capital punishment and the resort to all forms of force in dealing with adult offenders, we may enter more hopefully upon the task of securing the necessary discipline among large bodies of often sadly neglected, and occasionally positively vicious, youth without ever resorting to physical force. Meanwhile it is to be noted that these visionary humanitarians, with their beautiful ideas of the "slumbering angel latent in every youthful human soul," are generally old maids or old bachelors—or parents without children, or, having children, lamentably deficient in home discipline; or teachers whose own classes or schools exhibit a lack of order which at once condemns the teacher and his testimony. To hundreds of the very youth who most need corrective discipline, expulsion from school would prove "capital" punishment indeed, by turning them loose into the streets, unchecked by home or school influence, free to give themselves up to having "capital" times in following their own depraved dispositions into vice, criminality, and early imprisonment, or, possibly, capital execution itself. On theoretic boys and girls these fine theories work admirably, but with the real youth of this time and place, the judicious administration of corporal punishment, under due bounds and restraints, is indispensably necessary.

Colleges and Private Schools.

ST. IGNATIUS' COLLEGE.—This well-known literary institution, located on Market Street, between Fourth and Fifth, which is conducted by the Fathers of the Society of Jesus, was first opened for the reception of students on the fifteenth day of October, 1855, and was incorporated under the law of the State on the thirtieth of April, 1859, and empowered to confer the usual degrees and academical honors. Since its commencement, this institution has been attended with the highest degree of prosperity and success. The course of instruction pursued is thorough, and comprises a complete classical, mathematical, and philosophical course of training, calculated to prepare the pupil for entering upon the study of any of the professions, or commencing any business vocation. The college is provided with an extensive laboratory, comprising all the necessary appliances for the assaying of metals and making chemical analysis, which is an important feature not generally found in institutions of this character. There is a telegraphic room, with an instrument in operation, where the business of operating is taught. The "Ignatian Literary Society," for exercise in debate; the "Philhistorian Debating Society," to promote the knowledge of history; the "Loyola Scientific Academy," for the cultivation and promotion of the study of natural sciences; a College Band and singing classes are established in the college for the improvement of the pupils. The founders of this institution, foreseeing the rapid progress of the Queen City of the Pacific, purchased some years since the property upon which the magnificent college edifice has since been erected. This lot has a frontage of two hundred and seventy-five feet on Market and the same on Jessie Street, with a depth of three hundred and fifty feet. The present building—the cost of which, independent of the lot, was $160,000—although one of the finest architectural ornaments of the city, is only a part of the extent contemplated. When the extensive additions are made, the entire structure will rival anything of the kind to be found in our portion of the country. The present building is admirably adapted to the purposes for which it was designed, being abundantly lighted and well ventilated in every portion; the ceilings are lofty, and spacious halls run through the building. A large play ground is attached, with a commodious shelter from the rain, affording ample means for the physical exercise of the pupils. In fact, nothing has been neglected which is at all conducive to mental and physical training. The number of students in the college at present is over five hundred, under a staff of twenty-two professors and teachers.—[See Advertisement, page xxxix.]

SANTA CLARA COLLEGE, SANTA CLARA.—This establishment is under the superintendence of the Fathers of the Society of Jesus, and is open to all who choose to avail themselves of its advantages. It is situated in the beautiful Valley of Santa Clara, so celebrated for the mildness and salubrity of its climate, and is about three miles distant from San José and quite close to the Southern Pacific Railroad. The college was founded in 1851. On the twenty-eighth of April, 1855, it was incorporated and empowered to confer degrees and academical honors, and to exercise all the rights and privileges common to any other literary institution in the United States. It has a full staff of professors, and presents advantages for the mental, physical, and moral training of the students unsurpassed in California. It possesses a complete philosophical apparatus, purposely made in Paris for Santa Clara College, and furnished with all necessary instruments for experiments in mechanics, hydraulics, pneumatics, calorics, electricity, magnetism, optics, acoustics, and surveying. New and important additions are being made every year to keep pace with the progress of science. The chemical laboratory is provided with a full assortment of chemicals, a very good set of furnaces, and all that is necessary for the different kinds of chemical analysis. The museum of natural history comprises a valuable collection of mineralogy and geology; also three thousand specimens of shells and other natural curiosities. As an accessory to the scientific department, there is a photographic gallery, where the students who wish may learn photography in all its different branches. Practical lessons are given also on the electric telegraph. The college library numbers about twelve thousand volumes.—[See Advertisement, page xli.]

HEALD'S BUSINESS COLLEGE.—This popular school is located at 24 Post Street, between Montgomery and Kearny. It is well known throughout the country as being the largest and one of the most thorough and complete commercial institutes in America. It has a total yearly attendance of about seven hundred and fifty pupils. Among these pupils are found the sons of many of our most prominent business men. Students are also to be found here from every county in the State, from all the neighboring States and Territories, from British America, Mexico, Central America, and the Sandwich Islands. Heald's Business College is connected with the International Business College Association, which includes the leading commercial schools in the United States and Canada. There are thirty-six schools in the association, located in all of our leading commercial cities. These schools—formerly known as the Bryant & Stratton Colleges—are popular among the business men of the whole country, and their graduates are numbered by thousands. The object of this school is principally to fit young men for business pursuits, yet its course of instruction is adapted to all professions and callings. In addition to the course of commercial studies, instruction is given in all the English branches; in French, German, and Spanish; in Telegraphy, Photography, Higher Mathematics, etc. The plan of operation adopted is different from other schools on this coast. Actual practice in business affairs constitutes the main feature of the mercantile course. Instead of a dry and uninteresting study of mere theory, the pupil enters into business where he meets with the same transactions that he would in a real counting house or bank. He buys, sells, ships, consigns, and goes through all the routine of a merchant. He keeps his accounts with the bank, drawing his checks, discounting his notes, and dealing in all kinds of business forms and papers. By this process the pupil readily becomes familiar not only with the proper forms of bookkeeping but also with all the details of business. When ready to graduate he thus has a practical knowledge of the phases of merchandising, banking, railroad, commission, jobbing, importing, etc. The practicability of this method of instruction has been amply proved by the success of the numerous graduates of this school during the past twelve years. Its graduates are now to be found in most of the leading banks and mercantile houses of this city, and their services are in good demand. Connected with the college is a telegraphic institute, located in the Mechanics' Institute Building, No. 27 Post Street. This department is under the immediate supervision of James Gamble, General Superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph Co., and is ably managed. It has been fitted up at great expense with all the instruments for teaching the art thoroughly, and is one of the most complete institutes of the kind in America. The graduates of this department find ready employment, and succeed in giving perfect satisfaction. Ladies are admitted into all the departments of the college, and their success both in the business and telegraphic departments has been most gratifying. They are quite generally availing themselves of the opportunity thus afforded for fitting themselves for useful and lucrative employment, and we regard it as a hopeful sign to see so many of them in the school. The College Faculty comprises the following well-known officers and teachers: E. P. Heald, President and General Manager; F. C. Woodbury, Secretary and Superintendent of Course of Instruction; H. M. Stearns, Superintendent of the Theory Department; A. E. Castle, Superintendent of Practical Department; T. R. Southern, Superintendent English Department; H. A. Frederick, A. B. Capp, and Miss Clara Snell, Book-keeping and Accounts; F. Seregni, Penmanship; Mrs. N. Heald, Department of Telegraphy; Mrs. A. M. Hatch, Photography; W. P. Casey, Surveying and Mechanical Drawing; Lloyd Baldwin, Mercantile Law; A. P. Du Bief, French; C. F. Morel, Spanish; George Jebens, German.

PRIVATE SCHOOLS.—The number of private schools and colleges in San Francisco is about one hundred. In size and character these range through nearly every degree, from the little private, family or home school of half a dozen scholars, to the large flourishing college enrolling its pupils by hundreds. Of these the Catholics maintain about one fifth, while a considerable portion of the remainder either directly belong to or are managed in the especial interest of other religious denominations. The number of pupils attending private and church schools in June, 1874, as reported by the Census Marshals, was six thousand one hundred and eighty-one. This was a fraction less than one tenth of the whole number of schoolable children in the city. The increase in the number of such pupils during 1874, was eight hundred and ninety-six, which was considerably greater, relatively, than was shown by the census and reports of public school attendance.

Hospitals.

The hospitals of San Francisco will compare favorably with those of other cities of its size and population. The public institutions are ample in accommodation and appointment, while those of private character are to be found in all parts of the city. The Germans and French have for years had fine hospital buildings. The Sisters of Mercy own a large structure on Rincon Hill. The Italians have within a few years completed a commodious building, corner of Twenty-eighth and Noe streets, and the Episcopal societies are now erecting a hospital on the cottage plan, beyond the Mission. The special purpose of these hospitals is to provide for certain classes of our citizens, as the French, the German, the Italian, etc., but all who desire to avail themselves of their advantages are admitted upon payment of most reasonable fees. Besides the institutions enumerated above, there are several smaller ones which have been established through the munificence of our citizens, and whose names indicate their special uses. These are the State Woman's Hospital, the San Francisco Woman's Hospital, the Foundling Asylum and Lying-In Hospital, etc.

Up to September, 1872, the City and County Hospital was located at North Beach, the main building having been originally constructed for a school house; the other two being temporary wooden structures. For years these had been inadequate for the increasing wants of the city, hence the completion of the commodious structure now in use was viewed with much satisfaction by those interested in the good name of our city. Not only are the buildings and accommodations in the new location much more ample than those formerly occupied, but the location itself is far better suited to the purposes in view. The grounds are in the southern portion of the city, and comprise the two blocks, bounded by Nevada, Sierra, and Nebraska Streets and Potrero Avenue. They measure eight hundred and sixty-six feet by four hundred and eighty-one, or nearly ten acres. The location is somewhat elevated, at least sufficiently so to insure efficient drainage, and though not very accessible at present will, when the contemplated extension of the Sixth Street line out Potrero Avenue is completed, be but a short ride from Market Street, requiring no more time than was necessary to reach the former hospital. The main buildings face the west, the hospital entrance being on Potrero Avenue, which runs nearly north and south. An entirely different plan has been adopted to that usually in vogue; several individual structures, most of them at considerable distance from each other, but connected by a long, covered corridor, unite to form the hospital. With the exception of the kitchen and laundry, which are of brick, all the buildings are of wood, with brick foundations. The individual structures are: The administrative and dining-hall buildings, each three stories high, situated in the center of the block, opposite each other, and on either side of the center of the covered corridor, which is five hundred and fifty-six feet long by eighteen feet wide, and runs lengthwise of the block; the kitchen and laundry, back of the dining rooms; the chapel, at the south end of the corridor; the gate-house, stable, morgue, operating rooms, etc., scattered about in various places, and, lastly, six long pavilions, each two stories high, and each designed to accommodate sixty-four patients (with their nurses), thirty-two on a floor. It is designed eventually to have twelve pavilions, to be built in pairs, opposite each other, on either side of the long corridor and parallel to the main buildings; the first pair, on either side, being a hundred feet from the main buildings, the second a hundred feet from the first, and the third a hundred feet from the second. Six pavilions are considered sufficient for present purposes. With the most generous allowance of space, they will contain three hundred and eighty-four patients. In an emergency at least a hundred more could be accommodated without serious overcrowding. Since moving into these new quarters in September, 1872, the number of patients has largely increased owing, partly at least, to the greater comfort afforded. The average number of patients in the City and County Hospital for the year 1874, was three hundred and seventy-seven, and during this period the total admissions numbered three thousand five hundred and forty-six, and the deaths three hundred and thirteen. It may be further mentioned that there were treated in 1874, as estimated, about six thousand out-patients, for whom were put up over twelve thousand prescriptions. Resident Physician, Dr. W. M. Lawlor; Assistant Resident Physician, Dr. J. W. Keeney; Visiting Surgeons, Drs. W. A. Douglass and H. H. Toland; Visiting Physicians, Drs. F. A. Holman and C. M. Bates. Besides these, the medical staff is composed of Dr. Martinache, of the University of California, and Drs. Gibbons and Barkan, of the Medical College of the Pacific, whose services are rendered gratuitously.

In 1867, the Alms House, a large and substantial frame building, was constructed near Lake Honda, by the city. The need of such an establishment had become urgent, as the City and County Hospital was burdened with the permanently disabled and superannuated, who had been accumulating for years. This building will accommodate five hundred persons, the average number present in 1874 being three hundred and thirty, and the total admissions for the year being four hundred and fifty-one. In the hospital wards there is an average of seventy-five patients. Thirty-nine deaths occurred in 1874. The officers are a Superintendent, Mr. M. J. Keating, and a Resident Physician, Dr. S. R. Gerry.

Besides the Hospital and Alms House, the city owns three frame buildings about half a mile from the hospital, which were constructed at the time of the small-pox epidemic in 1868-9, and are capable of accommodating in the neighborhood of two hundred patients. One of the buildings is still reserved for small-pox cases, forty-two of which have been treated there during the year, with eight deaths. Another of the buildings is used as a Chinese Hospital. In this last were admitted forty cases, mostly chronic, fourteen of whom died. The patients were under the professional care of Dr. L. P. Foster, the Resident Physician.

In the fall of 1865 the San Francisco Health Office was established. Prior to this time no mortuary records had been preserved by the city. The creation of the office has resulted in unquestionable advantage, leaving out of consideration the value of the statistics collected. A City Board of Health was created by the Legislature in 1870; it consists of the Mayor and four physicians, and has control over the Health Office and all the public charitable institutions of the city and county. From a small beginning the Health Department has grown into a very important branch of the city government. It controls appointments involving an expense to the city of several thousand dollars a month, and has a general oversight of all sanitary affairs.

The German Hospital is built upon a lot fronting one hundred and thirty-seven and one half feet on Brannan Street (near Third Street) and extending back two hundred and seventy-five feet. The main building is of brick, three stories high, facing the northwest, and occupies all the frontage except what is required for a wide carriage-way. It was built in 1853; a wing was added in 1860, and a second wing in 1869, so that the hospital can accommodate one hundred and thirty patients. The remaining portion of the grounds, equaling over one half the area, is laid out with grass plats and walks, and planted with trees. There are but two wards in the hospital, each containing ten beds; the remaining rooms being designed for one or two patients only. The hospital is under the control of the German General Benevolent Society, which now numbers twenty-seven hundred and ninety-six members. The charges, which include medical attendance, are $2 per day, with from 50 cents to $1.50 extra for private rooms if they be desired. During the year 1874, the German Hospital received for treatment seven hundred and fifty-seven patients, the average number present being seventy-seven. There were forty-seven deaths in the same period. The attending physicians are Drs. F. Von Loehr, J. Regensburger, A. Wilhelm, and F. W. Smith.

The French Hospital, or "Maison de Santé," is also under the charge of a society, the "Société Française de Bienfaisance Mutuelle," organized in 1851, and now having a membership of three thousand. The building is a large two-story brick structure, occupying the center of a hundred-vara (two hundred and seventy-five by two hundred and seventy-five feet) lot on Bryant Street, between Fifth and Sixth streets, the remaining grounds being laid out in gardens and platted with trees.

Originally, the hospital completed in 1859 was but one story in height. In 1869 a second story was added, increasing the capacity to the accommodation of one hundred and seventy patients. In 1874 there were admitted to this hospital eight hundred and fifty patients, the weekly average number present being sixty-five. During the year there were sixty-one deaths. The charges are $2 per day for ward patients and $3 for those desiring private rooms. Drs. Pigné-Dupuytren and Hoffstetter are the Visiting Physicians, and Dr. E. Prevost is the Apothecary.

One of the finest of the private hospitals is the St. Mary's Hospital, under the care of the Sisters of Mercy. It was erected in 1861 on a hundred-vara lot on the southwest corner of Bryant and First streets. The building is of brick, four stories high, and measures seventy-five feet by one hundred and fifty on the ground. The design is, when occasion shall require, to add to it a wing, which will double its present capacity. No hospital in this city excels this in interior arrangement. The ceilings are high, the halls broad, the rooms capacious, the ventilation and general adaptability to the purposes intended excellent. There are but one or two large wards, the majority being intended to accommodate from six to twelve patients; besides these there are a number of private rooms. In the wards and rooms there are beds for one hundred and eight patients. During the year the wards are often full. The average number of patients for the year 1874 was about ninety, and the total admissions for the year numbered nine hundred and seventy-eight. In the same period one hundred and thirty deaths occurred. Patients in the general wards are charged $10 per week, those occupying private rooms $20. Dr. James Murphy is Visiting Surgeon; Dr. J. D. Whitney, Visiting Physician, and Dr. C. G. Kenyon, Resident Physician.

In 1868 the Italian Benevolent Society erected a hospital for the use of its members and others. Two blocks, bounded by Twenty-eighth, Twenty-ninth, Noe, and Castro streets had been secured, and afford a most admirable site. The building faces the east. It is of brick, two stories in height and contains beds for forty patients. A wing may be conveniently added should more room be required. During the first eleven months of 1872 there were admitted to this hospital two hundred and three patients, the average number present at any one time being over eighteen; and the number under treatment on the first of December, 1872, being about ten. For various reasons, perhaps as much because of its great distance from the central portion of the city as from any other cause, this hospital was closed toward the latter part of 1873; when it will again be open for patients is not known.

In 1853 the Government caused to be erected at Rincon Point a very large, four-story brick hospital, one of the finest buildings in the city at that time, and ever since, from its character and position, a prominent landmark. It was designed for eight hundred patients—sailors of the merchant and national marine—probably five times as many as were ever within its walls at one time. Until 1868 it continued to be used. In this year the severe earthquake further impaired a foundation already rendered insecure by extensive grading, which had left the hospital perched upon a high embankment, and it was vacated. After numerous removals and vicissitudes, the patients at last secured a home in the building formerly occupied as the asylum for the deaf, dumb, and blind, on the corner of Mission and Fifteenth streets. The ground is ample, the buildings, two in number, are four stories high, of brick, and perhaps as suitable for a hospital as buildings converted to such purposes generally are. They are probably the best accommodations that could be secured without building, and are calculated to contain one hundred and twenty-five patients, though the average number in 1874 was but eighty-five. In this year there were admitted six hundred and sixteen patients. During the same period thirty deaths occurred. The hospital is under the professional charge of Dr. C. N. Ellinwood.

Over a year since the Government decided to build a suitable Marine Hospital, a site on the Presidio Reservation near Mountain Lake, having been selected. The buildings are, in fact, almost completed and are expected to be ready for occupancy by May, 1875. They are constructed entirely of wood, and consist of an executive building two stories in height, of two, long, one-story buildings, one on each side of the executive building, to be used for kitchen, pantry, laundry, store rooms, dead room, linen room, etc.; and of three one-story wards radiating from the rear of the executive building like the ribs of a fan. The whole expense, including a separate residence for the surgeon, will be about $60,000.

The writer of this article has visited all the hospitals above named, some of them frequently. Their internal arrangements are creditable to their authorities, convenient and comfortable for patients, and calculated to afford excellent facilities for the cure of disease. Nearly all, if not all, the establishments are provided with bathing apparatus, not only for common use, but for special application in treatment. Thus a patient may have warm, cold, shower, steam, or medicated baths, at the option of his physician. The medical staff of the different institutions is ample, and, as will be seen, includes physicians of excellent standing in the profession.

The larger hospitals have now been considered. There remain to be mentioned a few smaller institutions inaugurated for special objects. The buildings which these occupy were not built for such purposes, but have all been converted from dwelling houses. The State Woman's Hospital, corner of Twelfth and Howard streets, receives only those with diseases peculiar to women. All who are able are expected to pay. Six beds are, however, devoted to non-paying patients, $10 per week being charged in other cases. Originally the hospital accommodated eighteen patients. About a year since an addition was built, increasing its capacity to thirty-one beds. In 1874 the average attendance was eighteen, and the total admissions numbered eighty. A hundred and ninety-eight out-patients were treated during the same period. In explanation of the small number admitted during the year, it may be mentioned that most of the cases require months, some as many as eight, of treatment, before a cure can be effected. The hospital is under the charge of Dr. John Scott, assisted by Drs. George Chismore and C. E. Blake.

On the corner of Clay Street and Prospect Place is the San Francisco Woman's Hospital, of which Dr. C. T. Deane is the Physician. As the certificate of incorporation shows, this institution was established for the cure of sick females, and to provide them with a home, medical attendance, medicines, and proper care during such period of sickness. It is in fact a general hospital for females, who are received and treated gratuitously. There were received here during 1874 one hundred and eighty-one patients, of whom a hundred were pregnant; and there were born in the institution in this period one hundred and four infants. The hospital, which contains thirty beds, had an average for the year of about twenty inmates.

In 1868 the San Francisco Lying-in Hospital and Foundling Asylum was incorporated, for respectable married women or unprotected single women who have previously borne a good moral character, and for the care and protection of such children as may be born in said hospital, and foundlings without distinction of color. The special character of the institution will be seen at once; it will be appreciated that it differs from all other charities in receiving no cases of disease whatever. The hospital and asylum has been in successful operation for several years at 269 Jessie Street, under the professional care of Dr. Benjamin F. Hardy. Within a short period another large dwelling, adjoining in the rear and fronting on Mission Street, has been rented, and the accommodations thus materially increased. The design is to provide a room for each pregnant female besides providing room for the foundlings left at the door. During 1874 the hospital was generally full; nearly a hundred infants were either born in, or left to the care of, the institution. A number of these died, many were given away or adopted, and others were taken away by their mothers.

A little more than three years ago the various Episcopal churches, desiring to provide more fully for the sick and needy of their parishes, organized St. Luke's Hospital, and procured a building beyond the Mission, which they adapted to hospital purposes and arranged to accommodate twenty patients. During 1874 sixty-five patients were received, the average attendance being fourteen. The patients are under the charge of Drs. W. A. Douglass and C. B. Hutchins. Some months since the managers purchased a lot containing two acres, on which they are now erecting a hospital on the cottage plan, which will be ready for occupancy by April next. When fully completed it will contain beds for eighty patients, but at present the design is to provide for but thirty. Though designed more especially for the poor of the Episcopal parishes, St. Luke's Hospital is not exclusive, but receives patients of all denominations, and is general in character.

It will be seen that exclusive of the Alms House and the Small-pox Hospital, the city, in its public and private charities, offers accommodation for over a thousand patients; that during 1874 over seven thousand persons availed themselves of their advantages, of which nearly eight hundred died; and that the average number of patients under treatment was over seven hundred and fifty.

Associations—Benevolent and Protective.

The operations of the different Associations, Benevolent, Protective, etc., are fully detailed in the Appendix, pages 972-994. During the past year several important charities have been established to assist those already in existence. The unequalled munificence of our citizens in their generous support of the many organizations of a benevolent character in our midst, as well as their prompt and characteristic responses to the many appeals for assistance from abroad, have given them a reputation that any community may well be proud of.

Manufactures.

Manufacturing eventually becomes to a city what agriculture is to the country, its surest source of general prosperity and permanent wealth. In San Francisco especially, speculation and trade have usually proved so largely remunerative, and, consequently, so generally attractive, that manufacturing, with its relatively slow and small returns, has absorbed comparatively little capital. Within the past two years, however, a few capitalists of the heavier class, with a very considerable number of those controlling more moderate fortunes, have given increased attention to the establishment and encouragement of the more important manufactures at home. A brief review of the more prominent of these, including such statistical information as we can command, will sufficiently demonstrate to the reader the character, extent, and value of the most valuable of our home industries during the past year. By the most valuable, we mean those which employ the greatest number of operatives, and the annual aggregate of whose transactions exceeds $100,000. For obvious convenience we present them in alphabetical order:

ARTIFICIAL STONE WORKS.—Of these, working under different patents, and making both stone and marble, the city has four. They employ between eighty and ninety men, and turn out finished products to the value of $150,000 a year.

BILLIARD TABLES.—Six factories employ eighty men, make five hundred tables, worth $220,000. There is probably as great a demand for billiard tables in San Francisco as in any other city of equal population in America. The players, both amateur and professional, will have the best, and are generally both able and willing to pay for them.

BOOTS AND SHOES.—This branch of industry is rapidly progressing, and fast displacing Eastern-made goods, the importation of which, in comparison with the rapidly-increasing demand, is steadily decreasing. In style and quality California-made boots and shoes surpass anything we can obtain from the East, and our home-made goods now find a ready market in all the adjoining and neighboring States and Territories, and were it not for the difference in currency we might successfully compete even with New England for the trade of the West. The support of this great local interest, the products of which are always trodden under foot, gives employment to nearly four thousand hands, including all classes, male and female, Eastern and Chinese workers, the value of whose productions amounts in the aggregate to very nearly, if not quite, $4,000,000. One of the largest firms in the city, that of Messrs. Buckingham & Hecht, employed during 1874 three hundred and fifty white hands and two hundred and fifty Chinese, making a total of six hundred hands. The stock consumed by them was as follows: Sides of sole leather, thirty-seven thousand six hundred and eighty; sides of wax upper, eleven thousand six hundred and forty; sides of buff upper, fifteen thousand; kip, six thousand; domestic calfskin, eight thousand and four hundred; imported calfskin, twelve thousand, from which was manufactured three hundred and seventy-five thousand pairs of boots and shoes, an increase of forty thousand on the previous year. A dozen such establishments as this could scarcely supply the local and country trade.

BOXES.—Twenty-two companies and firms, making all kinds of boxes, wooden, metallic, and paper; plain, fancy, cigar, and treasure, employ three hundred and forty hands, whose annual work results in $1,200,000 worth of finished goods.

BRASS FOUNDRIES.—Fourteen of these furnish employment to one hundred and seventy-five men and boys, and increase the aggregate annual value of manufactures of the city by $385,000.

BREWERIES.—Lager Beer constitutes the principal brew of the city. The report of the brewers for 1874 shows a healthy increase of business. The number of barrels made was two hundred and five thousand. There are in the city about forty breweries, which give employment to three hundred and forty-two men. The total value of their annual production is $1,725,000.

BROOMS, BROOM HANDLES, AND BRUSHES.—The making of these indispensable domestic utensils forms the business of no less than thirteen separate factories, furnishes employment to one hundred and twenty men and boys, and results in the annual placing upon the market of over one million brooms and brushes, worth $210,000.

CANDLE FACTORIES.—In these days of gas and kerosene one would hardly believe that in the City of San Francisco alone over one hundred men find constant work in turning out one hundred and ten thousand boxes a year, worth upward of $300,000. When they reflect, however, that the constantly-increasing army of miners, in all the darkness of their underground work, unable to depend upon gas or kerosene, must rely wholly upon candles, they will quickly discover the source of a very great and annually-increasing consumption which makes such a "cereus" item in the annual account of the city's manufactures.

CARRIAGE, CAR, AND WAGON FACTORIES.—Of these, including those of all capacities, there are nearly fifty in the city. They range from the vast establishment of the Kimball Manufacturing Co. to the small shop employing but a single man. They employ four hundred and fifty men, turned out over twelve hundred wagons and carriages in 1874, and added over $600,000 to the total wealth of our manufactures.

CHEMICALS.—In a city and county in which so much of assaying and other metallurgical work is constantly demanded, the production of chemicals is necessarily stimulated to an extent almost incredible to one who had not previously considered these unusual causes. Eight different chemical works employ forty-nine men. In the lack of the statistics necessary to give the annual value of their production, we give a few items of their consumption. Last year they used three thousand and four hundred tons of nitrate of soda, five hundred and fifty tons of sulphur, and eight hundred and twenty tons of sulphuric acid.

CIGARS AND TOBACCO.—Since the successful raising and preparing of tobacco, by the Culp process, has been practically demonstrated, the culture of this plant has attracted much attention in this State, and there is no longer any doubt that this industry is destined to become of very great importance among the commercial and manufacturing interests of California. The California tobacco, cured by this process, commands a higher price than any other in the market. The New York Tobacco Leaf says that the first sales at Louisville, Kentucky, of California tobacco, cured by the Culp process, brought eighty per cent more than any other tobacco sold during that week, and from one hundred to one hundred and fifty per cent more than average new leaf from other States. As Louisville is one of the centers of the tobacco interest in the United States, the commercial rating of tobacco there would fix its character all over the country. Havana tobacco, of equally good quality as that grown upon the Island of Cuba, can be raised in many parts of the State, and produces abundantly, yielding two thousand pounds to the acre, a greater bulk than is produced in any of the southwestern States. The beautiful and fertile valley of Santa Clara is taking the lead in this business, and will probably become the great tobacco county of the State. In June, 1874, according to the Sacramento Record, Santa Clara had about four million plants set out: Los Angeles about one million; Santa Cruz, eight hundred thousand, and Lake County, three hundred thousand; making a total of over six million, which, it is probable, has now nearly, if not quite, doubled. In selecting a site for a tobacco plantation, care should be taken that it is well sheltered from prevailing winds, and that the soil is a soft, sandy loam, such as is most favorable to its growth. In regard to the cigar-making interest, it is no smoky view of the subject that leads us to say that it is becoming by far the greatest of our local industries, giving employment to a larger number of people, and producing a greater value than almost any other. Nearly all our cigars are of home manufacture, only about one thousand cases having been imported during the last two years. Of the one hundred and fifteen cigar manufactories in the city, the heaviest is that of Lewis Brothers. The number of hands employed by them during 1874 was three hundred. They consumed three hundred and twenty thousand pounds of tobacco in the manufacture of nine million cigars. The number of hands employed by all the manufactories is three thousand four hundred and eighty, and the aggregate number of cigars made, ninety-four million six hundred and fifty thousand, worth $40 per thousand, or $3,786,000. Taking into account the large number of smaller manufactories from which we have no returns or statistics, we may safely assume that the value of this industry, in the City of San Francisco, closely approximates $5,000,000.

CLOTHING.—Tailors are abundant, and their work excellent; yet, notwithstanding this, the demand for ready-made work is great enough to furnish constant employment to one hundred and seventy-five men and women, and calls for the aggregate manufacture of $400,000 worth of clothing last year.

COFFEE, SPICE, AND CHOCOLATE MILLS number ten. They employ over one hundred men, roast and grind two million two hundred and fifty thousand pounds of coffee, prepare one hundred thousand pounds of chocolate, grind one hundred and seventy-five thousand pounds of spices, and add $540,000 to the annual value of the city's productions.

CORDAGE AND ROPE.—One would hardly expect that a city and State which have as little ship building could keep one hundred and twenty-five men and boys, in three factories, constantly at work, and could consume three thousand tons of hemp and wire rope in a single year. The great amount of heavy hoisting done in the mines of California, and the adjoining States, occasions and accounts for almost the whole of this consumption.

DISTILLERIES.—The city furnishes no less than eleven. They employ over two hundred men, make a million and a half gallons of liquor, worth upward of $1,500,000 a year.

FLOURING MILLS.—Eight flouring mills, within the city limits, last year produced six hundred and sixty-five thousand barrels of flour; seven thousand three hundred and twenty-five tons of feed barley; seven hundred and thirty-five tons of hominy; six hundred and twenty tons of oatmeal and groats, and two hundred and twenty tons of buckwheat and rye flour. The aggregate value of these was considerably above $4,500,000. The number of men employed was one hundred and seventy-three.

FOUNDRIES AND IRON WORKS.—This is another of the industries directly or indirectly deriving a large part of their support from the mines. There are now twenty-four in operation, employing twelve hundred men, and using eight thousand tons of pig iron a year, besides about one tenth as much bar iron. The value of their manufactures aggregate about $5,000,000. Among the more prominent of these are the Etna, California, Columbia, Fulton, Golden State, Miners', Pacific, Pacific Rolling Mills, Occidental, Union, and the Risdon Iron Works. For solidity, weight, strength, and finish, the work turned out at the iron works of San Francisco, especially during the last two or three years, will bear comparison with that of even the most celebrated foundries of the East. The Hope Iron Works, at the Potrero, of which W. W. Hanscom is proprietor, makes a specialty of vertical engines, both stationary and marine, and particularly for steam yachts and propellers for special service. That the demand for specific articles is such as to enable or warrant an establishment of this class in turning its entire attention to their manufacture, is a matter of much congratulation as denoting the healthy increase of this branch of industry; and not only that, but we may reasonably expect that the result will be the production of a superior class of manufactures.

FURNITURE.—The increase in this manufacture during the past few years has been almost unprecedented, having increased more than fivefold, while in quality, style, and finish, the products of our factories cannot be surpassed. There are in the city some thirty establishments of different degrees, employing nearly five hundred men, and producing an aggregate value of $1,250,000.

FURS.—These are only worn in this mild climate because they are fashionable. To supply this demand five factories or shops are required, which affords employment to from fifty to sixty hands in the manufacturing of furs to the value of $300,000.

GLASS WORKS.—The demand for glassware, such as is produced by the two factories here, continues good. The call for bottles for the wine-growing interests of the State is steadily increasing, and is now nearly, if not quite, supplied by home manufacture, the large importations of former years from France and Germany having now almost entirely ceased. The glass works run two furnaces, thirteen pots, and employ about seventy-five men. The aggregate value of their wares is $225,000.

HATS AND CAPS.—The manufacture of hats and caps increases the value of our local products $420,000 annually, and employs in the nineteen establishments devoted to that purpose one hundred and fifteen men and women.

JEWELRY, for the adornment of man and womankind, employs nearly four hundred artisans in the production of an aggregate value of $1,225,000. The number of manufactories is forty-one.

LEAD AND SHOT.—San Francisco is fast becoming one of the most important lead-refining centers of the world. During 1874 Selly's works at North Beach produced twelve thousand tons of refined lead, from the bullion of the Cerro Gordo mines, ten thousand tons of which was exported, while at the manufactory, at the corner of Howard and First streets, there was turned off enough lead pipe, sheet lead, and shot to supply all local demands and have a handsome surplus for outside trade. The aggregate value produced by the two manufactories engaged in this industry is nearly $1,750,000.

SAW MANUFACTORIES.—"Saw up and saw down" has been the motto of the proprietors of the eight establishments engaged in this branch of manufacture, until their wares are gradually superseding all others. Located as they are in the near vicinity of the immense growth of lumber-producing trees, the wants of the State and of the Coast are fully understood, and their saws for milling purposes are without rival either in size or in quality, while in the production of hand and other smaller saws for mechanical purposes, they successfully compete with those of the famed Disston manufacture. There are now eight saw manufactories in this city, employing seventy-two men, consuming seventy-five tons of steel annually, and producing an aggregate value of nearly $200,000.

SASH, BLINDS, AND DOORS.—As a natural consequence the erection of so many buildings in the city during 1874 has had a stimulating effect upon this branch of industry. In the eight factories devoted to this interest three hundred and fifty men have been employed in working up over seven million feet of lumber, which has added nearly $500,000 to the value of our local manufactures.

SILVERWARE, in its various departments, employs sixty-five men in the manufacture of $250,000 worth of plate and other articles of household ornament and convenience.

SHIRT MANUFACTORIES.—Although these manufactories present a good showing for the past year, there is still room for a large increase. They number but eight, employ one hundred and forty-five hands, and make up annually $120,000 worth of shirts.

SHIPBUILDING.—In this most important essential to our commercial interests California, although far advanced in many other industries, is yet very far in the background. With our bays, whose deep, bold shores afford some of the finest sites for ship yards to be found on the continent; a inexhaustible supply of excellent timber suitable for such purposes, either in our own forests or so near at hand and easily accessible that it may be procured at much less cost than timber of an inferior quality can be had in the Atlantic shipbuilding States, we are yet dependent upon them, not only for those magnificent iron floating palaces, but for all the wooden bottoms which are engaged in the transportation of our immense exporting and importing interests. While we have been sleeping on from our birth to our majority, scarcely taking a step in this direction, and paying millions of dollars of freight money every year to Eastern and foreign shipowners, our younger sisters at the north, Oregon and Washington Territory, hardly out of their swaddling clothes, realizing the importance of this almost inestimable branch of industry and pillar of stability, have borne away the palm. It is true we have built a few inland steamers and small coasting schooners, the largest of which is less than three hundred tons burden. During the year 1874 there were built at and launched from California yards twenty-five schooners and seven stern-wheel and propeller steamers, having an aggregate tonnage of two thousand three hundred and ninety-two tons. The great steam ferry boat, Thoroughfare, of the Central Pacific Railroad Co., is one of the largest pieces of marine architecture yet launched from California shores. She is two hundred and sixty feet on deck, thirty-eight feet beam, with a flat bottom. She once made the trip across the bay, carrying eighteen loaded freight cars, running a distance of three and a half miles, in twenty-two minutes. The successful launching of the Western Shore from the shipyard of Simpson Bros. & Co., at Coos Bay, Oregon, has demonstrated beyond a doubt that this interest can be made a great success upon this coast. The Western Shore is the largest vessel ever constructed upon the western shore of the continent. Her dimensions are: Length of keel, one hundred and eighty feet; beam, forty-two feet; mean depth of hold, twenty-two and one half feet. Tonnage, Custom House measurement, twelve hundred tons, or more than one half the entire tonnage of all the vessels built in California during the year. The cost of construction was about $88,000, or $66.67 per ton. In the Atlantic States the cost of similar vessels is from $90 to $120 per ton. This difference in favor of the Pacific is a strong argument in favor of building our own vessels. Not only does the Pacific slope abound in most excellent timber for the construction of the hulls, but in the important auxiliary of spar timber, which cannot be equalled anywhere in the known world. It is pleasing to note, however, that this significant branch of industry, the successful development of which will result in a saving to our merchants and shippers the $13,000,000 of freight money now annually paid, an expense which is constantly increasing with the growth and prosperity of the State, has at last attracted much attention among our business men, and gained a prominence among our capitalists which promises speedy results. A project is already on foot among the capitalists of this city, looking to the establishment of a large shipbuilding industry upon the shores of our newly and dearly-acquired territory of Alaska. A petition has been presented to the Senate asking for the passage of a law giving to the petitioners the right to cut timber from off a large tract of Government land on that coast for shipbuilding purposes. The land desired borders on Hekow and Chatham straits and Prince Edward Sound, and abounds in the best quality of cedar, spruce, and pine timber. If successful in procuring the necessary legislation they propose incorporating immediately, and promise that within two years they will build a ship of twelve hundred tons burden. Some of the advantages of this coast for shipbuilding may be briefly summed up as follows: 1st. The cost of good oak, hard pine, and other timber of the best quality, is at least forty per cent less than in the Eastern States. 2d. It is the opinion of many experts that the yellow fir and Oregon pine make a vessel superior in all respects to one built of Eastern wood, being admirably adapted for shipbuilding purposes in all the requirements of strength, durability, and for holding a fastening. When properly ventilated and salted, its lasting qualities have stood the test of fifteen or twenty years, in all parts of vessels, sailing or steamers. 3d. The immense supply of magnificent spar timber, which for size, length, durability, and strength, is unrivaled. We neglected to note in its proper place the organization at Vallejo, in August, 1874, of a shipbuilding company, with a capital stock of $250,000. This company contemplates the construction of a ship of from one thousand to twelve hundred tons burden, to demonstrate the fact that if California can produce the grain she can also build the vessels for its transportation.

SLIPPERS.—The manufacture of slippers gives employment to some two hundred and fifty hands, mostly Chinese, and aggregates in value $162,500 a year. Number of factories, eighteen.

SILK.—The Union Pacific Silk Manufacturing Co., at their works in Visitacion Valley, are operating successfully in the manufacturing of sewing silk, ribbons, etc. Their works have a capacity of producing about $6,000 worth of goods weekly.

SOAP FACTORIES.—The soaps made by the twenty-three manufactories in this city are steadily increasing in favor, and gradually, but surely, decreasing the importation of Eastern and foreign goods. The number of boxes received from outside sources during 1874 was sixteen thousand and fifty-nine boxes less than in 1873, while the exports were six thousand six hundred and thirty-two boxes in excess of the preceding year. The twenty-three factories in San Francisco employ one hundred and thirty-eight hands, and make annually eight million two hundred and fifty thousand pounds of soap, valued at $215,000.

TANNERIES.—The leather interest is in a most prosperous and steadily-improving condition, an extra demand having sprung up for boot and shoe manufacturing purposes. The California hides, under the present improved system of curing, are second only to those of Buenos Ayres. The overland shipments of leather, during the first eleven months of last year, more than trebled those for the entire year of 1873, while the value of the sea exports showed a healthy increase. San Francisco has thirty-eight tanneries, employing an aggregate of two hundred and thirty men, and consuming four thousand and eight hundred cords of bark annually, in the tanning of one hundred and eighteen thousand five hundred and fifty hides, which produce leather of the value of $945,000.

TRUNKS AND VALISES also form a prominent feature in the manufacturing interests of the city, giving employment to over one hundred men, who make $210,000 worth of trunks and valises annually.

WATCH MAKING.—Although our age is confessedly fast, our country faster, and our city possibly fastest of all, even California and San Francisco have not yet become quite fast enough, nor grown sufficiently independent to discard some thoroughly reliable standard time measurer. Conscious of this necessity, and quite too proud to depend for its supply upon the older manufacturing centers of Europe or the East, several of our leading capitalists and more prominent business men, toward the close of last year, united in such representations, assurances, and other more substantial inducements, to the managers and proprietors of the Cornell Watch Co., then of Chicago, Ill., as decided those gentlemen to remove their immense establishment, with all its vast equipment of complicated and expensive machinery, from the great metropolis of the lakes, to that of the Pacific Coast. Accordingly, having rented the large east wing of the immense building, known as Kimball's Carriage Factory, on the west side of Fourth Street, between Harrison and Bryant, they successfully transported thither their complete machinery and there established the first watch factory, not only of San Francisco, but of Western North America. A quarter of a century ago, few, if any, watches were wholly manufactured in the United States, nor did the whole country then contain anything at all approaching the dimensions or dignity of a watch factory proper. And neither in this country nor in any other had any one attempted the application of machinery to the manufacture of any except a few of the very simplest parts of a watch. Within that period, however, that mechanical genius of inventive industry which sets the American baby to contriving improvements upon his own cradle, even before he is fairly out of it, having improved or remodeled every known machine of the heavier description, and invented hundreds of new ones, begun to turn its attention to the making of watches, and especially to the construction of the machines necessary to manufacture them more accurately, uniformly, and rapidly. The usual result speedily followed. Besides the numberless factories of lesser note, the country has now seven large and celebrated establishments for the manufacture of machine-made watches. These are the Waltham Co. at Waltham, Massachusetts; the Howard Watch Co., Boston, Massachusetts; the New York Co., Springfield, Massachusetts; the United States Co., Marion, N. J.; the Springfield Watch Co., Springfield, Illinois; the National Watch Co., Elgin, Illinois; and the Cornell Watch Co. (late of Chicago, Illinois) now of this city. With the machinery now in operation the factory occupies nearly one half of the building, and employs about one hundred hands, of whom one fourth are females. As soon as the remaining machinery arrives and the factory commences working to its full capacity it will occupy the whole building, give constant employment to four hundred operatives and turn out from seventy-five to one hundred watches a day, ranging in prices from ten, twenty to three hundred dollars each. As is well known the ingenious, accurate, and delicate machinery now employed in the manufacture of American watches produces even the minutest parts of their complicated machinery with an exactness, perfection, and uniformity far surpassing the finest work of the largest experienced and most successful human hand. But besides this, mathematical accuracy and uniform proportion, the machines have reduced the number of pieces or parts to less than one fifth. The old standard English fusee watch, made almost wholly by hand, had over seven hundred and fifty separate and different parts; the modern American machine-made watch has less than one hundred and fifty. In the old-fashioned hand-made watch no part of any one watch had exactly the same size and shape of the corresponding part in another; hence, in case of accident or necessary repair, no substitution or exchange of part for part could be made without perceptibly affecting the rate of the watch. In the modern American watch, as made by the Cornell Co., with the possible exception of a few of the jeweled portions and pivots specially fitted to each watch, any one of the scores of separate pieces taken from one watch fits with perfect accuracy in the corresponding place in any other of the same grade. Thus, in the event of accident, any piece lost, broken, or worn, can always be duplicated at the factory on receipt of the name of the part, and the number or kind of watch. Among the very great, if not the decisive, advantages which California presents for the establishment of a mechanical enterprise, especially one involving as much iron and steel, is the very great and almost constant dryness of the atmosphere. This alone will prove a very considerable element in the superior ease and consequently greater profit with which watches can be made in San Francisco. The Cornell Co. may reasonably expect not only to retain a large portion of its former custom east of the Rocky Mountains, but almost certainly, at no distant day, to supply the entire Pacific Coast market. Beyond this it may confidently count upon extending its trade to Mexico, Central and South America, Japan, China, and even India. As the pioneer in this valuable and important branch of mechanical enterprise we cordially welcome the Cornell Watch Co., and join with the city and the State in wishing it that annually-increasing success which shall at once equal its own desert and our confident anticipations.

WIRE AND WIRE ROPE.—Of these the city has two factories. The first, more exclusively devoted to the making of wire, is the Pacific Wire Works, at No. 437 Brannan Street. It makes wires for ropes, springs, brooms, bottles, etc., of material imported from England. Employing about twenty men, it finished and delivered, in 1874, nearly one hundred thousand pounds of wire, worth $150,000. Started less than four years since, it already commands most of the home trade. The Wire-rope Factory at North Beach thus far remains the only one upon the coast. Remodeled, enlarged, and refitted during the year, it has now a capacity of nearly two thousand tons a year. These ropes are used for extra heavy hoisting in deep mines, for the standing rigging of large ships, for traction on steep-grade street-car routes, as already noted, and in the patent Elevated Wire Tramway—if such a phrase admits of such an application. Some of these larger and longer ropes weigh from eight to nine tons. Besides these the establishment has successfully accomplished the manufacture of an aggregate length of upward of fifty miles of submarine telegraph cable for various lines in the vicinity of Puget Sound and Vancouver's Island. His entire success in these experiments encourages the proprietor in the confident prediction that his establishment will, ere long, manufacture the mammoth Pacific Submarine Telegraph Cable, which will furnish the last and grandest link in the telegraphic circuit of the world, by connecting California with Japan and China.

WOOD AND WILLOW WARE.—The manufacture of this class of wares has kept steady pace with the rapid growth of the city, and the figures for 1874 show a large increase over any preceding year, and amounts in the aggregate to $145,000, as the product of sixty-five hands employed in the two factories, which also employ steam to the amount of one hundred and twenty-horse power.

WOOLEN MILLS.—The Pioneer Woolen Mills at Black Point, originally erected in 1858, were the first to attempt to create a local industry from the then, as now, rapidly-increasing wool clip of the State, which, up to 1859, the year in which the Pioneer Mills commenced running, had been shipped abroad to find a market. The success of the enterprise having received a practical demonstration, the Pioneer Mills were followed in 1861 by the Mission Woolen Mills, located on Folsom Street, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth. These were followed at a later date by the Pacific Woolen Mills, also located on Folsom Street, between Eighteenth and Nineteenth, which have since become identical with the Mission Mills, the concern now being known as the Mission and Pacific Woolen Mills. The product of these mills comprises broad-cloths, tweeds, cassimeres, heavy army and navy blankets, shawls, cloakings, and flannels, of superior quality and finish, and hosiery. The blankets manufactured at the Mission Woolen Mills have a world-wide reputation, and cannot be equaled upon this continent. These mills employ in the aggregate nine hundred hands, in the production of two hundred thousand pairs blankets, twelve hundred dozen pairs of flannel drawers, one thousand dozen hosiery, two hundred and five thousand yards of cloths and tweeds, and one million two hundred thousand yards of flannels, from four million five hundred thousand and five hundred pounds of wool. The approximate estimated value of these manufactures is $1,300,000. We have thus briefly noted the more prominent manufactures of San Francisco, the value of which, if swelled by the large number of establishments of lesser note, gives us a grand aggregate of very nearly forty million of dollars.

Insurance Companies.

FIRE INSURANCE.—The number of companies doing a Fire or Fire and Marine Insurance business in this State, February 15, 1875, was eighty. Of these seven were California companies, fifty were companies of other States of the Union, thirteen of Great Britain, four of Germany, four of China, and two of Switzerland.

LIFE INSURANCE.—At the last session of the Legislature the Insurance Laws of the State of California were amended by the enactment of certain provisions which had the effect to cause nearly all the Life Insurance companies of other States, then having agencies in this, to suspend operations within its limits. Section 419 of the new Civil Code provides that any Insurance Co., whether of this or any other State, in order to become legally authorized to transact business in California, must have a paid-up capital equal to $200,000, at least, and that this capital must always be maintained intact. This, with sundry other provisions, all of which had simply the effect to place all foreign companies upon precisely the same footing as our own home companies, resulted in the withdrawal of their agencies from this State on the part of all the outside companies then doing business within it, except four, which are the only ones now authorized by law to issue policies of Life Insurance in California. These are the National Life Insurance Co. of the United States of America, Chicago, Ill.; New England Mutual Life Insurance Co., Boston, Mass.; Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co., Milwaukee, Wis.; Union Mutual Life Insurance Co., Maine. These, with the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Co., of Sacramento, the only home company now doing Life Insurance business in the State, constitute the only five Life Insurance companies which can now legally issue new policies. Besides these, seven companies of those formerly having agencies here, the Ætna, of Hartford, Conn.; The Germania and the Manhattan, of New York; The Life Assurance of America, of St. Louis, Mo.; the New Jersey Mutual, of Newark, N. J.; the Piedmont and Arlington, of Richmond, Va., and The Widow and Orphans' Fund, of Nashville, Tenn., are now legally authorized to collect renewal premiums only.

The aggregate business, Fire and Marine, for the year 1874, is as follows: Insurance written, $258,544,359; premiums received, $4,448,033.02; losses paid, $1,098,406.49; ratio of losses to premiums, 24.7. Of this amount the California companies transacted the following: Insurance written, $98,562,279.58; premiums received, $1,771,548.86; losses paid, $541,217.33; ratio of losses to premiums, 30.55. The diminished ratio of losses paid to the amount of insurance written, and the amount of premiums received, shows a marked improvement in the business of property insurance in this State during the year 1874, as compared with that of the two preceding years.

Banks and Banking.

No one ever saw a California bank note. Eastern visitors and newly-arrived residents remark, with surprise, the complete absence of notes issued by California banks. The State has no Banks of Issue. Her Constitution forbids them. The only establishments within her limits which may issue notes for general circulation are the two national gold-note banks, the First National Gold Bank, and the National Gold Bank and Trust Co., established by the authority and operating under the regulations of the General Government. General Commercial Banks of Deposit, Loan, Discount, and General Financial Accommodation are sufficiently numerous and prosperous. The aggregate of bank capital and deposits, December 31, 1874, was $54,953,337 (of which the two National Gold Banks had over $5,000,000), an increase of $8,919,093 over the preceding year. Besides regular banks, the city has a considerable number of Land and Loan Associations or organizations which are really doing much of the legitimate work of banks without formally assuming the name. Of the financial sagacity which characterizes the general management of our leading banks one may gain a tolerably satisfactory idea from the dividends paid by our leading local banks during 1874, which were as follows: Bank of California, $600,000; First National Gold Bank, $180,000; Merchant's Exchange Bank, $160,000; National Gold Bank and Trust Co., $150,000; Pioneer Land and Loan Association, $13,920. The total amount of paid-up working capital in the commercial banks of the city is about $17,500,000. A considerable portion of this finds employment in assisting the movement or transfer of the immense crops throughout the entire State, and in more or less close connection with the mining operations of our own and neighboring States and Territories.

SAVINGS BANKS.—These are the true indices of the general pecuniary prosperity of the great masses. One may safely judge the monetary condition of the whole community from the records and returns of its institutions of savings. In these he may read the industry, economy, and sobriety of the great working classes, that immense "Third Estate," whose condition more surely than that of any other shows the true growth and the real status of the community. We subjoin a tabulated list of the condition of the San Francisco Savings Banks, as shown by their last semi-annual reports:

Population of San Francisco, March 1, 1875.

The following estimate of the population of this city has been prepared from careful investigation made during the progress of the canvass for the present volume and other reliable data; and in directing attention thereto, the compiler believes that the aggregate presented is a fair approximation to the actual number:

White Males over twenty-one.....	77,206
White Females over eighteen (estimated).....	44,000
White Males under twenty-one (estimated).....	43,572
White Females under eighteen (estimated).....	37,804
White Males, names refused, and foreigners not taken in the canvass (estimated).....	1,750
Chinese, Male and Female.....	19,000
Colored, Male and Female.....	1,800
Total permanent Population.....	225,132
To which should be added a large element of our population known as "floating," which consists of: 1st. Transient boarders, etc., at hotels, boarding houses, etc. 2d. Soldiers at the fortifications in the harbor. 3d. Persons engaged navigating the bay, who claim this city as their residence. 4th. Inmates of Alms House, Hospitals, and other charitable institutions, County Jail, etc. 5th. A large number of persons who have no permanent place of abode, together amounting to about.....	5,000
Total Population, March 1, 1875.....	230,132

The estimate of the males over twenty-one in the above table is based upon the aggregate of names contained in the present volume, as follows: The number of references in the register of names is 87,192, of which 76,206 are male residents of this city. These figures are exclusive of numerous lists of names included in the Business Directory and the Appendix, containing the names of officers of societies, incorporations, etc., not obtained in the regular canvass, estimated at 1,000, making a total of 77,206. The two latter named departments of the Directory are compiled from information collected just previous to the publication of the work, and include many names not to be found in the regular list.

The number of females over eighteen is estimated at 44,000, upon the basis of the Federal Census of 1870. The number of females of all ages enumerated, as published in this city, amounts to 61,577, of which 23,261 are under fifteen years. According to the average of the Census throughout the United States, about sixteen per cent of the number under fifteen (3,721) should be added thereto to represent the element between sixteen and eighteen, inclusive, which would give an average as follows: Under eighteen, 26,982; eighteen and over, 34,595. The difference between the last-named figures (34,595) and those included in the table (44,000), amounting to 9,405, will not be considered an over-estimate for the increase since August, 1870. Estimated increase for the year ending February 28, 1875, 4,900. Of this number, at least 2,000 have been contributed by the Eastern immigration alone.

The estimates of males under twenty-one, and the females under eighteen, are based upon the returns published in the San Francisco Directory for 1874. According to the figures referred to the aggregate of these two elements was 73,978; or, males, 39,611; females, 34,367. Estimating an increase of ten per cent for the past year, 7,398, would give as a total 81,376; or, males, 43,572; females, 37,804.

The remainder of the data in our estimate explains itself, and to those who are acquainted with the different elements referred to therein, the figures relating thereto will not be considered over-estimated.

The aggregate of the present year (230,132), as compared with that of last year (200,700), exhibits a gain of 29,432, or about fifteen per cent, a much greater percentage of increase than has taken place for a similar period since 1850.

The number of names enumerated in the register of the present volume (77,206) exhibits an increase over the number published in the San Francisco Directory for 1874 (63,092) of 12,114, or nearly nineteen per cent, a remarkable and unmistakable evidence of the rapid and prosperous growth of the city. Assuming that each name published in a reliable Directory represents three persons, our population on this basis aggregates 231,618.

Meteorological Observations made at San Francisco, from November, 1850, to March, 1875.

BY HENRY GIBBONS, M.D.

In the following tables the reader will find, in a condensed form, the results of twenty-four years' diligent observation of the climate of San Francisco, with more particular reference to rain.

Rain has fallen in every month of the year. In July it has rained only in one year; August has furnished rain in four years; June in seven years; September in twelve years; October in sixteen years. No account is made of a mere sprinkle, nor of the deposit of summer mist. The greatest quantity of mist which ever falls in twenty-four hours is about three hundredths of an inch. But this quantity is very rare. Near the ocean the mist is much more copious.

The driest season was 1850-51, which gave only seven inches. Next to that was 1863-64, with eight and one half inches. The winter of 1867-68 gave the most rain—forty inches. The average is between twenty-one and twenty-two inches.

The earliest setting in of the rainy season was October 8; the latest, January 12. An early beginning and an abundant supply are apt to go together, but there is no rule in this respect—the latest beginnings have been followed by an average supply.

The average date of the beginning of the rainy season is November 28; of the termination, April 10. March is as certain to bring rain in liberal amount as any other month. In one year out of every three there is no rain of importance after March. The last showers of the season come, with remarkable uniformity, about the third week of May.

The middle of January is the average dividing point of the rainy season. The mean quantity before January 1 is about equal to the mean quantity after January 31.

December gives the greatest average quantity; January is not far behind; February, March, and November come next, and are nearly alike; then April, May, and October, in the order named.

The greatest amount of rain in any one month was in January, 1862, when there fell the enormous quantity of eighteen inches.

It is worthy of note that in the driest seasons there has been an abundant supply for agricultural purposes, had it been distributed evenly. Three inches in December, with one inch in each of the four following months, would answer all purposes.

The rain table of San Francisco may be made the basis for estimating the fall in other parts of the State. The mountains of the north have from two to three times as much, and the southern section of the State about half as much, or even less in some localities. The valley of the Sacramento has nearly the same quantity as San Francisco; that of the San Joaquin one fourth or one third less, the quantity diminishing southward.

By reference to the tables showing the extremes of heat and cold, it appears that the coldest weather was in January, 1854, when the mercury fell to 25°. At that time the mud in the streets was frozen solid, and the shallow ponds were covered with ice strong enough for boys to skate on. But such weather is extremely rare, though since that time the ground has been frozen several times so as not to thaw fully in the shade for a day or two. The coldest noonday embraced in the record was 37°. Often the entire winter passes by without bringing the thermometer so low as the freezing point. In 1853 it fell at no time below 40°.

The extreme of heat was on the tenth and eleventh of September, 1852, when the thermometer reached 97° and 98° on the two days, respectively. This, however, was entirely exceptional, and might not occur again in half a century; the air was dry as a sirocco, and caused the woodwork of houses to crackle and the plaster to break on the wooden walls.

With the exception just noted, the hottest day on record was 93° on the sixth day of July, 1867. In October, 1864, and in September, 1863, it reached 91°, and in July, 1855, it reached 90°. Thus it appears there were only six days in twenty-four years when the thermometer rose as high as 90°.

The table of mean temperature shows that our summer does not come till the summer months have passed by. September is the warmest month in the year, and October next; then comes August; July, the hottest month elsewhere, is the fourth here, or links with June; next come April and May; then March and November; then February, and, finally, January and December, which are the only winter months, if indeed we have any weather that deserves the name of winter.

Twice the ground has been covered with snow. On the twenty-ninth of December, 1856, it snowed very fast for several hours, and two or three inches gathered, but it melted before night. On the twelfth of January, 1868, it snowed fast before day, so that two inches collected. But it disappeared before sunrise, so that few persons enjoyed the rare spectacle.

The extraordinary evenness of the climate depends on the adjacent ocean, the water of which, flowing in a current from the north, is always at a temperature of about 52°, summer and winter. The sea breeze of summer, which chills the air at noonday, leaves no place for hot nights. There is not, on an average, one night in the year when it is warm enough to sit out of doors at midnight with comfort.

PUBLIC STREETS, AVENUES, SQUARES, PLACES,

OF THE CONSOLIDATED

CITY OF SAN FRANCISCO,*

IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE OFFICIAL MAPS, 1868, 1870 AND 1872.

EXPLANATORY.—The Ordinance for re-numbering the buildings of this city provides that "Market Street shall be the starting point for the numbers of all buildings fronting on the streets running therefrom in a northerly direction and also for those running therefrom in a southeasterly direction. The streets laid down in the official map of the city as forming the water front thereof shall be the starting point for numbers on all streets running westerly and southwesterly therefrom, except upon such streets running westerly commencing from Market Street, and upon all such streets, Market Street shall be the starting point for numbers. On all streets the numbers on the right hand side, starting from the point of beginning, are even numbers, and on the left hand side, odd numbers. One hundred numbers, or as many thereof as may be necessary, shall be allotted to each block bounded by principal streets; numbers 100, 200 and 300 being respectively the numbers for commencing the blocks distant one, two and three streets from the starting point on the side designated for even numbers, and numbers 101, 201 and 301, in similar manner for the opposite side of the street, throughout its extent; so that the initial figure of the number placed on a building at any street-crossing shall indicate the number of main streets such street-crossing is from the starting point. Not less than twenty feet in frontage of all vacant lots of ground shall be allowed for each number. On all cross or intermediate streets the numbering shall commence where said streets begin, and shall conform to the plan specified in this Order."

By this new decimal system of numbering buildings, the exact location of any number is readily ascertained; for example, if you want to find 624 Montgomery, it is on the east side of the block extending from Clay to Washington, which is the seventh from Market—Commercial and Merchant being private streets. Again: 825 Clay is above the eighth block from the water front, which is the one extending from Dupont to Stockton. It must be borne in mind that one hundred numbers are allowed on each block between principal streets.

Several of the principal streets have been erroneously numbered. Bryant, Greenwich, Lombard and Vallejo each vary one hundred from the official map, which has been strictly adhered to in the compilation of the present Street Directory. In every instance where an incorrect number has been used, the correct one has been included in the canvass. To prevent confusion the wrong number has been added and enclosed in a parenthesis, thus (1796). The following streets are but partially opened, and each differ materially from the plan originally laid out, viz: Clementina, Ecker, Jessie, Minna, Natoma, Ritch, Shipley, Stevenson and Tehama.

The principal streets southeast of Market, and running parallel to Fifth, have been, by an Ordinance of the city, changed, and they are to be designated hereafter numerically, as follows: Simmons to be Sixth, Harris as Seventh, Price as Eighth, Johnston as Ninth, and so on as far as such parallel streets continue.

The territory lying west of Laurel Hill and Odd Fellows' Cemetery, and generally known as the Outside Lands, has been recently surveyed, and is designated on the new official City and County Map as avenues and streets. Those running north and south are named respectively from First to Forty-ninth avenues, and those running east and west, from First Avenue to the Ocean, and parallel with Point Lobos Avenue, A to W streets. There are a few avenues and streets outside of the boundaries of the foregoing, the names of which will be found included in the Street Directory.

Reference is frequently made in the Register of Names to the following, and which are located as follows: Hoadey's Addition, situated west of Pierce and between Geary and Washington; Horner's Addition, south and near the Mission Dolores; Western Addition, west of Larkin; San Miguel Ranch, southwest and near the Mission Dolores; Bernal Heights (B. H.), south of Twenty-sixth Street, between San Bruno and San José roads; and University Mound Tract (U. M. T.), west of San Bruno Road, five miles from the City Hall. See, also, Prominent Places, page 83.

H., Bernal Heights. U. M. T., University Mound Tract. S. S. F., South San Francisco. A blank is used where the number at the crossing of a street could not be ascertained.
